ONE POTATO . . .

Someone apparently thinks this load of potatoes, dumped from a truck in San Rafael early today, is worth more than meets the eye. A security guard was hired to watch over the load, which spilled from a truck on the San Quentin overpass of Highway 101, then swept to an island below by highway crews. The California Highway Patrol said the potatoes tumbled at 2:30 a.m. from a truck driven by Robert Whitley, 36, of Arbuckle, Colusa County.

Job Safety Law Signed By Nixon

Nation's First Guidelines Take Effect In 3 Months

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon today signed the Occupational Health and Safety Act, the first national guidelines designed to stem the rising number of job-related deaths and injuries.

The new law, a major goal of organized labor in the 91st Congress, sets nationwide job health and safety standards for 55 million workers. It is aimed at combatting an annual job death rate of 14,500, in addition to 2 million job-related injuries.

Nixon signed the bill during ceremonies at the Labor Department.

The law provides that the secretary of labor will draft, with advice from labor and business groups, a set of health and safety standards. He also will administer the standards through Labor Department inspectors.

An independent three-member board, appointed by the President and subject to Senate confirmation, will enforce the standards.

The law represented only half-a-loaf for labor, which wanted standard-setting and enforcement left to the labor secretary while the administration and business groups wanted an independent board to set standards and a second separate board to enforce them.

The new standards, when fully effective, will affect every industry not now covered by federal standards, such as railroads and mines, and will supersede state standards if they are not at least as tough as the new federal regulations.

The law provides that 120 days from today, an "interim" set of standards, consisting of the current regulations affecting railroads and mines as well as so-called "national consensus" health and safety standards enacted voluntarily by industry, will prevail nationwide until the permanent new regulations are drafted by the secretary.

Employers cited for violations can appeal to the three-member enforcement board and if still not satisfied can seek relief in the courts.

Inspectors may also go to the enforcement board to appeal for an immediate shutdown of plants where they find there is "imminent danger" to workers.

The enforcement board can assess fines up to $1,000 per violation for each day the violation continues uncorrected. Any employer who took action against an employe filing a complaint under the new law could be fined up to $10,000 and anyone who obstructed an inspector could be fined up to $10,000 and jailed up to 10 years, or both.

Egypt Sees War Threat; Israel Firm

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli Premier Golda Meir today outlined a tough bargaining position in the forthcoming Middle East peace talks and said U.S. military aid had made Israel stronger than ever before. In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat prepared his nation for the possibility of a new war if talks fail.

Sadat raised doubts the cease-fire scheduled to expire Feb. 5 would be renewed. He said it would be only if there was "serious progress" in the peace talks.

Mrs. Meir, in a speech to the Israeli Knesset (Parliament) in Jerusalem, said not a single Israeli soldier would be withdrawn from occupied Arab territory until a binding contractual peace agreement is signed.

She said Israel was determined to stand firm at the peace talks —and in its talks with the United States —on these points: Israel's right to defensible, agreed and recognized borders; a united Jerusalem as the capital of Israel; no withdrawal from lands captured in 1967 until a peace treaty is signed; Israel will oppose any change in terms of reference of the peace mission of mediator Gunnar V. Jarring no matter in what form they may be presented; and Israel will oppose any attempt by the four big powers to guide Jarring in his peace mission.

"We will never surrender under any circumstances because it is more honorable to die on our feet defending our land and honor than to live in

Angela Huddles With Attorneys

Angela Y. Davis spent three hours yesterday closeted with five lawyers apparently working out arrangements for a legal staff to defend her on murder, kidnapping and conspiracy charges.

John J. Abt, New York attorney who defended Miss Davis in New York extradition proceedings but who has declared he will not represent her in Marin, said only, "We're making progress. That's all I can say now."

Other attorneys with whom the 26-year-old avowed Communist talked were Margaret Burnham of New York, a childhood friend who also has said she will not participate in the Marin case, and Bay Area attorneys Allan Brotsky, Dennis J. Roberts and Michael Tigar.

Brotsky is associated with Charles Garry, who has defended a number of Black Panther Party members.

The lawyers yesterday received permission from Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court to hold the conference in a large squad room in the sheriff's department, one floor below the county jail where Miss Davis is a prisoner.

They told the judge it was not possible for the five of the them to squeeze into small rooms at the jail which are normally used by attorneys visiting clients.

The former philosophy instructor's trip in an elevator down the one floor was made under heavy security with officers standing guard inside and outside the room where the meeting was held.

Miss Davis is scheduled to go to court again next Tuesday along with Ruchell Magee, San Quentin convict accused with her in connection with the Aug. 7 shootout at the Hall of Justice.

In preparation for the court session, a holding cell off the courtroom has been fitted with a communications system so that a disruptive defendant could be placed there and still hear court proceedings.

Basques' Fate Up To Franco

BURGOS, Spain (UPI)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco met with his cabinet in extraordinary session for three hours today but delayed a decision on whether to commute death sentences imposed on six Basque nationalists.

There were growing demands from many European governments including the Vatican that he commute the sentences, but an official announcement said Franco delayed action until Capt.-Gen. Tomas Garcia Rebull, commander of the Burgos military district, considers defense appeals and decides whether to sign the sentences.

Six of the 16 defendants in Burgos were sentenced to die for murder and banditry. Nine others received prison sentences ranging from 12 years to 72. One woman defendant was acquitted.

Experts Sniff At Cold Cure Claim

By CRAIG A. PALMER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Dr. Linus Pauling says in a book that vitamin C is a sure-fire preventive for man's most intractable disease, the common cold. His book is selling, but medical experts aren't buying his claim.

Pauling, a two-time Nobel Prize winner, said in his book, "Vitamin C and the Common Cold," that the cold can "be controlled almost entirely in the United States and some other countries within a few years through improvement of the nutrition of the people by an adequate intake of ascorbic acid" —vitamin C.

The medical community, including the National Institute of Health, the American Medical Association, the Food and Drug Administration and apparently even pharmaceutical companies, disagree.

Dr. Charles C. Edwards, FDA commissioner, was emphatic. The run on drug stores for vitamin C since publication of the noted chemist's book was ridiculous, Edwards said.

"There is no scientific evidence and never have been any meaningful studies indicating vitamin C is capable of preventing or curing colds," he said. Pauling will meet with FDA officials —at their request —the week of Jan. 11 to discuss his claims.

A spokesman for the American Medical Association said, "the AMA has seen no scientific evidence that vitamin C will prevent or cure the common cold."

Enthusiasm for prevention is fanned by statistics which show Americans spend $55 million a year for cold cures, lose 32 million days of work and 36 million school days because of colds, and suffer cold-induced financial losses of $736 million to $15 billion to a year.

Pauling, 69, said he hoped his book's arguments would prompt the NIH and other agencies to "allocate large sums of money to support studies of this sort, as is justified by the importance of the common cold as a cause of discomfort and disability."

Dr. Dorland J. Davis, director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases within NIH, told UPI Vitamin C will be studied as a possible cure but finding a vaccine for colds still had top priority in his agency.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Jet Crash Kills 2

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, Virgin Islands (UPI) — As the Trans-Caribbean Airways 727 jetliner touched down at Harry S. Truman International Airport, the 55 persons aboard heard a cracking noise and the plane broke up and burst into flames.

Fifty-three managed to crawl and scramble to safety. Two died in the wreckage.

The jet was arriving on a flight from New York after a stop at San Juan, P.R., when it crash-landed Monday afternoon.

Federal Aviation Administration FAA investigators arrived from Miami Monday night and there was speculation the plane may have been trying to gain altitude for another approach after the pilot misjudged the first approach. FAA officials refused comment.

The two dead were identified as Victor Vanyo, 10, and his father, John Vanyo, of Berkeley Heights, N.J. Vanyo's wife, three daughters and an infant son were among the 20 persons hospitalized.

Canadian Arrests

MONTREAL (UPI) — Its 85-day kidnap crisis finally ended, the Canadian government gave no immediate indication today when it would restore the civil liberties suspended more than two months ago.

And it was not immediately clear how seriously the government's unprecedented crackdown against the Quebec Liberation Front had damaged the terrorist-separatist group. The confrontation between the federal government and the Quebec separatists — both peaceful and violent — appeared certain to continue.

Police Monday raided a snowbound isolated farmhouse in St. Luc, 25 miles south of Montreal, and captured brothers Jacques and Paul Rose and Francis Simard, charged with abducting and murdering Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

The arrests climaxed the most intense manhunt in Canada's history, launched with the promise by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau of "unceasing pursuit" of Laporte's killers. A fourth man, Michael Viger, 30, also was arrested, but he was not sought in Laporte's abduction.

Leningrad Case

MOSCOW (UPI) — Defense lawyers have been summoned to Moscow to begin appeal proceedings against death and prison sentences given the 11 defendants in the Leningrad hijack trial last week, dissident sources said today.

The sources, who have contacts among family and friends of the defendants, said the appeal process was scheduled to begin Wednesday morning at the Supreme Court of the Russian Federation. The report could not be officially confirmed.

A hearing before the Russian Federation Supreme Court is the first step in any appeal for cases tried in the federation, largest of the 15 constituent republics of the Soviet Union.

The next step is the supreme court of the USSR, and the death sentences may be appealed to the Supreme parliament which has the power to commute the sentences as an act of executive clemency.

Turkish Flare-up

ANKARA (UPI) — Two Turkish policemen guarding the U.S. Embassy were critically wounded by pistol fire today in another outbreak of anti-American feeling believed licked with widespread student disorders in Ankara and Istanbul.

Police said the shots came from a taxi which drove past the embassy entrance at 5 a.m. and that the two guards, Vahap Cinar, 26, and Nuri Selcuk, 30, were in critical condition from multiple bullet wounds.

Nixon To Form Trade Council

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Formation of a U.S. international economic council to deal with other nations in the field of trade, foreign aid and other monetary matters soon will be announced by President Nixon.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the President's press secretary, said Monday the new council would be formed in "the very near future" and would have a standing similar to that of the National Security Council and the Domestic Council.

The council would deal with tax treaties, aviation and international commodity agreements. Ziegler said there had been a lack of central direction in dealing with the issues.

Hunt For Funds To Throw Away

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Finding funds to clean up the litter from two civic New Year's celebrations is bothering City Hall.

"Right now we don't have the funds to sweep up after the Chinatown parade," assistant city administrator Thomas Miller said Monday.

That celebration comes the night of Jan. 26 and the city has just juggled accounts to get up $10,600 to pay overtime to clean streets after this Thursday night's celebration.

Meg Denies Rumors

LONDON (UPI) — A spokesman for Princess Margaret today called "certainly not true" a Washington newspaper report she and Lord Snowdon have agreed to separate and divorce.

The denial was issued by Clarence House, which handles all news queries concerning Queen Mother Elizabeth, who lives there, and Princess Margaret.

Margaret, 40, has been spending Christmas at Windsor Castle with her older sister, Queen Elizabeth. She was expected back in London later today.

Laird On Army

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says achievement of the Nixon administration's goal of an all-volunteer army by 1973 will depend on giving servicemen better pay and other benefits.

In a year-end news conference Monday, Laird said he was confident increased recruiting would allow cuts in draft calls during 1971. He did not predict how big the reduction would be. The military conscripted 163,500 men this year.

Saigon Ruckus

SAIGON (UPI) — Militant South Vietnamese students threw three Molotov cocktails and burned a U.S. Army bus in the Cholon district of Saigon today. No one was injured, authorities said.

U.S. and South Vietnamese military and civilian police quickly moved in and broke up the group of about 100 stone-throwing student demonstrators who tossed the gasoline bombs just outside a student union headquarters on Minh Mang Street, about half a block from the main American post exchange.

Police said the students charged out of the headquarters at about 3 p.m. and set the bus ablaze as it tried to pass through them en route from a stop at the PX to downtown Saigon.

Jobless Funds Almost Gone

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —An estimated 22,000 Californians receiving federal unemployment insurance looked to Congress this week to appropriate money for them or face a "temporary interruption" of payments.

The State Human Resources Development Department issued a warning during the weekend to the recipients to be prepared for the interruption because federal funds for the benefits "are nearly exhausted."

However, an HRD official said if Congress approves the funds, no break in payments will occur. Federal jobless pay is given to U.S. government employes and ex-servicemen. California State Unemployment Insurance benefits would not be affected.

SANITY TEST DENIED

My Lai Defendant Charged

ATLANTA (UPI) — Spec. 4 Robert W. T'Souvas, who faces two murder charges in connection with the alleged My Lai massacre was one of 17 persons charged with a shotgun slaying today in Atlanta's hippie district.

T'Souvas, 21, of San Francisco, and 16 other "hippie types," were charged with the murder of Barney Lei McSherry, 24, a police spokesman said.

Officers said McSherry, a 6-foot-7 bearded motorcyclist nicknamed "Tree," was found dead today in Atlanta's hippie area. He had been struck in the face by a shotgun blast.

Police fear the death may be an outgrowth of long-seething hostilities between hippies and motorcyclists.

T'Souvas is also charged with the machinegun deaths of two unidentified Vietnamese civilians at My Lai. He will undergo another pre-trial session here at Ft. McPherson Jan. 12, with his court-martial to follow.

Officers said they arrested 20 men and women, including T-Souvas, in a house where they were staying in the hippie district, but only 17 of them were charged with murder.

Police said they searched the house, confiscated 18 Molotov cocktails, one stick of dynamite, two shotguns, seven rifles, four pistols, several television sets, stereo sets, a quantity of suspected drugs and $3,100 in cash.

74 Reds Killed In Cambodian Battle

SAIGON (UPI)—A South Vietnamese infantry battalion killed 74 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops early today in halting a major Communist assault on a town just inside the Cambodian border. The South Vietnamese lost 10 killed and 36 wounded.

Military spokesmen said the three-hour battle was at the town of A Bas, on Highway 6 and 80 miles north-northwest of Saigon and 85 miles east-northeast of Phnom Penh.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said Cambodian troops almost at the same time killed 50 Communist troops and wounded 100 others in a battle for control of Highway 4, the nation's only land link with the port of Kompong Som.

Allied fighter-bombers and artillery supported the South Vietnamese troops in the battle near A Bas and the government troops reported capturing six crew-served and eight individual weapons along with ammunition, explosives and mines.

Scientist Sounds Alarm Over Mercury Poisoning

CHICAGO (UPI) — A scientist reported Monday that as much as half the mercury used by industry disappeared into the environment between 1945 and 1958. He called for an immediate survey to determine what foods Americans can eat without fear of mercury poisoning.

Dr. Barry Commoner of Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., made the report to the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Commoner said that although major efforts to cut mercury pollution have helped, the problem of removing mercury from lake, river and ocean beds remains and measurement of mercury pollution in other areas, such as the air, has only begun.

He criticized both the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and scientists themselves for failing to recognize the problem earlier.

Digest Contests Held Misleading

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission today accused the Reader's Digest of misleading the public with 11 promotional sweepstakes which were less than half as rich as advertised.

The commission also charged the magazine with using in its advertising the names and addresses of winners without their permission.

The commission announced a proposed order which would require Reader's Digest, in all future sweepstakes, to award all prizes of the value and type advertised and to use names only with prior written consent. The order also would require the magazine to reveal the long odds against winning.

Reader's Digest may accept the order or demand a hearing on the charges.

The commission said in 11 sweepstakes conducted since January, 1966, the magazine claimed winners would receive 699,293 prizes worth $5,645,000 but that only 274,282 prizes worth about $2,530,700 were awarded.

All 11 contests were of the "you may already have won" variety in which millions of tickets, each bearing a printed number, were mailed to prospective purchasers of Reader's Digest magazine and other of the firm's products. Winning numbers were drawn before the tickets were mailed.

The commission said if a winning ticket was returned, the prize was awarded but if the ticket was not returned, the prize was not awarded.

High Officials To Attend Rivers' Rite

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI)— Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, the chairman of the House Armed service Committee and champion of military might, will be laid to rest Wednesday in the swampy low country where he was born.

President Nixon will send a personal representative and the funeral services beginning at 1 p.m. EST at the Grace Episcopal Church here is expected to draw other national and state leaders and crowds of friends and relatives.

Rivers, 65, died early Monday in Birmingham, Ala., after undergoing open heart surgery 17 days earlier. His body was flown to Charleston Monday afternoon.

The body will lie in respose in Grace Episcopal Church today and the church will remain open all night.

Following the ceremony Rivers will be buried at St. Stephen, a small town some 40 miles north of Charleston. He will be laid to rest near the graves of his parents in the swampy low country.

Rivers' death brought a flood of messages from national and state leaders, expressing sorrow at the passing of a man described by Nixon as "a friend upon whom I could rely in times of great difficulty."

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird is expected to represent Nixon at the funeral. Of Rivers, Laird said "men and women in uniform have never had a more dedicated champion."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said that as head of the Armed Services Committee, Rivers' leadership was "an inestimable source of strength to the cause of American national security."

"His tenacity of mind and spirit served the American people during a prolonged period of international conflict and crisis," Agnew said.

House Majority Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., said Rivers' death took from the House "one of its most brilliant and talented members."

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Rivers "dedicated himself to ensuring that his nation and countrymen could enjoy the blessings of freedom and security."

Gov. Robert E. McNair Monday proclaimed a period of mourning across South Carolina until Rivers' funeral, and ordered flags lowered to half staff.

Vandalism At Middle School

Vandals broke into Santa Venetia Middle School during the weekend and caused $500 damage by breaking windows and attempting to set fire to classroom desks.

The damage was discovered yesterday morning by a school employee checking the building, closed for the Christmas holiday.

Supt. John F. Plank said it still was unknown whether anything of value had been stolen. His estimate of the cost included $250 to clean up the mess.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Jet Crash Kills 2

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, Virgin Islands (UPI) — As the Trans-Caribbean Airways 727 jetliner touched down at Harry S. Truman International Airport, the 55 persons aboard heard a cracking noise and the plane broke up and burst into flames.

Fifty-three managed to crawl and scramble to safety. Two died in the wreckage.

Federal Aviation Administration FAA investigators arrived from Miami Monday night and there was speculation the plane may have been trying to gain altitude for another approach after the pilot misjudged the first approach. FAA officials refused comment.

The two dead were identified as Victor Vanyo, 10, and his father, John Vanyo, of Berkeley Heights, N.J. Vanyo's wife, three daughters and an infant son were among the 20 persons hospitalized.

Canadian Arrests

MONTREAL (UPI) — Its 85-day kidnap crisis finally ended, the Canadian government gave no immediate indication today when it would restore the civil liberties suspended more than two months ago.

And it was not immediately clear how seriously the government's unprecedented crackdown against the Quebec Liberation Front had damaged the terrorist-separatist group. The confrontation between the federal government and the Quebec separatists — both peaceful and violent — appeared certain to continue.

Police Monday raided a snowbound isolated farmhouse in St. Luc, 25 miles south of Montreal, and captured brothers Jacques and Paul Rose and Francis Simard, charged with abducting and murdering Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

The arrests climaxed the most intense manhunt in Canada's history, launched with the promise by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau of "unceasing pursuit" of Laporte's killers. A fourth man, Michael Viger, 30, also was arrested, but he was not sought in Laporte's abduction.

Leningrad Case

MOSCOW (UPI) — Defense lawyers have been summoned to Moscow to begin appeal proceedings against death and prison sentences given the 11 defendants in the Leningrad hijack trial last week, dissident sources said today.

The sources, who have contacts among family and friends of the defendants, said the appeal process was scheduled to begin Wednesday morning at the Supreme Court of the Russian Federation. The report could not be officially confirmed.

A hearing before the Russian Federation Supreme Court is the first step in any appeal for cases tried in the federation, largest of the 15 constituent republics of the Soviet Union.

The next step is the supreme court of the USSR, and the death sentences may be appealed to the Supreme parliament which has the power to commute the sentences as an act of executive clemency.

Turkish Flare-up

ANKARA (UPI) — Two Turkish policemen guarding the U.S. Embassy were critically wounded by pistol fire today in another outbreak of anti-American feeling believed licked with widespread student disorders in Ankara and Istanbul.

Police said the shots came from a taxi which drove past the embassy entrance at 5 a.m. and that the two guards, Vahap Cinar, 26, and Nuri Selcuk, 30, were in critical condition from multiple bullet wounds.

Nixon To Form Trade Council

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Formation of a U.S. international economic council to deal with other nations in the field of trade, foreign aid and other monetary matters soon will be announced by President Nixon.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the President's press secretary, said Monday the new council would be formed in "the very near future" and would have a standing similar to that of the National Security Council and the Domestic Council.

The council would deal with tax treaties, aviation and international commodity agreements. Ziegler said there had been a lack of central direction in dealing with the issues.

Hunt For Funds To Throw Away

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Finding funds to clean up the litter from two civic New Year's celebrations is bothering City Hall.

"Right now we don't have the funds to sweep up after the Chinatown parade," assistant city administrator Thomas Miller said Monday.

That celebration comes the night of Jan. 26 and the city has just juggled accounts to get up $10,600 to pay overtime to clean streets after this Thursday night's celebration.

Meg Denies Rumors

LONDON (UPI) — A spokesman for Princess Margaret today called "certainly not true" a Washington newspaper report she and Lord Snowdon have agreed to separate and divorce.

The denial was issued by Clarence House, which handles all news queries concerning Queen Mother Elizabeth, who lives there, and Princess Margaret.

Margaret, 40, has been spending Christmas at Windsor Castle with her older sister, Queen Elizabeth. She was expected back in London later today.

Laird On Army

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says achievement of the Nixon administration's goal of an all-volunteer army by 1973 will depend on giving servicemen better pay and other benefits.

In a year-end news conference Monday, Laird said he was confident increased recruiting would allow cuts in draft calls during 1971. He did not predict how big the reduction would be. The military conscripted 163,500 men this year.

Saigon Ruckus

SAIGON (UPI) — Militant South Vietnamese students threw three Molotov cocktails and burned a U.S. Army bus in the Cholon district of Saigon today. No one was injured, authorities said.

U.S. and South Vietnamese military and civilian police quickly moved in and broke up the group of about 100 stone-throwing student demonstrators who tossed the gasoline bombs just outside a student union headquarters on Minh Mang Street, about half a block from the main American post exchange.

Police said the students charged out of the headquarters at about 3 p.m. and set the bus ablaze as it tried to pass through them en route from a stop at the PX to downtown Saigon.

Jobless Funds Almost Gone

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —An estimated 22,000 Californians receiving federal unemployment insurance looked to Congress this week to appropriate money for them or face a "temporary interruption" of payments.

The State Human Resources Development Department issued a warning during the weekend to the recipients to be prepared for the interruption because federal funds for the benefits "are nearly exhausted."

However, an HRD official said if Congress approves the funds, no break in payments will occur. Federal jobless pay is given to U.S. government employes and ex-servicemen. California State Unemployment Insurance benefits would not be affected.

SANITY TEST DENIED

My Lai Defendant Charged

ATLANTA (UPI) — Spec. 4 Robert W. T'Souvas, who faces two murder charges in connection with the alleged My Lai massacre was one of 17 persons charged with a shotgun slaying today in Atlanta's hippie district.

T'Souvas, 21, of San Francisco, and 16 other "hippie-types," were charged with the murder of Barney Lei McSherry, 24, a police spokesman said.

Officers said McSherry, a 6-foot-7 bearded motorcyclist nicknamed "Tree," was found dead today in Atlanta's hippie area. He had been struck in the face by a shotgun blast.

Police fear the death may be an outgrowth of long-seething hostilities between hippies and motorcyclists.

T'Souvas is also charged with the machinegun deaths of two unidentified Vietnamese civilians at My Lai. He will undergo another pre-trial session here at Ft. McPherson Jan. 12, with his court-martial to follow.

Officers said they arrested 20 men and women, including T-Souvas, in a house where they were staying in the hippie district, but only 17 of them were charged with murder.

Police said they searched the house, confiscated 18 Molotov cocktails, one stick of dynamite, two shotguns, seven rifles, four pistols, several television sets, stereo sets, a quantity of suspected drugs and $3,100 in cash.

74 Reds Killed In Cambodian Battle

SAIGON (UPI)—A South Vietnamese infantry battalion killed 74 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops early today in halting a major Communist assault on a town just inside the Cambodian border. The South Vietnamese lost 10 killed and 36 wounded.

Military spokesmen said the three-hour battle was at the town of A Bas, on Highway 6 and 80 miles north-northwest of Saigon and 85 miles east-northeast of Phnom Penh.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said Cambodian troops almost at the same time killed 50 Communist troops and wounded 100 others in a battle for control of Highway 4, the nation's only land link with the port of Kompong Som.

Allied fighter-bombers and artillery supported the South Vietnamese troops in the battle near A Bas and the government troops reported capturing six crew-served and eight individual weapons along with ammunition, explosives and mines.

Scientist Sounds Alarm Over Mercury Poisoning

CHICAGO (UPI) — A scientist reported Monday that as much as half the mercury used by industry disappeared into the environment between 1945 and 1958. He called for an immediate survey to determine what foods Americans can eat without fear of mercury poisoning.

Dr. Barry Commoner of Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., made the report to the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Commoner said that although major efforts to cut mercury pollution have helped, the problem of removing mercury from lake, river and ocean beds remains and measurement of mercury pollution in other areas, such as the air, has only begun.

He criticized both the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and scientists themselves for failing to recognize the problem earlier.

Digest Contests Held Misleading

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission today accused the Reader's Digest of misleading the public with 11 promotional sweepstakes which were less than half as rich as advertised.

The commission also charged the magazine with using in its advertising the names and addresses of winners without their permission.

The commission announced a proposed order which would require Reader's Digest, in all future sweepstakes, to award all prizes of the value and type advertised and to use names only with prior written consent. The order also would require the magazine to reveal the long odds against winning.

Reader's Digest may accept the order or demand a hearing on the charges.

The commission said in 11 sweepstakes conducted since January, 1966, the magazine claimed winners would receive 699,293 prizes worth $5,645,000 but that only 274,282 prizes worth about $2,530,700 were awarded.

All 11 contests were of the "you may already have won" variety in which millions of tickets, each bearing a printed number, were mailed to prospective purchasers of Reader's Digest magazine and other of the firm's products. Winning numbers were drawn before the tickets were mailed.

The commission said if a winning ticket was returned, the prize was awarded but if the ticket was not returned, the prize was not awarded.

High Officials To Attend Rivers' Rite

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI)— Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, the chairman of the House Armed service Committee and champion of military might, will be laid to rest Wednesday in the swampy low country where he was born.

President Nixon will send a personal representative and the funeral services beginning at 1 p.m. EST at the Grace Episcopal Church here is expected to draw other national and state leaders and crowds of friends and relatives.

Rivers, 65, died early Monday in Birmingham, Ala., after undergoing open heart surgery 17 days earlier. His body was flown to Charleston Monday afternoon.

The body will lie in respose in Grace Episcopal Church today and the church will remain open all night.

Following the ceremony, Rivers will be buried at St. Stephen, a small town some 40 miles north of Charleston. He will be laid to rest near the graves of his parents in the swampy low country.

Rivers' death brought a flood of messages from national and state leaders, expressing sorrow at the passing of a man described by Nixon as "a friend upon whom I could rely in times of great difficulty."

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird is expected to represent Nixon at the funeral. Of Rivers, Laird said "men and women in uniform have never had a more dedicated champion."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said that as head of the Armed Services Committee, Rivers' leadership was "an inestimable source of strength to the cause of American national security."

"His tenacity of mind and spirit served the American people during a prolonged period of international conflict and crisis," Agnew said.

House Majority Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., said Rivers' death took from the House "one of its most brilliant and talented members."

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Rivers "dedicated himself to ensuring that his nation and countrymen could enjoy the blessings of freedom and security."

Gov. Robert E. McNair Monday proclaimed a period of mourning across South Carolina until Rivers' funeral, and ordered flags lowered to half staff.

Vandalism At Middle School

Vandals broke into Santa Venetia Middle School during the weekend and caused $500 damage by breaking windows and attempting to set fire to classroom desks.

The damage was discovered yesterday morning by a school employee checking the building, closed for the Christmas holiday.

Supt. John F. Plank said it still was unknown whether anything of value had been stolen. His estimate of the cost included $250 to clean up the mess.

Parents Hunt For Missing Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stillson of Peacock Gap today issued a plea for any information on their 20-year-old daughter, Janet Ann, who vanished last week in her 1963 Chevrolet sedan somewhere between Santa Barbara and San Rafael.

"She's never left home before without telling us," Stillson, of 373 Riviera Drive, said. "If she were running, she's the type that would call us and tell us. If she were able, we're sure she would have called on Christmas."

Janet, a junior at University of California in Santa Barbara, was working this quarter at Cottage Hospital in Santa Barbara as a nurse's assistant. During the summer of 1969, she worked at Ross General Hospital as a nurse's aide.

She is 5 feet, 3 inches tall, 115 pounds, has long blonde hair, brown eyes, and wears little makeup. She graduated from San Rafael High School in 1968.

She called her parents in Peacock Gap on Dec. 18, saying she would be driving to San Rafael either Sunday or Monday, Dec. 20 or 21. The parents, had planned to spend the Christmas holidays with the daughter and son, Dick, who is professor of economics at Ohio State University in Columbus.

When their daughter failed to show up in San Rafael, the Stillsons called her friends and notified police in both Santa Barbara and San Rafael, but no trace has been found of her or her car, a four-door, blue-green model with license DPD 414.

Janet usually wears glasses when driving or watching television. The parents were unaware what she might have been wearing on the trip from Santa Barbara, but she usually dressed casually, possibly in jeans, when driving.

JANET ANN STILLSON
Family plea

Stillson is a systems analyst and the consultant in business administration and efficiency.

The parents declared last night they plan to drive to Santa Barbara, stopping at each police station and sheriff's office enroute, making a personal plea for an all-out search.

"If she were conscious and able to talk, we're sure she would have contacted us," said Stillson.

The parents said Janet has never been involved with drugs and has not been in trouble before.

Galbraith Sees Wage, Price Rein

DETROIT (UPI) — Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith says that before there is significant improvement in the U. S. economy, wage and price controls must be imposed by the Nixon administration.

Galbraith, speaking Monday at the annual convention of the Allied Social Science Associations convention here, predicted increases in both inflation and unemployment in 1971 if the administration continues its present economic policies.

"Eventually there willhave to be a limited system of wage and price controls," said Galbraith, an advisor to presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson. "There is no alternative."

He said he opposes voluntary wage and price controls which the Nixon administration has urged because "they tend to penalize the citizen who goes along with them and work in favor of companies which ignore them."

Galbraith also said the public should take over the ownership of industries "in areas where private enterprise has failed" such as the railroad and housing industries. He said such industries have failed to meet public needs.

Economic policy "just has not kept pace with the changes in the economy," he said.

Army Temporarily Halts Duck Hunting At Lagoon

Heeding a Bay Area drive to save the California brown pelican, the Army temporarily has halted hunting from public duck-shooting blinds at Fort Cronkhite northwest of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Lt. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, commanding officer of the Sixth Army at the San Francisco Presidio, said yesterday he had imposed a moratorium on duck hunting at Rodeo Lagoon on the fort "in a spirit of cooperation" with a conservationist's requests.

The general said the ban may be only temporary. Larsen explained that officials of the state Department of Fish and Game have informed both Marin and San Francisco County boards of supervisors that duck hunting on the lagoon was not a threat to the brown pelican during its winter visits to Marin County.

The bird is in danger of becoming extinct, conservationists have claimed. Pesticide and chemical pollution had caused most of its eggs to become too thin-shelled to keep chicks safe until they hatch, the conservationists reported.

James Schroeder, chairman of the San Francisco Wildlife Council, had urged Larsen earlier this month to close the duck-shooting blinds lest shooting drive away the pelicans. Larsen said yesterday he had promised to halt hunting until Schroeder could present more evidence of the peril to pelicans.

"Except for one individual (Schroeder) conducting a campaign, no evidence was ever presented to warrant a closure," Larsen said yesterday. He said the Army has halted public use of "four old, established blinds" around the lagoon.

Meanwhile, Michael Wornum, Marin County supervisor from Mill Valley, was to ask the board today to support Schroeder's campaign. (The headline in yesterday's Independent-Journal report of Wornum's plans was reversed in meaning.)

Memories Hurt By Cold Water

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two UCLA professors have reported that divers working in very cold water suffer impaired memory and it takes maximum effort and concentration for them to finish even a simple job.

Gershon Weltman and Glen Egstrom stayed 50 minutes in a diving tank with water at 42 degrees. During their stay, they assembled a seven-foot pipe rack.

"We'd done the same thing many times in warmer water," Weltman said. "The cold forced us to marshal much more of our mental reserves to finish the job.

"All your concentration is focused on the task at hand and that means you risk a failure to react quickly in an unexpected emergency."

Grand Jury Hits City's Apathy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Grand Jury released its recommendations report Monday, suggesting it was an "exercise in futility."

"Many veteran city administrators dismiss the reports as an annual nuisance not to be taken seriously," jurors wrote.

Calling for "decisive, progressive" leadership, the year-end report declared there is a "growing mistrust and lack of confidence in the general administration" of the city.

Among the city's critical problems, the report listed growing tax burdens for small property owners, inflation, crime in the streets, education, pollution, unemployment, soaring welfare costs, inadequate social services, substandard housing and problems of the aged.

Willie Brown Tipped To Head Ways And Means

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Willie L. Brown Jr., a Negro assemblyman from San Francisco, will be named chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, legislative sources say.

And nine of his Democratic colleagues will head other key committees when their party organizes the Assembly next month by virtue of their newly won 43-37 majority.

Republicans controlled the Assembly the past two years and installed GOP chairmen of the committees, where the life or death of most legislation is decided.

Republicans will be offered chairmanships of a few minor committees when Democrats take over control Jan. 4 at the beginning of the 1971 legislative session, the sources said.

There are usually 20 to 25 standing committees in the Assembly, although the number changes from year to year.

Sources said Assemblyman Bob Moretti of Van Nuys, who Democrats selected to replace Republican Bob Monagan as speaker, will choose the 34-year-old Texas-born Brown to succeed Assemblyman Frank Lanterman as head of the committee which reviews all tax and appropriation legislation —including the state budget.

Grant Jury Suspends Bomb Probe

TUCSON (UPI)—The Federal Grand Jury investigation into alleged explosives buying by the radical Weathermen organization here last May has been temporarily suspended while federal officials ponder their next move.

The jury, which has been investigating the case off and on for the past two months, was to have resumed its probe of the Weathermen activities Tuesday.

However, federal prosecutors said the decision to delay the resumption of the probe was made after the ninth Circuit Court of Appeals ordered five Venice, Calif., residents released from federal custody Thursday.

The five were jailed earlier this month on charges of contempt after refusing to testify before the jury about the case despite being given immunity.

The government has until Jan. 5 to appeal the ruling which freed the five.

So far the jury has indicted one person in the case.

John A. Fuerst, 24, Berkeley, Calif., was indicted on charges of possession of explosives and explosive equipment without registration. He is charged with buying dynamite, blasting caps and fuses here last May and taking them back to California. Fuerst is still being sought by federal authorities.

A spokesman in the federal prosecutor's office said the jury would not resume its probe into the case at least until Jan. 26.

Two Holdups In San Rafael

Two armed robberies that originated at the Bermuda Palms Motel in San Rafael have been reported to police.

William E. Malin, of 25 Glenaire Drive, San Rafael, told police two men he picked up at the motel at 700 Francisco Boulevard hit him on the head and took $68 between 1:50 and 2 a.m. Saturday

Three men who gave Jeoffrey E. Tachet, 18, of San Francisco, a ride from the motel took $30 from him at gunpoint at 2 a.m. Friday, police said.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stillson of Peacock Gap today issued a plea for any information on their 20-year-old daughter, Janet Ann, who vanished last week in her 1963 Chevrolet sedan somewhere between Santa Barbara and San Rafael.

"She's never left home before without telling us," Stillson, of 373 Riviera Drive, said. "If she were running, she's the type that would call us and tell us. If she were able, we're sure she would have called on Christmas."

Janet, a junior at University of California in Santa Barbara, was working this quarter at Cottage Hospital in Santa Barbara as a nurse's assistant. During the summer of 1969, she worked at Ross General Hospital as a nurse's aide.

She is 5 feet, 3 inches tall, 115 pounds, has long blonde hair, brown eyes, and wears little makeup. She graduated from San Rafael High School in 1968.

She called her parents in Peacock Gap on Dec. 18, saying she would be driving to San Rafael either Sunday or Monday, Dec. 20 or 21. The parents, had planned to spend the Christmas holidays with the daughter and son, Dick, who is professor of economics at Ohio State University in Columbus.

When their daughter failed to show up in San Rafael, the Stillsons called her friends and notified police in both Santa Barbara and San Rafael, but no trace has been found of her or her car, a four-door, blue-green model with license DPD 414.

Janet usually wears glasses when driving or watching television. The parents were unaware what she might have been wearing on the trip from Santa Barbara, but she usually dressed casually, possibly in jeans, when driving.

JANET ANN STILLSON
Family plea

Stillson is a systems analyst and the consultant in business administration and efficiency.

The parents declared last night they plan to drive to Santa Barbara, stopping at each police station and sheriff's office enroute, making a personal plea for an all-out search.

"If she were conscious and able to talk, we're sure she would have contacted us," said Stillson.

The parents said Janet has never been involved with drugs and has not been in trouble before.

Galbraith Sees Wage, Price Rein

DETROIT (UPI) — Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith says that before there is significant improvement in the U. S. economy, wage and price controls must be imposed by the Nixon administration.

Galbraith, speaking Monday at the annual convention of the Allied Social Science Associations convention here, predicted increases in both inflation and unemployment in 1971 if the administration continues its present economic policies.

"Eventually there willhave to be a limited system of wage and price controls," said Galbraith, an advisor to presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson. "There is no alternative."

He said he opposes voluntary wage and price controls which the Nixon administration has urged because "they tend to penalize the citizen who goes along with them and work in favor of companies which ignore them."

Galbraith also said the public should take over the ownership of industries "in areas where private enterprise has failed" such as the railroad and housing industries. He said such industries have failed to meet public needs.

Economic policy "just has not kept pace with the changes in the economy," he said.

Army Temporarily Halts Duck Hunting At Lagoon

Heeding a Bay Area drive to save the California brown pelican, the Army temporarily has halted hunting from public duck-shooting blinds at Fort Cronkhite northwest of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Lt. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, commanding officer of the Sixth Army at the San Francisco Presidio, said yesterday he had imposed a moratorium on duck hunting at Rodeo Lagoon on the fort "in a spirit of cooperation" with a conservationist's requests.

The general said the ban may be only temporary. Larsen explained that officials of the state Department of Fish and Game have informed both Marin and San Francisco County boards of supervisors that duck hunting on the lagoon was not a threat to the brown pelican during its winter visits to Marin County.

The bird is in danger of becoming extinct, conservationists have claimed. Pesticide and chemical pollution had caused most of its eggs to become too thin-shelled to keep chicks safe until they hatch, the conservationists reported.

James Schroeder, chairman of the San Francisco Wildlife Council, had urged Larsen earlier this month to close the duck-shooting blinds lest shooting drive away the pelicans. Larsen said yesterday he had promised to halt hunting until Schroeder could present more evidence of the peril to pelicans.

"Except for one individual (Schroeder) conducting a campaign, no evidence was ever presented to warrant a closure," Larsen said yesterday. He said the Army has halted public use of "four old, established blinds" around the lagoon.

Meanwhile, Michael Wornum, Marin County supervisor from Mill Valley, was to ask the board today to support Schroeder's campaign. (The headline in yesterday's Independent-Journal report of Wornum's plans was reversed in meaning.)

Memories Hurt By Cold Water

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two UCLA professors have reported that divers working in very cold water suffer impaired memory and it takes meximum effort and concentration for them to finish even a simple job.

Gershon Weltman and Glen Egstrom stayed 50 minutes in a diving tank with water at 42 degrees. During their stay, they assembled a seven-foot pipe rack.

"We'd done the same thing many times in warmer water," Weltman said. "The cold forced us to marshal much more of our mental reserves to finish the job.

"All your concentration is focused on the task at hand and that means you risk a failure to react quickly in an unexpected emergency."

Grand Jury Hits City's Apathy

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Grand Jury released its recommendations report Monday, suggesting it was an "exercise in futility."

"Many veteran city administrators dismiss the reports as an annual nuisance not to be taken seriously," jurors wrote.

Calling for "decisive, progressive" leadership, the year-end report declared there is a "growing mistrust and lack of confidence in the general administration" of the city.

Among the city's critical problems, the report listed growing tax burdens for small property owners, inflation, crime in the streets, education, pollution, unemployment, soaring welfare costs, inadequate social services, substandard housing and problems of the aged.

Willie Brown Tipped To Head Ways And Means

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Willie L. Brown Jr., a Negro assemblyman from San Francisco, will be named chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, legislative sources say.

And nine of his Democratic colleagues will head other key committees when their party organizes the Assembly next month by virtue of their newly won 43-37 majority.

Republicans controlled the Assembly the past two years and installed GOP chairmen of the committees, where the life or death of most legislation is decided.

Republicans will be offered chairmanships of a few minor committees when Democrats take over control Jan. 4 at the beginning of the 1971 legislative session, the sources said.

There are usually 20 to 25 standing committees in the Assembly, although the number changes from year to year.

Sources said Assemblyman Bob Moretti of Van Nuys, who Democrats selected to replace Republican Bob Monagan as speaker, will choose the 34-year-old Texas-born Brown to succeed Assemblyman Frank Lanterman as head of the committee which reviews all tax and appropriation legislation —including the state budget.

Grant Jury Suspends Bomb Probe

TUCSON (UPI)—The Federal Grand Jury investigation into alleged explosives buying by the radical Weathermen organization here last May has been temporarily suspended while federal officials ponder their next move.

The jury, which has been investigating the case off and on for the past two months, was to have resumed its probe of the Weathermen activities Tuesday.

However, federal prosecutors said the decision to delay the resumption of the probe was made after the ninth Circuit Court of Appeals ordered five Venice, Calif., residents released from federal custody Thursday.

The five were jailed earlier this month on charges of contempt after refusing to testify before the jury about the case despite being given immunity.

The government has until Jan. 5 to appeal the ruling which freed the five.

So far the jury has indicted one person in the case.

John A. Fuerst, 24, Berkeley, Calif., was indicted on charges of possession of explosives and explosive equipment without registration. He is charged with buying dynamite, blasting caps and fuses here last May and taking them back to California. Fuerst is still being sought by federal authorities.

A spokesman in the federal prosecutor's office said the jury would not resume its probe into the case at least until Jan. 26.

Two Holdups In San Rafael

Two armed robberies that originated at the Bermuda Palms Motel in San Rafael have been reported to police.

William E. Malin, of 25 Glenaire Drive, San Rafael, told police two men he picked up at the motel at 700 Francisco Boulevard hit him on the head and took $68 between 1:50 and 2 a.m. Saturday

Three men who gave Jeoffrey E. Tachet, 18, of San Francisco, a ride from the motel took $30 from him at gunpoint at 2 a.m. Friday, police said.

Valentine's Day Trial In Recess

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD —The jury trial of seven men arrested during the Valentine's Day violence outside the Independent-Journal building today was recessed until Monday.

Judge William E. Jensen, who has presided over the Solano Superior Court trial since Oct. 20, said he had been unable to finish preparing jury instructions.

Both prosecution and defense attorneys must agree on the scope and wording of the instructions before beginning their final arguments to the jury, Jensen explained.

The judge told jurors, "We are not ready to proceed today. The fault lies with the court and not with the attorneys."

Jensen and the attorneys worked until 9 p.m. yesterday reviewing proposed instructions and labor cases that set precedents.

Jensen said he will place a limit of nine hours of argument on each side.

The defendants face a total of 34 charges ranging from participating in a riot, assault on police officers and possession of slingshots and blackjacks to refusal to disperse.

The Feb. 14 rally was called by Bay Area labor unions in support of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, which struck the I-J Jan. 7.

Defoliant Effect Hard To Gauge, Scientists Report

CHICAGO (UPI)—A team sent to Vietnam by the American Association for the Advancement of Science to investigate effects of defoliant sprays said Tuesday precautions to protect the local population from chemicals had failed.

The team said a study of one heavily defoliated province showed a higher rate of still births than the national average for the years 1968 and 1969, but added that lack of complete medical statistics on populations most directly affected made it difficult to draw any exact conclusions.

It said it was also handicapped by the Defense Department's refusal to release records of spraying missions, although both the Army and South Vietnamese government cooperated with the six-week on-the-scene investigation last August and September.

Prof. Matthew S. Meselson of Harvard University, a biologist appointed to head the team, financed by an $80,000 grant from the science association, said he was convinced of the sincerity of a Chemical Corps officer who flew them over a defoliated area and told them it was relatively uninhabited.

"It looked relatively uninhabited," Meselson said. "But an Army intelligence map taken the previous year showed 940 dwellings, enough to house about 5,000 people, and a blow-up of aerial photos we took showed even more houses had been built by the time the crop destruction missions took place."

Dr. J.D. Constable, professor of surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, said long term effects on the populace were particularly hard to determine because the hospitals studied in heavily defoliated Tay Ninh province kept no records of deformities of birth, even though they carefully recorded stillbirths. The stillbirth rate there was higher than any reported in a recent study by the U.S. Army and South Vietnamese Health Ministry of national hospital records for the last 10 years, he said.

"Refugee camps to which people from the defoliated areas fled reported some instances of epidemics immediately after the spraying occurred, but there are no records of other long term effects except for the possible correlation to stillbirths," Constable said.

The team said it found defoliants completely destroyed about one-half of South Vietnam's mangrove forests, one-fifth of its commercial tropical hardwood forests and enough food to feed 600,000 persons for one year.

The chairman of a panel discussing the team's report said he thought it was significant that Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird had issued an order to phase out the use of defoliants in Vietnam.

"But I don't understand why we have to use the stockpile up," said Prof. Kenneth V. Thimann, a chemist at the University of California, Santa Cruz.

gagged at his last court appearance at San Quentin when he repeatedly interrupted the judge with abusive language.

The pending trial yesterday drew attention in San Francisco from the American Jewish Congress's Northern California division president and in Monterey from the AFL-CIO California Federation of Teachers' convention.

Richard M. Kaplan, the division chairman, said the Jewish Congress disclaimed any connection with a suggestion that the United States "trade" Miss Davis for 11 Soviet Jews who were convicted of planning to hijack an airplane.

The Davis case is not related to the "tragic events" in Russia, he said. The suggestion of the trade had been made by the Bay Area Council of Soviet Jewry.

At the teachers' conference, a committee voted to have delegates vote on resolutions describing Miss Davis as a political prisoner and demanding her release.

Union president Raoul Teilhet, however, predicted that the resolutions would be rejected in favor of a demand that "Angela Davis receive due process and all her constitutional rights."

He did not say what rights he thought she has not received.

Board Reduces Fencing Needs

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments yesterday reduced fencing requirements for the Pleasant Hill Private Cemetery, Petaluma.

Gladys Pollock had asked the board to reconsider its requirements for a five-foot solid wall around the cemetery at Elphick and Pleasant Hill roads.

The board said the fence need not be of solid stone or masonry as first required, but could be some other type of fencing or shrubbery.

Innocent Pleas To Pot Charges

William N. Kirsch, 37, and Phyllis Ellen Ferrell, 23, both of Gate 5, Waldo Point, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of possession of marijuana and possession of marijuana for sale.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set Jan. 11 for hearing of a motion to reduced bail.

submission to America's and Israel's conditions," Sadat said.

He told Egyptians to prepare themselves for "the battle which is everything" and said, "the next six months will be decisive. On Feb. 5 (the day the cease-fire expires), we will face the first decisive step in the next stage."

He said his government would create a national "Citizens for the Battle" (civil defense) committee and regional "Work for the Battle" groups. In a speech reported by the Middle East News Agency he "emphasized the necessity of putting the whole nation in the climate of battle."

And then, in direct opposition to the Israeli viewpoint, Sadat said:

"We will not accept another extension of the cease-fire unless there are serious efforts to enforce the Security Council resolution, which earlier defined a timetable for withdrawal (of Israel from Arab lands.)"

Mrs. Meir appealed to Egypt's new leadership to make a genuine bid for peace.

Vote Set On Rubbish Collection

Homestead Valley residents will be asked to vote on future methods of debris collection, directors of the Homestead Valley Sanitary District agreed last night.

Board President James G. MacNichols said a notice, giving three different methods of collection, will be mailed to about 800 residents after Jan. 1. The debris service is supplementary to regular garbage pickups.

At present, debris is collected in a trash bin placed at the Tamalpais Valley Fire Station, Melrose and Evergreen avenues three times a month, he said, indicating the current method is one possible choice.

Another proposal calls for a collection every other month using a compactor truck which holds the equivalent of five trash bins, plus an annual cleanup in which four cubic yards of trash will be picked up from every home.

Another possible collection method would be a monthly pickup in the five-bin compactor truck and an annual cleanup. MacNichols said this proposal would increase taxes for residents, "probably by about one dollar a year."

The board will choose a collection method on the basis of residents' votes, he said.

Directors also voted last night to go ahead with smoke testing and examination of its sewer collection system to check for leaks, according to MacNichols. Inspections will begin next month.

$7 million a year for research on the 100 identified cold-causing viruses and on the flu and pneumonia, said, "our efforts at present are concentrated on determining the feasibility of producing a vaccine combination which could be used to prevent the majority of virus-caused colds."

Dr. Robert E. Hodges of the University of Iowa School of Medicine, an authority on vitamin C, told UPI there was little evidence to support Pauling's claim.

"Most medical experts disagree with him," Hodges said. "In this instance he has made claims that there is a usefulness for great excesses of vitamins and the evidence that supports that is flimsy.

"I don't think you can say he's wrong or right. The evidence just isn't sufficient."

Hodges said his tests have shown that a well-fed, healthy, middle-aged man uses about 45 milligrams of vitamin C a day and can store only 1,500 milligrams, a 90-day supply. Anything above 1,500 milligrams is excreted, he said.

Pauling said in his book that between 250 and 10,000 milligrams is the amount "that leads to the best of health" and cited his own success in warding off colds with vitamin C.

"It is a curious thing that people want to practice medicine on themselves," Hodges said. "I don't take it, and I don't give it to my family. I suspect there is no harm in it, but I don't think there is any virtue in it either."

Pauling's scientific stature — he won the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1954 and the Nobel Peace Prize for his stand against nuclear testing in 1962— undoubtedly has helped increase his book sales and inspire an increase in vitamin C sales.

But the three largest producers of vitamin C say they aren't making any long-range plans for increased production of the vitamin. A spokesman for one said, "we get this (jump in sales) every few years."

Trio Of Thiefs Foiled In Try At Bookstore

Thieves tried to loot a cash register at the Cottage Bookstore in San Rafael yesterday, but were foiled by an employee.

Police said three persons entered the bookstore at 1225 Fourth Street at 12:45 p.m. One occupied a clerk at the rear of the store while a second bought postcards from a rack behind the cashier, then asked for more cards while the register was open, police said.

The third, meanwhile, snatched money from the till while the store employees were occupied, police said.

However, as the third person left the store, he was stopped by an employee and $55 taken from him, police said. The excited employee let the three leave before police arrived.

OBITUARIES

Lisa S. Mackey Killed

Lisa Stillman Mackey, 70, long-time San Rafael resident and widely published poet, was killed yesterday in Adelaide, Australia, according to relatives in Marin County.

She was on a vacation trip with Mr. and Mrs. James D. Adams of San Rafael, when she was struck by an auto.

Mrs. Mackey was the widow of Russell A. Mackey, an admiralty attorney who died in 1964. She was a resident of the Tamalpais in Larkspur at the time of her death.

Mrs. Mackey's first published poem appeared in 1921 in Atlantic Monthly. She was 21 at the time. She continued writing while rearing three children, and was published in the Poetry Review of London, The Spectator, Sunset Magazine and others. Her first volume of poetry, "Veined With Sun," was published in 1963.

Mrs. Mackey was a native of San Francisco. She and her family moved to San Rafael in 1937.

She was a graduate of Vassar, and a founding member of the Ross Valley Players. She also was active in the Marin Conservation League, Sunny Hills, the Century Club, Marin Garden Club and the Juvenile Hall Auxiliary.

She is survived by one son, William R. Mackey of San Rafael, and two daughters, Mary Walker of San Rafael and Elizabeth Butler of Carmichael, Sacramento County.

Her ashes will be brought to San Francisco for inurnment at Golden Gate National Cemetery, according to the family.

Memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Jan. 6 in St.

Unit To Study Downtown Plan

Novato Mayor Douglas M. Merrill has appointed a five-man committee on implementation of the downtown plan and program which will make recommendations to the council.

Named to the committee were Larry L. Heon, an attorney and member of the city's downtown committee; George E. Barnwell, newspaper publisher and member of the downtown committee; City Councilman George C. Quesada; James Picchi, real estate broker and planning commissioner, and planning director Brian W. Mattson.

Among the committee's jobs will be talking to retailers, developers and property owners about implementing the plan by consultants Sedway and Cooke of San Francisco, which calls for a regional shopping center at the Pinheiro Ranch, north of downtown.

Santa Venetia House Gutted

The Marin County Fire Department estimated damage at $2,500 to the structure at 22 Crestview Way, owned by Lawrence Armijo. Damage to contents was estimated at $1,500. No one was injured.

The fire occurred at 7:31 p.m. Christmas Eve, but was not reported by the fire department until yesterday.

Novato Drug Case To Juvenile Court

The case of Bryan James Cunningham, 18, of Novato, was turned over to Marin Juvenile Court yesterday by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Municipal Court.

Cunningham is charged with selling methamphetamine Sept. 12 and Sept. 16 in Novato.

RAY JOHNSON

Funeral for Ray E. Johnson, former Corte Madera resident who died in Ukiah Sunday after a short illness, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

Johnson, 86, a retired contractor, moved to Lakeport about four years ago.

A native of Augusta, Wis., he had lived in California 32 years.

He is survived by a son, Russell Johnson of Lakeport, and two sisters, Zella Hilts and Almeda Elbertson, both of Milwaukee, Wis.

DAVID CRANDALL

Born in Oakland, Crandall moved with his family to Novato in 1935.

He was a 1943 graduate of San Rafael High School, where he was named an all-league guard on the football team.

In 1943 he joined the Navy and served as a quartermaster aboard a destroyer in the Pacific area until his discharge in 1945. After he left the service, he attended College of Marin where he was again named an all-league guard.

Crandall was proprietor of the Village Inn in Novato from 1950 until 1965 when it was torn down. Since then he had been a bartender at the Moose Lodge in Novato.

He was a member of the Novato Grove of Druids and the Loyal Order of Moose.

Crandall's wife, Lila, died in 1954.

He is survived by a son, Michael; a daughter, Maureen Crandall, both of the family home at 1307 Leafwood Drive, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Crandall Sr. of Petaluma; a brother, Stanley A. Crandall Jr., also of Petaluma; a sister, Audrey Klein of Oakland, and a granddaughter.

Funeral will be at 8 p.m. today at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home in Novato. Inurnment will follow.

RALPH CONDE

Funeral for Ralph Conde, a resident of Marin convalescent hospitals for 10 years, was today in San Francisco.

Conde, 56, died Sunday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Born in Mazatlan, Mexico, Conde moved to San Francisco in 1931 and helped build the Golden Gate Bridge as a laborer and also worked aboard fishing boats bound for Alaska in the 1930s.

He then became a warehouseman until 1954 when he underwent brain surgery for removal of a blood clot.

In 1958, he was hit by a San Francisco Municipal Railway bus and paralyzed from the waist down. Last year, he underwent surgery for cancer.

He is survived by a daughter, Virginia Zarry of San Francisco and seven grandchildren.

Burial was scheduled for Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

MRS. CANZIANI

Guiseppina Canziani, 87, long-time San Rafael resident, died yesterday after a short illness at her home at 501 B Street, where she had lived since 1907.

Mrs. Canziani, a native of Italy, came to this country in 1906 and married Pietro Canziani in 1907. Canziani, who died in 1929, founded and operated the Canziani Market at B and Taylor streets in San Rafael for many years.

Mrs. Canziani was a member of St. Raphael's Church and the Italian Catholic Federation.

She is survived by a son, Norman C. Canziani of Novato; a daughter, Lena E. Avedano of San Rafael, and a grandson.

Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Rafael's Church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Keaton Chapel in San Rafael.

MARION SILVA

Mass of the Ressurection for 13-year-old Marion Silva, formerly of San Rafael, will be tomorrow at 10 a.m. at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael.

Miss Silva, who has lived the last three years in Palmdale, Los Angeles County, died Saturday at a Palmdale hospital, apparently from a blood clot. She had been in a coma for several days.

A native of San Rafael, she attended elementary school in Terra Linda.

She is survived by her parents, Uvonne and Manuel of Palmdale; two sisters, Charlotte McQuitty of Petaluma and Evelyn Silva of Palmdale; three brothers, Arnold and James of Palmdale and Robert, with the Army in South Vietnam, and her grandparents, Marie and Manuel Santos of Stinson Beach.

Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited today at 8 o'clock at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

WILLIAM HUSTON

Funeral for William Gary Huston Sr., whose three children reside in Marin County, was held today in Burlingame.

Huston, a long-time resident of Burlingame, died Friday at a Burlingame hospital following a long illness.

A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., he moved to Hawaii in 1928 and to Burlingame in 1949.

He was a retired office supply businessman and a veteran of World War I.

He is survived by two sons, William G. Huston Jr. of Novato and Arthur R. Huston of San Rafael; a daughter, Arden O. Morrell of San Anselmo, and four grandchildren.

Burial will be at Woodlawn Memorial Park, Colma.

JEAN CHURCH

Jean Harriett Church, sister of Elizabeth Bregante of San Rafael, died yesterday in her sleep while visiting her sister, the Marin County Coroner's Office said today.

Mrs. Church, 51, of Hanford, Stanislaus County, died apparently from natural causes, according to Keith C. Craig, coroner's investigator.

He said the woman went to sleep at 12:30 a.m. yesterday and the family couldn't wake her later in the morning. She was taken to Marin General Hospital and pronounced dead at 10:05 a.m.

Valentine's Day Trial In Recess

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD —The jury trial of seven men arrested during the Valentine's Day violence outside the Independent-Journal building today was recessed until Monday.

Judge William E. Jensen, who has presided over the Solano Superior Court trial since Oct. 20, said he had been unable to finish preparing jury instructions.

Both prosecution and defense attorneys must agree on the scope and wording of the instructions before beginning their final arguments to the jury, Jensen explained.

The judge told jurors, "We are not ready to proceed today. The fault lies with the court and not with the attorneys."

Jensen and the attorneys worked until 9 p.m. yesterday reviewing proposed instructions and labor cases that set precedents.

Jensen said he will place a limit of nine hours of argument on each side.

The defendants face a total of 34 charges ranging from participating in a riot, assault on police officers and possession of slingshots and blackjacks to refusal to disperse.

The Feb. 14 rally was called by Bay Area labor unions in support of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, which struck the I-J Jan. 7.

Defoilant Effect Hard To Gauge, Scientists Report

CHICAGO (UPI)—A team sent to Vietnam by the American Association for the Advancement of Science to investigate effects of defoliant sprays said Tuesday precautions to protect the local population from chemicals had failed.

The team said a study of one heavily defoliated province showed a higher rate of still births than the national average for the years 1968 and 1969, but added that lack of complete medical statistics on populations most directly affected made it difficult to draw any exact conclusions.

It said it was also handicapped by the Defense Department's refusal to release records of spraying missions, although both the Army and South Vietnamese government cooperated with the six-week on-the-scene investigation last August and September.

Prof. Matthew S. Meselson of Harvard University, a biologist appointed to head the team, financed by an $80,000 grant from the science association, said he was convinced of the sincerity of a Chemical Corps officer who flew them over a defoliated area and told them it was relatively uninhabited.

"It looked relatively uninhabited," Meselson said. "But an Army intelligence map taken the previous year showed 940 dwellings, enough to house about 5,000 people, and a blow-up of aerial photos we took showed even more houses had been built by the time the crop destruction missions took place."

Dr. J.D. Constable, professor of surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, said long term effects on the populace were particularly hard to determine because the hospitals studied in heavily defoliated Tay Ninh province kept no records of deformities of birth, even though they carefully recorded stillbirths. The stillbirth rate there was higher than any reported in a recent study by the U.S. Army and South Vietnamese Health Ministry of national hospital records for the last 10 years, he said.

"Refugee camps to which people from the defoliated areas fled reported some instances of epidemics immediately after the spraying occurred, but there are no records of other long term effects except for the possible correlation to stillbirths," Constable said.

The team said it found defoliants completely destroyed about one-half of South Vietnam's mangrove forests, one-fifth of its commercial tropical hardwood forests and enough food to feed 600,000 persons for one year.

The chairman of a panel discussing the team's report said he thought it was significant that Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird had issued an order to phase out the use of defoliants in Vietnam.

"But I don't understand why we have to use the stockpile up," said Prof. Kenneth V. Thimann, a chemist at the University of California, Santa Cruz.

ANGELA

gagged at his last court appearance at San Quentin when he repeatedly interrupted the judge with abusive language.

The pending trial yesterday drew attention in San Francisco from the American Jewish Congress's Northern California division president and in Monterey from the AFL-CIO California Federation of Teachers' convention.

Richard M. Kaplan, the division chairman, said the Jewish Congress disclaimed any connection with a suggestion that the United States "trade" Miss Davis for 11 Soviet Jews who were convicted of planning to hijack an airplane.

The Davis case is not related to the "tragic events" in Russia, he said. The suggestion of the trade had been made by the Bay Area Council of Soviet Jewry.

At the teachers' conference, a committee voted to have delegates vote on resolutions describing Miss Davis as a political prisoner and demanding her release.

Union president Raoul Teilhet, however, predicted that the resolutions would be rejected in favor of a demand that "Angela Davis receive due process and all her constitutional rights."

He did not say what rights he thought she has not received.

Board Reduces Fencing Needs

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments yesterday reduced fencing requirements for the Pleasant Hill Private Cemetery, Petaluma.

Gladys Pollock had asked the board to reconsider its requirements for a five-foot solid wall around the cemetery at Elphick and Pleasant Hill roads.

The board said the fence need not be of solid stone or masonry as first required, but could be some other type of fencing or shrubbery.

Innocent Pleas To Pot Charges

William N. Kirsch, 37, and Phyllis Ellen Ferrell, 23, both of Gate 5, Waldo Point, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of possession of marijuana and possession of marijuana for sale.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set Jan. 11 for hearing of a motion to reduced bail.

submission to America's and Israel's conditions," Sadat said.

He told Egyptians to prepare themselves for "the battle which is everything" and said, "the next six months will be decisive. On Feb. 5 (the day the cease-fire expires), we will face the first decisive step in the next stage."

He said his government would create a national "Citizens for the Battle" (civil defense) committee and regional "Work for the Battle" groups. In a speech reported by the Middle East News Agency he "emphasized the necessity of putting the whole nation in the climate of battle."

And then, in direct opposition to the Israeli viewpoint, Sadat said:

"We will not accept another extension of the cease-fire unless there are serious efforts to enforce the Security Council resolution, which earlier defined a timetable for withdrawal (of Israel from Arab lands.)"

Mrs. Meir appealed to Egypt's new leadership to make a genuine bid for peace.

Vote Set On Rubbish Collection

Homestead Valley residents will be asked to vote on future methods of debris collection, directors of the Homestead Valley Sanitary District agreed last night.

Board President James G. MacNichols said a notice, giving three different methods of collection, will be mailed to about 800 residents after Jan. 1. The debris service is supplementary to regular garbage pickups.

At present, debris is collected in a trash bin placed at the Tamalpais Valley Fire Station, Melrose and Evergreen avenues three times a month, he said, indicating the current method is one possible choice.

Another proposal calls for a collection every other month using a compactor truck which holds the equivalent of five trash bins, plus an annual cleanup in which four cubic yards of trash will be picked up from every home.

Another possible collection method would be a monthly pickup in the five-bin compactor truck and an annual cleanup. MacNichols said this proposal would increase taxes for residents, "probably by about one dollar a year."

The board will choose a collection method on the basis of residents' votes, he said.

Directors also voted last night to go ahead with smoke testing and examination of its sewer collection system to check for leaks, according to MacNichols. Inspections will begin next month.

COLDS

$7 million a year for research on the 100 identified cold-causing viruses and on the flu and pneumonia, said, "our efforts at present are concentrated on determining the feasibility of producing a vaccine combination which could be used to prevent the majority of virus-caused colds."

Dr. Robert E. Hodges of the University of Iowa School of Medicine, an authority on vitamin C, told UPI there was little evidence to support Pauling's claim.

"Most medical experts disagree with him," Hodges said. "In this instance he has made claims that there is a usefulness for great excesses of vitamins and the evidence that supports that is flimsy.

"I don't think you can say he's wrong or right. The evidence just isn't sufficient."

Hodges said his tests have shown that a well-fed, healthy, middle-aged man uses about 45 milligrams of vitamin C a day and can store only 1,500 milligrams, a 90-day supply. Anything above 1,500 milligrams is excreted, he said.

Pauling said in his book that between 250 and 10,000 milligrams is the amount "that leads to the best of health" and cited his own success in warding off colds with vitamin C.

"It is a curious thing that people want to practice medicine on themselves," Hodges said. "I don't take it, and I don't give it to my family. I suspect there is no harm in it, but I don't think there is any virtue in it either."

Pauling's scientific stature — he won the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1954 and the Nobel Peace Prize for his stand against nuclear testing in 1962— undoubtedly has helped increase his book sales and inspire an increase in vitamin C sales.

But the three largest producers of vitamin C say they aren't making any long-range plans for increased production of the vitamin. A spokesman for one said, "we get this (jump in sales) every few years."

Trio Of Thiefs Foiled In Try At Bookstore

Thieves tried to loot a cash register at the Cottage Bookstore in San Rafael yesterday, but were foiled by an employee.

Police said three persons entered the bookstore at 1225 Fourth Street at 12:45 p.m. One occupied a clerk at the rear of the store while a second bought postcards from a rack behind the cashier, then asked for more cards while the register was open, police said.

The third, meanwhile, snatched money from the till while the store employees were occupied, police said.

However, as the third person left the store, he was stopped by an employee and $55 taken from him, police said. The excited employee let the three leave before police arrived.

LISA STILLMAN MACKEY
Noted poet

OBITUARIES

Lisa S. Mackey Killed

Lisa Stillman Mackey, 70, long-time San Rafael resident and widely published poet, was killed yesterday in Adelaide, Australia, according to relatives in Marin County.

She was on a vacation trip with Mr. and Mrs. James D. Adams of San Rafael, when she was struck by an auto.

Mrs. Mackey was the widow of Russell A. Mackey, an admiralty attorney who died in 1964. She was a resident of the Tamalpais in Larkspur at the time of her death.

Mrs. Mackey's first published poem appeared in 1921 in Atlantic Monthly. She was 21 at the time. She continued writing while rearing three children, and was published in the Poetry Review of London, The Spectator, Sunset Magazine and others. Her first volume of poetry, "Veined With Sun," was published in 1963.

Mrs. Mackey was a native of San Francisco. She and her family moved to San Rafael in 1937.

She was a graduate of Vassar, and a founding member of the Ross Valley Players. She also was active in the Marin Conservation League, Sunny Hills, the Century Club, Marin Garden Club and the Juvenile Hall Auxiliary.

She is survived by one son, William R. Mackey of San Rafael, and two daughters, Mary Walker of San Rafael and Elizabeth Butler of Carmichael, Sacramento County.

Her ashes will be brought to San Francisco for inurnment at Golden Gate National Cemetery, according to the family.

Memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Jan. 6 in St.

Unit To Study Downtown Plan

Novato Mayor Douglas M. Merrill has appointed a five-man committee on implementation of the downtown plan and program which will make recommendations to the council.

Named to the committee were Larry L. Heon, an attorney and member of the city's downtown committee; George E. Barnwell, newspaper publisher and member of the downtown committee; City Councilman George C. Quesada; James Picchi, real estate broker and planning commissioner, and planning director Brian W. Mattson.

Among the committee's jobs will be talking to retailers, developers and property owners about implementing the plan by consultants Sedway and Cooke of San Francisco, which calls for a regional shopping center at the Pinheiro Ranch, north of downtown.

Santa Venetia House Gutted

A one-story frame house in Santa Venetia has been gutted by fire.

The Marin County Fire Department estimated damage at $2,500 to the structure at 22 Crestview Way, owned by Lawrence Armijo. Damage to contents was estimated at $1,500. No one was injured.

The fire occurred at 7:31 p.m. Christmas Eve, but was not reported by the fire department until yesterday.

Novato Drug Case To Juvenile Court

The case of Bryan James Cunningham, 18, of Novato, was turned over to Marin Juvenile Court yesterday by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Municipal Court.

Cunningham is charged with selling methamphetamine Sept. 12 and Sept. 16 in Novato.

John's Episcopal Church, Ross.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the Conservation League of Marin or the Sierra Club Foundation.

RAY JOHNSON

Funeral for Ray E. Johnson, former Corte Madera resident who died in Ukiah Sunday after a short illness, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

Johnson, 86, a retired contractor, moved to Lakeport about four years ago.

A native of Augusta, Wis., he had lived in California 32 years.

He is survived by a son, Russell Johnson of Lakeport, and two sisters, Zella Hilts and Almeda Elbertson, both of Milwaukee, Wis.

DAVID CRANDALL

Born in Oakland, Crandall moved with his family to Novato in 1935.

He was a 1943 graduate of San Rafael High School, where he was named an all-league guard on the football team.

In 1943 he joined the Navy and served as a quartermaster aboard a destroyer in the Pacific area until his discharge in 1945. After he left the service, he attended College of Marin where he was again named an all-league guard.

Crandall was proprietor of the Village Inn in Novato from 1950 until 1965 when it was torn down. Since then he had been a bartender at the Moose Lodge in Novato.

He was a member of the Novato Grove of Druids and the Loyal Order of Moose.

Crandall's wife, Lila, died in 1954.

He is survived by a son, Michael; a daughter, Maureen Crandall, both of the family home at 1307 Leafwood Drive, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Crandall Sr. of Petaluma; a brother, Stanley A. Crandall Jr., also of Petaluma; a sister, Audrey Klein of Oakland, and a granddaughter.

Funeral will be at 8 p.m. today at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home in Novato. Inurnment will follow.

RALPH CONDE

Funeral for Ralph Conde, a resident of Marin convalescent hospitals for 10 years, was today in San Francisco.

Conde, 56, died Sunday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Born in Mazatlan, Mexico, Conde moved to San Franicsco in 1931 and helped build the Golden Gate Bridge as a laborer and also worked aboard fishing boats bound for Alaska in the 1930s.

He then became a warehouseman until 1954 when he underwent brain surgery for removal of a blood clot.

In 1958, he was hit by a San Francisco Municipal Railway bus and paralyzed from the waist down. Last year, he underwent surgery for cancer.

He is survived by a daughter, Virginia Zarry of San Francisco and seven grandchildren.

Burial was scheduled for Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

MRS. CANZIANI

Guiseppina Canziani, 87, long-time San Rafael resident, died yesterday after a short illness at her home at 501 B Street, where she had lived since 1907.

Mrs. Canziani, a native of Italy, came to this country in 1906 and married Pietro Canziani in 1907. Canziani, who died in 1929, founded and operated the Canziani Market at B and Taylor streets in San Rafael for many years.

Mrs. Canziani was a member of St. Raphael's Church and the Italian Catholic Federation.

She is survived by a son, Norman C. Canziani of Novato; a daughter, Lena E. Avedano of San Rafael, and a grandson.

Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Rafael's Church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Keaton Chapel in San Rafael.

MARION SILVA

Mass of the Ressurection for 13-year-old Marion Silva, formerly of San Rafael, will be tomorrow at 10 a.m. at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael.

Miss Silva, who has lived the last three years in Palmdale, Los Angeles County, died Saturday at a Palmdale hospital, apparently from a blood clot. She had been in a coma for several days.

A native of San Rafael, she attended elementary school in Terra Linda.

She is survived by her parents, Uvonne and Manuel of Palmdale; two sisters, Charlotte McQuitty of Petaluma and Evelyn Silva of Palmdale; three brothers, Arnold and James of Palmdale and Robert, with the Army in South Vietnam, and her grandparents, Marie and Manuel Santos of Stinson Beach.

Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited today at 8 o'clock at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

WILLIAM HUSTON

Funeral for William Gary Huston Sr., whose three children reside in Marin County, was held today in Burlingame.

Huston, a long-time resident of Burlingame, died Friday at a Burlingame hospital following a long illness.

A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., he moved to Hawaii in 1928 and to Burlingame in 1949.

He was a retired office supply businessman and a veteran of World War I.

He is survived by two sons, William G. Huston Jr. of Novato and Arthur R. Huston of San Rafael; a daughter, Arden O. Morrell of San Anselmo, and four grandchildren.

Burial will be at Woodlawn Memorial Park, Colma.

JEAN CHURCH

Jean Harriett Church, sister of Elizabeth Bregante of San Rafael, died yesterday in her sleep while visiting her sister, the Marin County Coroner's Office said today.

Mrs. Church, 51, of Hanford, Stanislaus County, died apparently from natural causes, according to Keith C. Craig, coroner's investigator.

He said the woman went to sleep at 12:30 a.m. yesterday and the family couldn't wake her later in the morning. She was taken to Marin General Hospital and pronounced dead at 10:05 a.m.

Valentine's Day Trial In Recess

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD —The jury trial of seven men arrested during the Valentine's Day violence outside the Independent-Journal building today was recessed until Monday.

Judge William E. Jensen, who has presided over the Solano Superior Court trial since Oct. 20, said he had been unable to finish preparing jury instructions.

Both prosecution and defense attorneys must agree on the scope and wording of the instructions before beginning their final arguments to the jury, Jensen explained.

The judge told jurors, "We are not ready to proceed today. The fault lies with the court and not with the attorneys."

Jensen and the attorneys worked until 9 p.m. yesterday reviewing proposed instructions and labor cases that set precedents.

Jensen said he will place a limit of nine hours of argument on each side.

The defendants face a total of 34 charges ranging from participating in a riot, assault on police officers and possession of slingshots and blackjacks to refusal to disperse.

The Feb. 14 rally was called by Bay Area labor unions in support of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, which struck the I-J Jan. 7.

Defoliant Effect Hard To Gauge, Scientists Report

CHICAGO (UPI)—A team sent to Vietnam by the American Association for the Advancement of Science to investigate effects of defoliant sprays said Tuesday precautions to protect the local population from chemicals had failed.

The team said a study of one heavily defoliated province showed a higher rate of still births than the national average for the years 1968 and 1969, but added that lack of complete medical statistics on populations most directly affected made it difficult to draw any exact conclusions.

It said it was also handicapped by the Defense Department's refusal to release records of spraying missions, although both the Army and South Vietnamese government cooperated with the six-week on-the-scene investigation last August and September.

Prof. Matthew S. Meselson of Harvard University, a biologist appointed to head the team, financed by an $80,000 grant from the science association, said he was convinced of the sincerity of a Chemical Corps officer who flew them over a defoliated area and told them it was relatively uninhabited.

"It looked relatively uninhabited," Meselson said. "But an Army intelligence map taken the previous year showed 940 dwellings, enough to house about 5,000 people, and a blow-up of aerial photos we took showed even more houses had been built by the time the crop destruction missions took place."

Dr. J.D. Constable, professor of surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, said long term effects on the populace were particularly hard to determine because the hospitals studied in heavily defoliated Tay Ninh province kept no records of deformities of birth, even though they carefully recorded stillbirths. The stillbirth rate there was higher than any reported in a recent study by the U.S. Army and South Vietnamese Health Ministry of national hospital records for the last 10 years, he said.

"Refugee camps to which people from the defoliated areas fled reported some instances of epidemics immediately after the spraying occurred, but there are no records of other long term effects except for the possible correlation to stillbirths," Constable said.

The team said it found defoliants completely destroyed about one-half of South Vietnam's mangrove forests, one-fifth of its commercial tropical hardwood forests and enough food to feed 600,000 persons for one year.

The chairman of a panel discussing the team's report said he thought it was significant that Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird had issued an order to phase out the use of defoliants in Vietnam.

"But I don't understand why we have to use the stockpile up," said Prof. Kenneth V. Thimann, a chemist at the University of California, Santa Cruz.

ANGELA

gagged at his last court appearance at San Quentin when he repeatedly interrupted the judge with abusive language.

The pending trial yesterday drew attention in San Francisco from the American Jewish Congress's Northern California division president and in Monterey from the AFL-CIO California Federation of Teachers' convention.

Richard M. Kaplan, the division chairman, said the Jewish Congress disclaimed any connection with a suggestion that the United States "trade" Miss Davis for 11 Soviet Jews who were convicted of planning to hijack an airplane.

The Davis case is not related to the "tragic events" in Russia, he said. The suggestion of the trade had been made by the Bay Area Council of Soviet Jewry.

At the teachers' conference, a committee voted to have delegates vote on resolutions describing Miss Davis as a political prisoner and demanding her release.

Union president Raoul Teilhet, however, predicted that the resolutions would be rejected in favor of a demand that "Angela Davis receive due process and all her constitutional rights."

He did not say what rights he thought she has not received.

Board Reduces Fencing Needs

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Zoning Adjustments yesterday reduced fencing requirements for the Pleasant Hill Private Cemetery, Petaluma.

Gladys Pollock had asked the board to reconsider its requirements for a five-foot solid wall around the cemetery at Elphick and Pleasant Hill roads.

The board said the fence need not be of solid stone or masonry as first required, but could be some other type of fencing or shrubbery.

Innocent Pleas To Pot Charges

William N. Kirsch, 37, and Phyllis Ellen Ferrell, 23, both of Gate 5, Waldo Point, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of possession of marijuana and possession of marijuana for sale.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set Jan. 11 for hearing of a motion to reduced bail.

Vote Set On Rubbish Collection

Homestead Valley residents will be asked to vote on future methods of debris collection, directors of the Homestead Valley Sanitary District agreed last night.

Board President James G. MacNichols said a notice, giving three different methods of collection, will be mailed to about 800 residents after Jan. 1. The debris service is supplementary to regular garbage pickups.

At present, debris is collected in a trash bin placed at the Tamalpais Valley Fire Station, Melrose and Evergreen avenues three times a month, he said, indicating the current method is one possible choice.

Another proposal calls for a collection every other month using a compactor truck which holds the equivalent of five trash bins, plus an annual cleanup in which four cubic yards of trash will be picked up from every home.

Another possible collection method would be a monthly pickup in the five-bin compactor truck and an annual cleanup. MacNichols said this proposal would increase taxes for residents, "probably by about one dollar a year."

The board will choose a collection method on the basis of residents' votes, he said.

Directors also voted last night to go ahead with smoke testing and examination of its sewer collection system to check for leaks, according to MacNichols. Inspections will begin next month.

$7 million a year for research on the 100 identified cold-causing viruses and on the flu and pneumonia, said, "our efforts at present are concentrated on determining the feasibility of producing a vaccine combination which could be used to prevent the majority of virus-caused colds."

Dr. Robert E. Hodges of the University of Iowa School of Medicine, an authority on vitamin C, told UPI there was little evidence to support Pauling's claim.

"Most medical experts disagree with him," Hodges said. "In this instance he has made claims that there is a usefulness for great excesses of vitamins and the evidence that supports that is flimsy.

"I don't think you can say he's wrong or right. The evidence just isn't sufficient."

Hodges said his tests have shown that a well-fed, healthy, middle-aged man uses about 45 milligrams of vitamin C a day and can store only 1,500 milligrams, a 90-day supply. Anything above 1,500 milligrams is excreted, he said.

Pauling said in his book that between 250 and 10,000 milligrams is the amount "that leads to the best of health" and cited his own success in warding off colds with vitamin C.

"It is a curious thing that people want to practice medicine on themselves," Hodges said. "I don't take it, and I don't give it to my family. I suspect there is no harm in it, but I don't think there is any virtue in it either."

Pauling's scientific stature — he won the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1954 and the Nobel Peace Prize for his stand against nuclear testing in 1962— undoubtedly has helped increase his book sales and inspire an increase in vitamin C sales.

But the three largest producers of vitamin C say they aren't making any long-range plans for increased production of the vitamin. A spokesman for one said, "we get this (jump in sales) every few years."

submission to America's and Israel's conditions," Sadat said.

He told Egyptians to prepare themselves for "the battle which is everything" and said, "the next six months will be decisive. On Feb. 5 (the day the cease-fire expires), we will face the first decisive step in the next stage."

He said his government would create a national "Citizens for the Battle" (civil defense) committee and regional "Work for the Battle" groups. In a speech reported by the Middle East News Agency he "emphasized the necessity of putting the whole nation in the climate of battle."

And then, in direct opposition to the Israeli viewpoint, Sadat said:

"We will not accept another extension of the cease-fire unless there are serious efforts to enforce the Security Council resolution, which earlier defined a timetable for withdrawal (of Israel from Arab lands.)"

Mrs. Meir appealed to Egypt's new leadership to make a genuine bid for peace.

Trio Of Thiefs Foiled In Try At Bookstore

Thieves tried to loot a cash register at the Cottage Bookstore in San Rafael yesterday, but were foiled by an employee.

Police said three persons entered the bookstore at 1225 Fourth Street at 12:45 p.m. One occupied a clerk at the rear of the store while a second bought postcards from a rack behind the cashier, then asked for more cards while the register was open, police said.

The third, meanwhile, snatched money from the till while the store employees were occupied, police said.

However, as the third person left the store, he was stopped by an employee and $55 taken from him, police said. The excited employee let the three leave before police arrived.

LISA STILLMAN MACKEY

OBITUARIES

Lisa S. Mackey Killed

Lisa Stillman Mackey, 70, long-time San Rafael resident and widely published poet, was killed yesterday in Adelaide, Australia, according to relatives in Marin County.

She was on a vacation trip with Mr. and Mrs. James D. Adams of San Rafael, when she was struck by an auto.

Mrs. Mackey was the widow of Russell A. Mackey, an admiralty attorney who died in 1964. She was a resident of the Tamalpais in Larkspur at the time of her death.

Mrs. Mackey's first published poem appeared in 1921 in Atlantic Monthly. She was 21 at the time. She continued writing while rearing three children, and was published in the Poetry Review of London, The Spectator, Sunset Magazine and others. Her first volume of poetry, "Veined With Sun," was published in 1963.

Mrs. Mackey was a native of San Francisco. She and her family moved to San Rafael in 1937.

She was a graduate of Vassar, and a founding member of the Ross Valley Players. She also was active in the Marin Conservation League, Sunny Hills, the Century Club, Marin Garden Club and the Juvenile Hall Auxiliary.

She is survived by one son, William R. Mackey of San Rafael, and two daughters, Mary Walker of San Rafael and Elizabeth Butler of Carmichael, Sacramento County.

Her ashes will be brought to San Francisco for inurnment at Golden Gate National Cemetery, according to the family.

Memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Jan. 6 in St. John's Episcopal Church, Ross.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the Conservation League of Marin or the Sierra Club Foundation.

Unit To Study Downtown Plan

Novato Mayor Douglas M. Merrill has appointed a five-man committee on implementation of the downtown plan and program which will make recommendations to the council.

Named to the committee were Larry L. Heon, an attorney and member of the city's downtown committee; George E. Barnwell, newspaper publisher and member of the downtown committee; City Councilman George C. Quesada; James Picchi, real estate broker and planning commissioner, and planning director Brian W. Mattson.

Among the committee's jobs will be talking to retailers, developers and property owners about implementing the plan by consultants Sedway and Cooke of San Francisco, which calls for a regional shopping center at the Pinheiro Ranch, north of downtown.

Santa Venetia House Gutted

A one-story frame house in Santa Venetia has been gutted by fire.

The Marin County Fire Department estimated damage at $2,500 to the structure at 22 Crestview Way, owned by Lawrence Armijo. Damage to contents was estimated at $1,500. No one was injured.

The fire occurred at 7:31 p.m. Christmas Eve, but was not reported by the fire department until yesterday.

Novato Drug Case To Juvenile Court

The case of Bryan James Cunningham, 18, of Novato, was turned over to Marin Juvenile Court yesterday by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Municipal Court.

Cunningham is charged with selling methamphetamine Sept. 12 and Sept. 16 in Novato.

RAY JOHNSON

Funeral for Ray E. Johnson, former Corte Madera resident who died in Ukiah Sunday after a short illness, will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

Johnson, 86, a retired contractor, moved to Lakeport about four years ago.

A native of Augusta, Wis., he had lived in California 32 years.

He is survived by a son, Russell Johnson of Lakeport, and two sisters, Zella Hilts and Almeda Elbertson, both of Milwaukee, Wis.

DAVID CRANDALL

Born in Oakland, Crandall moved with his family to Novato in 1935.

He was a 1943 graduate of San Rafael High School, where he was named an all-league guard on the football team.

In 1943 he joined the Navy and served as a quartermaster aboard a destroyer in the Pacific area until his discharge in 1945. After he left the service, he attended College of Marin where he was again named an all-league guard.

Crandall was proprietor of the Village Inn in Novato from 1950 until 1965 when it was torn down. Since then he had been a bartender at the Moose Lodge in Novato.

He was a member of the Novato Grove of Druids and the Loyal Order of Moose.

Crandall's wife, Lila, died in 1954.

He is survived by a son, Michael; a daughter, Maureen Crandall, both of the family home at 1307 Leafwood Drive, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Crandall Sr. of Petaluma; a brother, Stanley A. Crandall Jr., also of Petaluma; a sister, Audrey Klein of Oakland, and a granddaughter.

Funeral will be at 8 p.m. today at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home in Novato. Inurnment will follow.

RALPH CONDE

Funeral for Ralph Conde, a resident of Marin convalescent hospitals for 10 years, was today in San Francisco.

Conde, 56, died Sunday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Born in Mazatlan, Mexico, Conde moved to San Francisco in 1931 and helped build the Golden Gate Bridge as a laborer and also worked aboard fishing boats bound for Alaska in the 1930s.

He then became a warehouseman until 1954 when he underwent brain surgery for removal of a blood clot.

In 1958, he was hit by a San Francisco Municipal Railway bus and paralyzed from the waist down. Last year, he underwent surgery for cancer.

He is survived by a daughter, Virginia Zarry of San Francisco and seven grandchildren.

Burial was scheduled for Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

MRS. CANZIANI

Guiseppina Canziani, 87, long-time San Rafael resident, died yesterday after a short illness at her home at 501 B Street, where she had lived since 1907.

Mrs. Canziani, a native of Italy, came to this country in 1906 and married Pietro Canziani in 1907. Canziani, who died in 1929, founded and operated the Canziani Market at B and Taylor streets in San Rafael for many years.

Mrs. Canziani was a member of St. Raphael's Church and the Italian Catholic Federation.

She is survived by a son, Norman C. Canziani of Novato; a daughter, Lena E. Avedano of San Rafael, and a grandson.

Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Rafael's Church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Keaton Chapel in San Rafael.

MARION SILVA

Mass of the Ressurection for 13-year-old Marion Silva, formerly of San Rafael, will be tomorrow at 10 a.m. at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael.

Miss Silva, who has lived the last three years in Palmdale, Los Angeles County, died Saturday at a Palmdale hospital, apparently from a blood clot. She had been in a coma for several days.

A native of San Rafael, she attended elementary school in Terra Linda.

She is survived by her parents, Uvonne and Manuel of Palmdale; two sisters, Charlotte McQuitty of Petaluma and Evelyn Silva of Palmdale; three brothers, Arnold and James of Palmdale and Robert, with the Army in South Vietnam, and her grandparents, Marie and Manuel Santos of Stinson Beach.

Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited today at 8 o'clock at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

WILLIAM HUSTON

Funeral for William Gary Huston Sr., whose three children reside in Marin County, was held today in Burlingame.

Huston, a long-time resident of Burlingame, died Friday at a Burlingame hospital following a long illness.

A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., he moved to Hawaii in 1928 and to Burlingame in 1949.

He was a retired office supply businessman and a veteran of World War I.

He is survived by two sons, William G. Huston Jr. of Novato and Arthur R. Huston of San Rafael; a daughter, Arden O. Morrell of San Anselmo, and four grandchildren.

Burial will be at Woodlawn Memorial Park, Colma.

JEAN CHURCH

Jean Harriett Church, sister of Elizabeth Bregante of San Rafael, died yesterday in her sleep while visiting her sister, the Marin County Coroner's Office said today.

Mrs. Church, 51, of Hanford, Stanislaus County, died apparently from natural causes, according to Keith C. Craig, coroner's investigator.

He said the woman went to sleep at 12:30 a.m. yesterday and the family couldn't wake her later in the morning. She was taken to Marin General Hospital and pronounced dead at 10:05 a.m.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

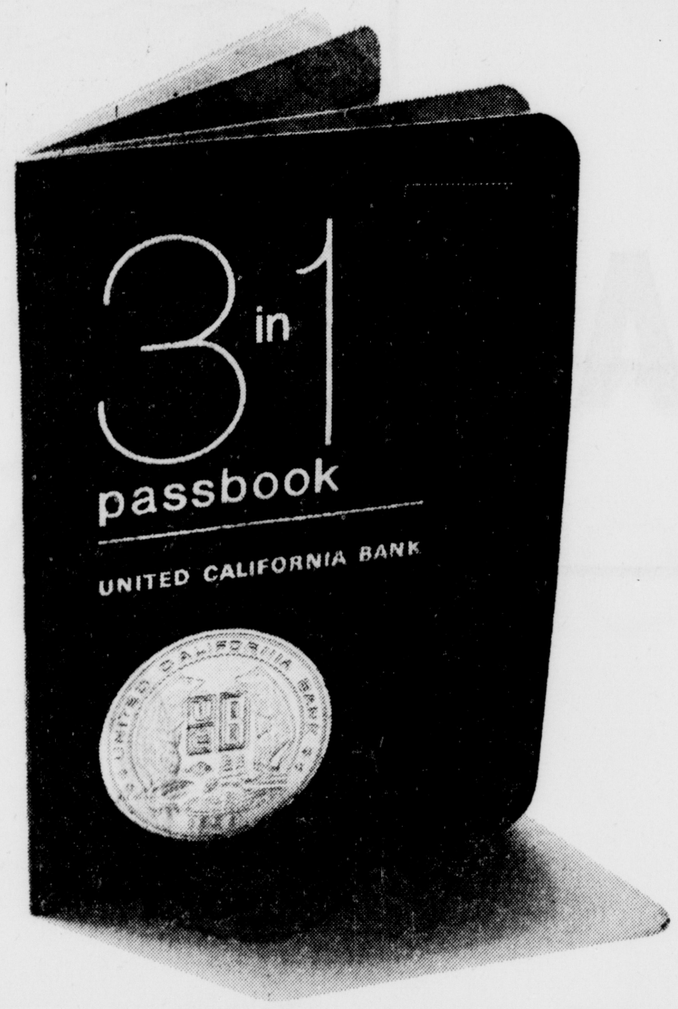
$65 million has been deposited in this passbook in just six months.



Build a better savings account and the world will beat a path to your door.

We introduced our new 3 in 1 savings plan last June. And it's been enthusiastically received, to say the least.

No wonder. Look how it works:

At UCB, like everywhere else, we have special savings plans. We have one that matures in 90 days and pays 5%. We have one that matures in one year and pays 5½%. And we have one that matures in two years and pays 5¾%.

At any other place, savings plans like these usually require a minimum deposit of $500. So that it would take $1500 to get into all three. Not at UCB. We've combined them all into one account—our 3 in 1 Passbook. So you can set up the plan that would be most interesting to you.

Like this, for example:

$250	90 days	at 5% per year.
$150	one year	at 5½%.
$100	two years	at 5¾%.

You can split your deposit any way you like. And part of your deposit can always be earning the maximum interest without tying up the rest of it too long.

At UCB you can also add to your deposit in any amount. There's no more $100 minimum. So if you have $75 on hand, you don't have to wait until you dig up another $25 before you start earning interest.

If you're already rich, UCB's 3 in 1 Passbook may not mean much to you. But if $500 is about all your budget will allow in one crack, you can do more with it at UCB.

WRONG WAY

You've seen this sign many times. But so many have violated its warning that perhaps this should be on their tombstones! The "WRONG WAY" isn't just a matter of direction but the way in which too many people drive. Speeding, out of control through alcohol, inattention, carelessness. ☆ The WRONG WAYwaits for every driver. But fortunately you have a choice: you can be mature, responsible to yourself and to others. This is the RIGHT WAY. And you don't need a sign for that!

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

IF YOU THINK THE "WRONG WAY" is just a sign you might consider these statistics: To date in 1970 more than 1450 drivers have been booked for drunk driving in Marin County. Also, nearly half the fatal holiday accidents in California in 1969 involved alcohol. You get the message.

Celebrate the holidays but not in your car!

Tiburon In Reversal Of Cable Ruling

The Tiburon City Council reversed itself last night and denied an encroachment permit to Cable TV of Marin to enable the company to provide cable television service to adjoining Belvedere.

The council, which on Dec. 14 had granted the firm the right to encroach on city rights-of-way in Pine Terrace, reconsidered its approval at the request of Councilman Branwell D. Fanning, who was absent the night approval was granted.

He called it "incongruous" that the city would let Cable TV install an overhead transmission line through the Pine Terrace-Palmer Street area while other utilities in downtown Tiburon are being placed underground.

The encroachment permit is required if Cable TV is to link its community antenna on Mount Ring with its customers in Belvedere.

Robert Pace, representing the cable television firm, said his company could bury the cable along the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way as soon as it is acquired by the city for a bicycle and pedestrian pathway. Acquisition is expected next month.

But, he said, it would be more expensive to bury the cable than to suspend it from utility poles. Underground cable costs about $15,000 a mile to install, he said, while suspended cable is only $7,000 per mile.

Pace brought a sample of the half-inch cable to last night's meeting in an effort to convince councilmen that its installation would not make much difference aesthetically.

He said the utility poles already carry six electric cables, several telephone lines and the transmission cable of a competitor, Clearview Cable Co., which serves Tiburon.

"I don't think one more wire would make any real difference," he said.

But Fanning maintained the city "has to start somewhere" to halt the proliferation of overhead cables. On a motion by Albert H. Sennett, the council voted 3-2 to rescind its earlier granting of an encroachment permit and instructed its staff to issue a new permit to encroach on the railroad right-of-way as soon as the city acquires it, probably in January.

Councilmen M. Carlisle Becker and Anne L. Ellinwood voted against reversal, while Mayor Denis T. Rice joined Fanning and Sennett to provide the winning margin. Becker said he hesitated to encourage "piecemeal undergrounding" when all utilities in the area in question would be buried in a few years.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

DRAINAGE — Authorized installation of fencing around the outfall line of a pump at Mar West Street and planting of rye grass, lupine and poppies along the drainage ditch leading from the pump to Raccoon Strait. Cost will be about $425.

TOWNHOUSES — Approved on a 3-2 vote, Miss Ellinwood and Fanning dissenting, a subdivision map for a 24-unit townhouse development on Red Hill Circle. The applicant is Leonard Cahn.

WALKWAY — Appropriated $2,000 to hire an architect to design a walkway along Paradise Drive from Main Street to Solano Street.

SALARIES — Increased salaries for three clerical workers, three maintenance men, Acting City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert and Planning Director Wayne E. Moody. The increases total $693 for the rest of the fiscal year.

PHYLLIS — Changed the name of Phyllis Drive to Meadowhill Drive and Phyllis Court to Phyllis Drive.

DINNER — Granted a dinner allowance to nonresident city employees whenever they are required to attend night meetings in Tiburon.

CLOSED SESSION — Went behind closed doors to discuss the hiring of a city manager to replace Lawrence D. Rose, who resigned to become city manager of Laguna Beach in Orange County.

MEETINGS — Adjourned to a special closed meeting Jan. 5 at city hall to screen applicants for the city manager post. The next regular meeting will be Jan. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Pension Boost For Veterans

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Effective Friday, an estimated 1.5 million veterans or their widows will get an average 8.5 per cent increase in non-service connected pensions.

President Nixon signed a bill Monday granting the increases and protecting the veterans or their widows from reductions that would otherwise have resulted from a 15 per cent boost in Social Security benefits granted earlier this year.

The size of a pension decreases as other sources of income increase and the bill was needed to prevent a reduction and in some cases elimination of the pensions as a result of the Social Security increase.

'Isaac' Sparkles With Love, Life

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — "The last Sweet Days of Isaac" is a rollicking good show —a package of sparkling acting and thumping rock music.

The musical, which won top honors last year on New York's Off-Broadway, arrived last night at the Marine's Memorial Theater in its West Coast premiere through San Francisco's American Conservatory Theater.

Like "Hair," it tosses the old format to the air. There is not a dull moment — originality and exuberance prevail continuously in the slightly over two-hour "life-type" experience.

And the musical brings to the San Francisco state two fresh faces — the highly talented Robert Walden as Isaac, and Jonelle Allen, in the twin roles of Ingrid and Alice.

With the roll of her eyes, the twist of a finger or the jutting of a lovely looking leg, Miss Allen displays some of the most sparkling talent seen on a Bay Area stage in several seasons.

As Isaac, Walden is refreshing, too, in his off-beat fashion. In Part I of the musical, he plays a 32-year-old who fears he is going to die in his 33rd year and in Part II, a 19-year-old pacifist who is making the San Francisco scene.

The rest of the show is made up of excellent rock music from a raised platform dressed in free-flowing forms of foil and illuminated in flashing colors.

While Part I deals with two people trapped in an elevator between floors —a really old format — the sparkling dialogue helps lift it from strained comedy, thanks to Miss Allen's theatrical contortions and a very pleasant voice. As Isaac remarks, it is really a "collage of life."

Part II is more touching and current — the antiwar feeling among today's younger generation. While the ending is rather odd-ball in that Isaac watches himself die in a riot, the script is laced with some excellent observations of today's scene. For instance, there is Isaac's description of a perfect protest in which one takes up space and does nothing.

Part —— gives the rock band and the Zietgeist Vocalists, a trio composed of former members of the cast of "Hair," a chance to show off the excellent lyrics of Gretchen Cryer and the interwoven musical score by Nancy Wilson.

The musical has the freshness of "Hair" but is more sophisticated in approach, even though at times it is just as mind-blowing.

Tieing the package together is Arthur Sherman. His keen sense of direction keeps all elements tightly woven, thus providing an excellent debut as one of ACT's directors.

For patrons of the theater who are looking for something unusual with a fresh approach to the traditional musical form, "Isaac" will leave a warm glow.

It is being presented Mondays through Thursdays at 8:30 p.m. and Fridays and Saturdays at 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Tiburon In Reversal Of Cable Ruling

The Tiburon City Council reversed itself last night and denied an encroachment permit to Cable TV of Marin to enable the company to provide cable television service to adjoining Belvedere.

The council, which on Dec. 14 had granted the firm the right to encroach on city rights-of-way in Pine Terrace, reconsidered its approval at the request of Councilman Branwell D. Fanning, who was absent the night approval was granted.

He called it "incongruous" that the city would let Cable TV install an overhead transmission line through the Pine Terrace-Palmer Street area while other utilities in downtown Tiburon are being placed underground.

The encroachment permit is required if Cable TV is to link its community antenna on Mount Ring with its customers in Belvedere.

Robert Pace, representing the cable television firm, said his company could bury the cable along the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way as soon as it is acquired by the city for a bicycle and pedestrian pathway. Acquisition is expected next month.

But, he said, it would be more expensive to bury the cable than to suspend it from utility poles. Underground cable costs about $15,000 a mile to install, he said, while suspended cable is only $7,000 per mile.

Pace brought a sample of the half-inch cable to last night's meeting in an effort to convince councilmen that its installation would not make much difference aesthetically.

He said the utility poles already carry six electric cables, several telephone lines and the transmission cable of a competitor, Clearview Cable Co., which serves Tiburon.

"I don't think one more wire would make any real difference," he said.

But Fanning maintained the city "has to start somewhere" to halt the proliferation of overhead cables. On a motion by Albert H. Sennett, the council voted 3-2 to rescind its earlier granting of an encroachment permit and instructed its staff to issue a new permit to encroach on the railroad right-of-way as soon as the city acquires it, probably in January.

Councilmen M. Carlisle Becker and Anne L. Ellinwood voted against reversal, while Mayor Denis T. Rice joined Fanning and Sennett to provide the winning margin. Becker said he hesitated to encourage "piecemeal undergrounding" when all utilities in the area in question would be buried in a few years.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

DRAINAGE — Authorized installation of fencing around the outfall line of a pump at Mar West Street and planting of rye grass, lupine and poppies along the drainage ditch leading from the pump to Raccoon Strait. Cost will be about $425.

TOWNHOUSES — Approved on a 3-2 vote, Miss Ellinwood and Fanning dissenting, a subdivision map for a 24-unit townhouse development on Red Hill Circle. The applicant is Leonard Cahn.

WALKWAY — Appropriated $2,000 to hire an architect to design a walkway along Paradise Drive from Main Street to Solano Street.

SALARIES — Increased salaries for three clerical workers, three maintenance men, Acting City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert and Planning Director Wayne E. Moody. The increases total $693 for the rest of the fiscal year.

PHYLLIS — Changed the name of Phyllis Drive to Meadowhill Drive and Phyllis Court to Phyllis Drive.

DINNER — Granted a dinner allowance to nonresident city employees whenever they are required to attend night meetings in Tiburon.

CLOSED SESSION — Went behind closed doors to discuss the hiring of a city manager to replace Lawrence D. Rose, who resigned to become city manager of Laguna Beach in Orange County.

MEETINGS — Adjourned to a special closed meeting Jan. 5 at city hall to screen applicants for the city manager post. The next regular meeting will be Jan. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Pension Boost For Veterans

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Effective Friday, an estimated 1.5 million veterans or their widows will get an average 8.5 per cent increase in non-service connected pensions.

President Nixon signed a bill Monday granting the increases and protecting the veterans or their widows from reductions that would otherwise have resulted from a 15 per cent boost in Social Security benefits granted earlier this year.

The size of a pension decreases as other sources of income increase and the bill was needed to prevent a reduction and in some cases elimination of the pensions as a result of the Social Security increase.

'Isaac' Sparkles With Love, Life

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

SAN FRANCISCO — "The last Sweet Days of Isaac" is a rollicking good show —a package of sparkling acting and thumping rock music.

The musical, which won top honors last year on New York's Off-Broadway, arrived last night at the Marine's Memorial Theater in its West Coast premiere through San Francisco's American Conservatory Theater.

Like "Hair," it tosses the old format to the air. There is not a dull moment — originality and exuberance prevail continuously in the slightly over two-hour "life-type" experience.

Planning Ahead May Not Be As Easy As It's Mapped

Bridge writers are fond of pointing out that bridge is an easy game and that a good player should look ahead. I've done my share of this pointing out. Now I have to eat some of my words because of today's hand, played by one of the leading players of France. He didn't look ahead, and bridge was not an easy game.

LOW DIAMOND

West led the three of diamonds, an unfortunate choice for his side, but rather natural in view of his partner's opening bid. Gerald Desrousseaux, one of the best players in Europe, discarded a spade from dummy and captured the king of diamonds with the ace. So far so good.

What should South do next?

CASHES QUEEN

South cashed the queen of diamonds to discard the other low spade from dummy, ruffed a diamond in dummy and led dummy's third trump to take a finesse with the jack. He then ruffed his last diamond with dummy's fourth trump, cashed the ace of spades, and got to his hand with the ace of clubs to ruff his last spade with dummy's last trump.

NO WAY OUT

Now declarer had to get back to his hand to draw the last trump, but there was no way out of the dummy. There were only four clubs headed by the king in the dummy, and East pounced on the king of clubs with the queen of hearts. Down one.

If bridge were really an easy game, South would have seen all this coming. He would ruff a low diamond at the second trick and then lead a trump to the ace. By the time South finished ruffing two diamonds and a spade in the dummy he would have one safe entry back to his hand — either the first round of clubs or a trump.

ARE GENIUSES

You can show this hand to your friends to see how careful they are. If they make the right play at the second trick they are either geniuses or they have read this column just as you did.

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

The hand is not strong enough for a forcing opening bid, and both the strength and distribution are wrong for an opening bid of two no-trumps. If partner cannot respond to a bid of one heart, you will not miss a game.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Planning Ahead May Not Be As Easy As It's Mapped

Bridge writers are fond of pointing out that bridge is an easy game and that a good player should look ahead. I've done my share of this pointing out. Now I have to eat some of my words because of today's hand, played by one of the leading players of France. He didn't look ahead, and bridge was not an easy game.

LOW DIAMOND

West led the three of diamonds, an unfortunate choice for his side, but rather natural in view of his partner's opening bid. Gerald Desrousseaux, one of the best players in Europe, discarded a spade from dummy and captured the king of diamonds with the ace. So far so good.

What should South do next?

CASHES QUEEN

South cashed the queen of diamonds to discard the other low spade from dummy, ruffed a diamond in dummy and led dummy's third trump to take a finesse with the jack. He then ruffed his last diamond with dummy's fourth trump, cashed the ace of spades, and got to his hand with the ace of clubs to ruff his last spade with dummy's last trump.

NO WAY OUT

Now declarer had to get back to his hand to draw the last trump, but there was no way out of the dummy. There were only four clubs headed by the king in the dummy, and East pounced on the king of clubs with the queen of hearts. Down one.

If bridge were really an easy game, South would have seen all this coming. He would ruff a low diamond at the second trick and then lead a trump to the ace. By the time South finished ruffing two diamonds and a spade in the dummy he would have one safe entry back to his hand — either the first round of clubs or a trump.

Senate Hustles To Beat Deadline

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In a sudden burst of speed, the senate has scuttled welfare and trade legislation, sought a new compromise on the defense appropriations bill, granted aid to Cambodia and Israel, and all but assured 26 million Americans a Social Security increase.

In a session that lasted past midnight, the Senate Monday appeared to be in a serious rush to break its legislative logjam and adjourn before the Constitution dictates the 91st Congress must expire —noon Sunday.

A major hurdle remained, however —a filibuster over whether to appropriate $210 million to continue the supersonic transport program. No solution was in sight.

Approval of the $8 billion Social Security bill was assured with only a few last minute amendments to be decided before a final vote today.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said as the Senate reconvened this morning after less than nine hours' rest that several major disagreements remained in the way of adjournment before the weekend. Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., was more optimistic, predicting that "for all practical purposes we're going to be finished after today."

A Senate-House conference committee must work out a compromise between differing verions of the Social Security bill before it can gain final Congressional approval.

The Senate bill provided for a 10 per cent across-the-board increase compared with the 5 per cent increase passed by the House. The Senate set a minimum payment of $100 a month, the House $67.40.

The Senate bill also provided for reforms in Medicare and Medicaid programs, and $1 billion for added benefits under public assistance programs.

The $66.6 billion defense appropriations bill had been considered one of the major blocks to adjournment because the House included language in its version of the bill that watered down earlier legislation banning the use of U.S. troops in Cambodia. The language was retained in a compromise bill.

The Senate moved faster than expected and rejected the conference committee compromise Monday night, however, requesting another conference with the House.

Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., said he holed the House would give up its insistence on weakening the ban on the use of American troops in Cambodia. The compromise bill would allow the use of American troops to protect the withdrawal of Americans from Vietnam or to rescue prisoners of war.

The Senate also approved and sent to the White House a $1.8 billion supplementary appropriations bill which contains $255 million to inaugurate a program of economic aid for Cambodia and $500 million for Israel.

The $2.6 billion transportation appropriations bill, which contains $210 million for the supersonic transport, was the only appropriations bill which did not appear headed for a compromise.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said, however, "something is going to give" on the bill, or government workers such as air traffic controllers and Coast Guardsmen are going to go without pay in January. Their appropriations are tied to the fate of the SST filbuster.

Faced with two other filibusters, the Senate voted 49-21 to junk President Nixon's family assistance plan and trade legislation and concentrate on Social Security.

The vote came on a move by Russell B. Long, D-La., to send a package containing trade, welfare, Social Security, and a catastrophic illness measure, to the Finance Committee, with instructions to bring back a stripped down bill.

In addition to major benefits increases, other provisions in the Senate Social Security bill are higher benefits for widows who retire after reaching 65 to match those received by their late husbands; an automatic increase in benefits to match increases in the cost of living whenever those costs rise by 3 per cent or more, and allowing people on Social Security to earn more without losing benefits.

The package would be paid for by a tax increase of up to $93.60 next year and higher in the future.

Stab Victim Had Gun, Girl Says

Patricia Bredehoft, a telephone operator, was on the witness stand at the murder trial of Alan Passaro, 21, a member of the Hell's Angels motorcycle club.

She said Meredith Hunter, the victim, had taken the gun from his automobile and put it in his waistband before the concert started, saying he had done so "in case there is trouble from the crowd."

Miss Bredehoft, a long-haired blonde, also said she had difficulty seeing what was happening because of the huge crowd, but that Hunter had pulled the weapon after being knocked down.

5th Graders Give Donation To CARE

Fifth grade students at Larkspur-Corte Madera School donated enough money to send enough food overseas to provide 2,500 lunches for pupils, the regional CARE office in San Francisco reported.

Mrs. Mary-Anne Orsi, teacher, yesterday said the fifth grade classes annually makes a pre-Christmas donation to CARE. This year the 60 youngsters donated $28, enough to send 675 pounds of food overseas. The packages are sent to distressed areas in the Middle East, Latin America and Africa, CARE said.

Manson Defense: 'Reasonable Doubt'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The chief defense attorney at the Tate murder trial sought to convince the jury today that it was reasonable to believe that someone other than the "Manson Family" committed the four slayings at the actress' home.

Paul Fitzgerald, in final arguments for Charles Manson and three female codefendants, said it was not impossible to believe that key state witness Linda Kasabian went to the home with her husband and a friend.

A fingerprint of Patricia Krenwinkel, accused along with Susan Atkins and Leslie Van Houten, of the Tate-LaBianca murders was found on a French window leading to the bedroom of Sharon Tate.

Fitzgerald argued that the fingerprint could have been placed there several days before the Aug. 9 slayings and introduced the idea that Miss Krenwinkel could have been a guest at the estate and used the bedroom to change for the swimming pool.

All four defendants were absent from the courtroom again Tuesday, listening to the proceedings by loudspeaker in nearby anterooms.

Fitzgerald said that the only knife found at the murder scene was Linda Kasabian's own buck knife. The state witness had testified that she never entered the house herself but that she gave her knife to Susan Atkins.

"It is just as reasonable to assume that she actually participated in these events," Fitzgerald said.

"It is also reasonable to believe that she was not even with Charles "Tex" Watson, Patricia Krenwinkel and Susan Atkins but with some other person or persons."

The defense attorney said those persons could have been her husband Robert and a friend Charles Melton.

The defense has painted Miss Kasabian as a liar out to save her own skin

Cranston Mounts Space Shuttle Push

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., has called for the formation of a task force to bring the space agency's proposed "space shuttle" launch and recovery base to California.

Cranston said Monday that he was calling upon state and federal governmental leaders as well as top labor officials and businessmen to form the task force.

Sausalito Ferry Shut Down Again

A sheared transmission shaft in one of the Sausalito ferry's two engines has shut down the ferry, probably until Monday, according to Donald White, transit manager for the Golden Gate Bridge District.

The ferry developed a loud noise in the port gearbox during a Sunday afternoon trip from Sausalito to San Francisco and has been out of service since.

Buses have been substituted for the disabled craft, White said.

White said repair parts aren't expected to arrive until tomorrow and it will take two or three days to repair the damaged transmission.

It was the fourth time the ferry has been cripped since service began in mid-August.

Site Closed

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI)—The Nevada Test Site has been shut down—possibly until Jan. 25—because of heavy snows on access roads and continuing checks for radiation given off by an underground test Dec. 18, the Atomic Energy Commission said Monday.

Col. Sanders Files Restaurant Appeal

Denied a permit by the Marin County Planning Commission, representatives of the take-out restaurant appealed yesterday to the board of supervisors.

The restaurant seeks to open up at the location of the former C's Drive-In on Miller Avenue, but was turned down by a 5 to 2 vote of the county planning commission on Dec. 21.

"We feel that those who appeared in opposition at the planning commission hearing did not represent the desires of the citizenry," said Claxon.

He said he had spoken with several citizens of Mill Valley who are ready to circulate petitions in favor of the restaurant in or near Mill Valley.

Nixon Faces Television Commentators Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon will be interviewed by four television network correspondents in an hour-long program Monday night between 9 and 10 EST, the White House announced today.

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said the interview was initiated by the President and was intended to present his views "in perspective and depth."

Ziegler said there would be no restrictions on questioning by the panel of four during the interviews to be carried live from the White Hoase. This would be the second such program. Nixon also was interviewed for an hour by three commentators last summer.

Ziegler said the questioners, selected by the networks, would be Eric Sevareid of CBS, John Chancellor of NBC, Howard K. Smith of ABC and Nancy Dickerson, representing the Public Broadcast Network.

Sevareid, Chancellor and Smith were the questioners on the previous program originating from Los Angeles last July 1. The noncommercial network representative, Mrs. Dickerson, formerly of NBC, was added for the Jan. 4 program.

The previous interview was limited to foreign policy. There will be no subject restrictions this time, Ziegler said.

"The objective is to have a very full and complete conversation with the President," Ziegler said.

Ziegler said the television interview would not be in lieu of a general news conference. He added that the possiblity of a similar conversation with a limited number of newspaper and magazine correspondents had been discussed and "perhaps we will do that at some time in the future."

The White House and news media, both among themselves and between each other, have been discussing how to improve on the news conference concept for the benefit of both.

For his part, Nixon's communications director, Herbert G. Klein, says the general news conference "with 300 reporters clamoring for their moment on camera and with 30 million viewers watching —is not the ideal format to reveal policy to world leaders or to explain it in depth to the nation."

Lawmaker Asks Barrier Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A state lawmaker today announced plans to introduce legislation aimed at prohibiting people from bombing car windshields from freeway overpasses with rocks and other missiles.

Sen. Lawrence Walsh, D-Huntington Park, said he will submit a bill requiring that all freeway pedestrian overcrossings be fenced "so as to decrease the potential threat from a handful of unpredictable kooks."

He said the funds to construct such fences would come from gasoline taxes. Estimated cost of so equipping Los Angeles overcrossings alone was set at $5 million.

The Senate bill provided for a 10 per cent across-the-board increase compared with the 5 per cent increase passed by the House. The Senate set a minimum payment of $100 a month, the House $67.40.

The Senate bill also provided for reforms in Medicare and Medicaid programs, and $1 billion for added benefits under public assistance programs.

The $66.6 billion defense appropriations bill had been considered one of the major blocks to adjournment because the House included language in its version of the bill that watered down earlier legislation banning the use of U.S. troops in Cambodia. The language was retained in a compromise bill.

The Senate moved faster than expected and rejected the conference committee compromise Monday night, however, requesting another conference with the House.

Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., said he holed the House would give up its insistence on weakening the ban on the use of American troops in Cambodia. The compromise bill would allow the use of American troops to protect the withdrawal of Americans from Vietnam or to rescue prisoners of war.

The Senate also approved and sent to the White House a $1.8 billion supplementary appropriations bill which contains $255 million to inaugurate a program of economic aid for Cambodia and $500 million for Israel.

The $2.6 billion transportation appropriations bill, which contains $210 million for the supersonic transport, was the only appropriations bill which did not appear headed for a compromise.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said, however, "something is going to give" on the bill, or government workers such as air traffic controllers and Coast Guardsmen are going to go without pay in January. Their appropriations are tied to the fate of the SST filbuster.

Faced with two other filibusters, the Senate voted 49-21 to junk President Nixon's family assistance plan and trade legislation and concentrate on Social Security.

The vote came on a move by Russell B. Long, D-La., to send a package containing trade, welfare, Social Security, and a catastrophic illness measure, to the Finance Committee, with instructions to bring back a stripped down bill.

In addition to major benefits increases, other provisions in the Senate Social Security bill are higher benefits for widows who retire after reaching 65 to match those received by their late husbands; an automatic increase in benefits to match increases in the cost of living whenever those costs rise by 3 per cent or more, and allowing people on Social Security to earn more without losing benefits.

The package would be paid for by a tax increase of up to $93.60 next year and higher in the future.

Stab Victim Had Gun, Girl Says

Patricia Bredehoft, a telephone operator, was on the witness stand at the murder trial of Alan Passaro, 21, a member of the Hell's Angels motorcycle club.

She said Meredith Hunter, the victim, had taken the gun from his automobile and put it in his waistband before the concert started, saying he had done so "in case there is trouble from the crowd."

Miss Bredehoft, a long-haired blonde, also said she had difficulty seeing what was happening because of the huge crowd, but that Hunter had pulled the weapon after being knocked down.

5th Graders Give Donation To CARE

Fifth grade students at Larkspur-Corte Madera School donated enough money to send enough food overseas to provide 2,500 lunches for pupils, the regional CARE office in San Francisco reported.

Mrs. Mary-Anne Orsi, teacher, yesterday said the fifth grade classes annually makes a pre-Christmas donation to CARE. This year the 60 youngsters donated $28, enough to send 675 pounds of food overseas. The packages are sent to distressed areas in the Middle East, Latin America and Africa, CARE said.

Manson Defense: 'Reasonable Doubt'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The chief defense attorney at the Tate murder trial sought to convince the jury today that it was reasonable to believe that someone other than the "Manson Family" committed the four slayings at the actress' home.

Paul Fitzgerald, in final arguments for Charles Manson and three female codefendants, said it was not impossible to believe that key state witness Linda Kasabian went to the home with her husband and a friend.

A fingerprint of Patricia Krenwinkel, accused along with Susan Atkins and Leslie Van Houten, of the Tate-LaBianca murders was found on a French window leading to the bedroom of Sharon Tate.

Fitzgerald argued that the fingerprint could have been placed there several days before the Aug. 9 slayings and introduced the idea that Miss Krenwinkel could have been a guest at the estate and used the bedroom to change for the swimming pool.

All four defendants were absent from the courtroom again Tuesday, listening to the proceedings by loudspeaker in nearby anterooms.

Fitzgerald said that the only knife found at the murder scene was Linda Kasabian's own buck knife. The state witness had testified that she never entered the house herself but that she gave her knife to Susan Atkins.

"It is just as reasonable to assume that she actually participated in these events," Fitzgerald said.

"It is also reasonable to believe that she was not even with Charles "Tex" Watson, Patricia Krenwinkel and Susan Atkins but with some other person or persons."

The defense attorney said those persons could have been her husband Robert and a friend Charles Melton.

Cranston Mounts Space Shuttle Push

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., has called for the formation of a task force to bring the space agency's proposed "space shuttle" launch and recovery base to California.

Cranston said Monday that he was calling upon state and federal governmental leaders as well as top labor officials and businessmen to form the task force.

Sausalito Ferry Shut Down Again

A sheared transmission shaft in one of the Sausalito ferry's two engines has shut down the ferry, probably until Monday, according to Donald White, transit manager for the Golden Gate Bridge District.

The ferry developed a loud noise in the port gearbox during a Sunday afternoon trip from Sausalito to San Francisco and has been out of service since.

Buses have been substituted for the disabled craft, White said.

White said repair parts aren't expected to arrive until tomorrow and it will take two or three days to repair the damaged transmission.

It was the fourth time the ferry has been cripped since service began in mid-August.

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI)—The Nevada Test Site has been shut down—possibly until Jan. 25—because of heavy snows on access roads and continuing checks for radiation given off by an underground test Dec. 18, the Atomic Energy Commission said Monday.

Col. Sanders Files Restaurant Appeal

Denied a permit by the Marin County Planning Commission, representatives of the take-out restaurant appealed yesterday to the board of supervisors.

The restaurant seeks to open up at the location of the former C's Drive-In on Miller Avenue, but was turned down by a 5 to 2 vote of the county planning commission on Dec. 21.

"We feel that those who appeared in opposition at the planning commission hearing did not represent the desires of the citizenry," said Claxon.

He said he had spoken with several citizens of Mill Valley who are ready to circulate petitions in favor of the restaurant in or near Mill Valley.

Nixon Faces Television Commentators Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon will be interviewed by four television network correspondents in an hour-long program Monday night between 9 and 10 EST, the White House announced today.

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said the interview was initiated by the President and was intended to present his views "in perspective and depth."

Ziegler said there would be no restrictions on questioning by the panel of four during the interviews to be carried live from the White Hoase. This would be the second such program. Nixon also was interviewed for an hour by three commentators last summer.

Ziegler said the questioners, selected by the networks, would be Eric Sevareid of CBS, John Chancellor of NBC, Howard K. Smith of ABC and Nancy Dickerson, representing the Public Broadcast Network.

Sevareid, Chancellor and Smith were the questioners on the previous program originating from Los Angeles last July 1. The noncommercial network representative, Mrs. Dickerson, formerly of NBC, was added for the Jan. 4 program.

The previous interview was limited to foreign policy. There will be no subject restrictions this time, Ziegler said.

"The objective is to have a very full and complete conversation with the President," Ziegler said.

Ziegler said the television interview would not be in lieu of a general news conference. He added that the possiblity of a similar conversation with a limited number of newspaper and magazine correspondents had been discussed and "perhaps we will do that at some time in the future."

The White House and news media, both among themselves and between each other, have been discussing how to improve on the news conference concept for the benefit of both.

For his part, Nixon's communications director, Herbert G. Klein, says the general news conference "with 300 reporters clamoring for their moment on camera and with 30 million viewers watching —is not the ideal format to reveal policy to world leaders or to explain it in depth to the nation."

Lawmaker Asks Barrier Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A state lawmaker today announced plans to introduce legislation aimed at prohibiting people from bombing car windshields from freeway overpasses with rocks and other missiles.

Sen. Lawrence Walsh, D-Huntington Park, said he will submit a bill requiring that all freeway pedestrian overcrossings be fenced "so as to decrease the potential threat from a handful of unpredictable kooks."

He said the funds to construct such fences would come from gasoline taxes. Estimated cost of so equipping Los Angeles overcrossings alone was set at $5 million.

Senate Hustles To Beat Deadline

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In a sudden burst of speed, the senate has scuttled welfare and trade legislation, sought a new compromise on the defense appropriations bill, granted aid to Cambodia and Israel, and all but assured 26 million Americans a Social Security increase.

In a session that lasted past midnight, the Senate Monday appeared to be in a serious rush to break its legislative logjam and adjourn before the Constitution dictates the 91st Congress must expire —noon Sunday.

A major hurdle remained, however —a filibuster over whether to appropriate $210 million to continue the supersonic transport program. No solution was in sight.

Approval of the $8 billion Social Security bill was assured with only a few last minute amendments to be decided before a final vote today.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said as the Senate reconvened this morning after less than nine hours' rest that several major disagreements remained in the way of adjournment before the weekend. Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., was more optimistic, predicting that "for all practical purposes we're going to be finished after today."

A Senate-House conference committee must work out a compromise between differing verions of the Social Security bill before it can gain final Congressional approval.

The Senate bill provided for a 10 per cent across-the-board increase compared with the 5 per cent increase passed by the House. The Senate set a minimum payment of $100 a month, the House $67.40.

The Senate bill also provided for reforms in Medicare and Medicaid programs, and $1 billion for added benefits under public assistance programs.

Latin America: Politics To Left, Quake Disaster

By CHARLES E. PADILLA

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The election of Marxist Dr. Salvador Allende as president of Chile, upsurges in political assassinations and urban terrorism, government shakeups and one of the great earthquakes of this century marked 1970 in Latin America.

For 1971 the trend is likely to continue to the left.

Biggest political story of the year was Allende's victory in traditionally democratic Chile. His tiny margin of victory —1.4 per cent of three million votes cast — made Allende the first freely-elected Marxist president in the Western Hemisphere.

Following the Chilean congress' ratification of his victory, Allende's expected shift to leftwing policies started almost immediately. Nine days after assuming office on Nov. 3, Allende announced resumption of diplomatic relations with Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba, isolated from the American community since 1964.

By early December, Allende and his leftwing coalition government began zeroing in on nationalization of several multimillion dollar U.S.-owned copper industries, as well as banks and other large monopolies.

At year's end, there was speculation other Latin American countries would be following Chile in renewing diplomatic and commercial relations with Cuba.

Political assassinations reached a new high —and target areas ranged from chronically underdeveloped Guatemala to Argentina, one of the continent's most developed and sophisticated countries.

Especially shocking were the kidnapings and murders F former Argentine President (1955 to 1958) Pedro Eugenio Aramburu, 67, U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) official Dan A. Mitrione, 50, in Uruguay, and West German Ambassador Karl von Spretti in Guatemala by Castro-Communist terrorists.

Chilean rightwing extremists, in an apparent but futile attempt to keep Allende from power, assassinated the Chilean army commander, Gen. Rene Schneider, in Santiago on Oct. 22.

Even remote Paraguay was not spared. Last May, two Arab guerrillas burst into the Israeli embassy in Asuncion and killed a woman secretary and wounded another. Captured by police within the hour, the pair confessed that their mission had been to kill Benjami Varon, Israeli ambassador to Paraguay.

Nine other foreigners stationed in Latin America were also involved in political kidnapings.

They were Japanese Consul Gen. Nobuo Okuchi, exchanged for five political prisoners in Sao Paulo; West German Ambassador Ehrenfried vol Holleben, exchanged for 40 prisoners in Rio de Janeiro; Paraguayan consul Waldemar Sanchez, released after five days captivity in Buenos Aires; U.S. embassy labor attache Sean Holly, exchanged for one prisoner in Guatemala City, and Lt. Col. Donald Crowley, U.S. air attache, exchanged for 19 prisoners in the Dominican Republic.

Two other foreigners had near-misses with kidnapings. U.S. consul Curtis Cutter was wounded but escaped a kidnap attempt in Porto Alegre, Brazil. Yuri Pivovarov, a Russian embassy commercial attache in Buenos Aires, escaped a similar attempt by rightwing terrorists.

As year's end approached, Uruguay's leftwing Tupamaro terrorists continued to hold two other foreign hostages, U.S. soils expert Claude L. Fly, 65, kidnaped Aug. 7, and Brazilian Consul Aloysio Dias Gomide, 41, seized July 31. Both were kidnaped in Montevideo.

No year in Latin America would be complete without coups and 1970, although not a "bumper crop" year, was no exception.

Argentina, second largest country in South America, experienced a "revolution within a revolution." Military President Juan Carlos Ongania, in power since June, 1966, was ousted June 8 in a bloodless 12-hour coup.

Ongania's apparent plans to stay in power indefinitely and his idea of setting up a "corporate style government" sparked the coup, led by the heads of the army, navy and air force.

Brig. Gen. Roberto Marcelo Levingston, 50, a virtually unknown army intelligence officer assigned as an attache in the Argentine kembassy in Washington, D.C., was appointed president 10 days later with a proviso that he "co-govern" with the military chiefs.

Widespread labor unrest, rising inflation and three nationwide general strikes marred Levingston's first six months in office.

Revolution-prone Bolivia underwent still another tragicomic upheaval, with Gen. Juan Juse Torres, a leftist-leaning army general, finally emerging on top after a chaotic week. Torres replaced former president Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia, in power since 1969.

Six other countries, including Chile, installed presidents via the ballot box.

They were Misael Pastrana Borrero in Colombia, Jose Figueres in Costa Rica, Carlos Arana Osorio in Guatemala, Joaquin Balaguer, re-elected for a second term in the Dominican Republic, and Luis Echeverria in Mexico.

Two out of every three Latin Americans, however, continued to live under military rule as Brazil, Argentina, Panama, Guatemala, Peru and Paraguay retained their military governments.

Five-time Ecuadorian President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, 77, also assumed virtual dictatorial powers at mid-year in an effort to curb mounting student and political unrest.

Terrorism, which shifted from rural areas to urban centers after the death of Cuban guerrilla leader Ernesto "Che" Guevara in Bolivia in 1967, became a daily fact of life in many countries in 1970.

Uruguay's well-organized "Tupamaros" led the way with the abductions of Mitrione, Fly and Dias Gomide, and executed one of the largest jewel robberies in history. Estimates of the haul, robbed from a gogernment-run national bank of the republic pawnshop in Montevideo, ranged from government officials' $1 million figure to privately-expressed bank estimates of $6 million.

In Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay, police waged an increasing war on terrorists operating in the large urban centers.

Authorities won several battles — capturing Raul Sendic, alleged founder of the Tupamaros in 1964, and Brazilian guerrilla leader Joaquin Ferreira in Sao Paulo. Ferreira died a few hours after he was captured of an apparent heart attack.

Peru's giant earthquake in May also caught the world's attention.

Aid from around the world, including an airlift from the Soviet Union and a cash grant from Communist China, poured into Peru. President Richard Nixon's wife, Pat, made a brief tour of the devastated area.

On the economic side, Brazil under President Emilio Garrastazu Medici continued its healthy (9 per cent) economic growth for the second year in a row, opening unexploited areas in the interior and the Amazon basin.

Brazil's worldwide image suffered, however, by widespread reports of torture of political prisoners and publicity given the nation's "death squadrons," self-styled "executioners" of hardcore criminals.

Two of the continent's recently most-stable currencies, the Argentine peso and the Ecuadorian sucre, underwent devaluations in 1970. The peso was devaluated 14.3 per cent and the sucre nearly 40 per cent.

Brazil's Cruzeiro was devaluated 11.7 per cent in a series of adjustments throughout the year. In a similar manner, the Chilean escudo was devaluated by 22.5 per cent.

Chilean economist Felipe Herrera, president of the Inter-American Development Bank since its founding in 1959, resigned suddenly in October. Former Mexican Finance Minister Antonio Ortiz Mena was elected to replace him in the next month.

Mexican ex-President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, speaking during a visit with President Nixon in San Clemente, Calif., in September, sounded a somber warning about U.S.-Latin American economic relations.

Diaz Ordaz said tariff and import "protectionist tendencies" in the United States imperiled Latin America's economies, as well as relations between the two hemispheres.

Elsewhere, Venezuela's oil industry, keystone of its economy, appeared heading for a revitalization in 1970 after a decade of stagnation.

Ecuador, one of the continent's poorest countries, went ahead with the construction of a 318-mile oil pipeline which will bring more recently discovered oil in the eastern provinces over the towering Andes Mountains to Pacific ports.

On the negative side, Castro's much heralded goal of a 10-million ton sugar harvest fell short by 1.5 million tons.

Other news which made the 1970 headlines was the awarding of Nobel Prizes to two scientists in the hemisphere.

Argentine Professor Luis F. Leloir won the Nobel Chemistry Prize for his discovery and isolation of sugar nucleotides and subsequent research of their functions in biochemical synthesis in the human body.

Dr. Norman E. Borlaug, an American who has lived in Mexico for 26 years, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for his research in developing new wheat strains.

Fire Pierces Chimney, Spreads

Flames from a fireplace blaze pierced a decaying chimney and spread into caretaker's quarters at the Robert Dollar estate, 1408 Mission Avenue, last night, according to Fire Chief Vance Trivett.

Lyle D. Brooks, who lived in the apartment above a garage, was not injured. He discovered the fire at 11:55 p.m.

Firemen said mortar between the bricks in the chimney had crumbled, letting flames eat into a clothes closet, the attic and the roof.

Firemen estimated damage to the caretaker's quarters at $8,000 and to its contents at $1,000.

Latin America: Politics To Left, Quake Disaster

By CHARLES E. PADILLA

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The election of Marxist Dr. Salvador Allende as president of Chile, upsurges in political assassinations and urban terrorism, government shakeups and one of the great earthquakes of this century marked 1970 in Latin America.

For 1971 the trend is likely to continue to the left.

Biggest political story of the year was Allende's victory in traditionally democratic Chile. His tiny margin of victory —1.4 per cent of three million votes cast — made Allende the first freely-elected Marxist president in the Western Hemisphere.

Following the Chilean congress' ratification of his victory, Allende's expected shift to leftwing policies started almost immediately. Nine days after assuming office on Nov. 3, Allende announced resumption of diplomatic relations with Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba, isolated from the American community since 1964.

By early December, Allende and his leftwing coalition government began zeroing in on nationalization of several multimillion dollar U.S.-owned copper industries, as well as banks and other large monopolies.

At year's end, there was speculation other Latin American countries would be following Chile in renewing diplomatic and commercial relations with Cuba.

Political assassinations reached a new high —and target areas ranged from chronically underdeveloped Guatemala to Argentina, one of the continent's most developed and sophisticated countries.

Especially shocking were the kidnapings and murders F former Argentine President (1955 to 1958) Pedro Eugenio Aramburu, 67, U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) official Dan A. Mitrione, 50, in Uruguay, and West German Ambassador Karl von Spretti in Guatemala by Castro-Communist terrorists.

Chilean rightwing extremists, in an apparent but futile attempt to keep Allende from power, assassinated the Chilean army commander, Gen. Rene Schneider, in Santiago on Oct. 22.

Even remote Paraguay was not spared. Last May, two Arab guerrillas burst into the Israeli embassy in Asuncion and killed a woman secretary and wounded another. Captured by police within the hour, the pair confessed that their mission had been to kill Benjami Varon, Israeli ambassador to Paraguay.

Nine other foreigners stationed in Latin America were also involved in political kidnapings.

They were Japanese Consul Gen. Nobuo Okuchi, exchanged for five political prisoners in Sao Paulo; West German Ambassador Ehrenfried vol Holleben, exchanged for 40 prisoners in Rio de Janeiro; Paraguayan consul Waldemar Sanchez, released after five days captivity in Buenos Aires; U.S. embassy labor attache Sean Holly, exchanged for one prisoner in Guatemala City, and Lt. Col. Donald Crowley, U.S. air attache, exchanged for 19 prisoners in the Dominican Republic.

Two other foreigners had near-misses with kidnapings. U.S. consul Curtis Cutter was wounded but escaped a kidnap attempt in Porto Alegre, Brazil. Yuri Pivovarov, a Russian embassy commercial attache in Buenos Aires, escaped a similar attempt by rightwing terrorists.

As year's end approached, Uruguay's leftwing Tupamaro terrorists continued to hold two other foreign hostages, U.S. soils expert Claude L. Fly, 65, kidnaped Aug. 7, and Brazilian Consul Aloysio Dias Gomide, 41, seized July 31. Both were kidnaped in Montevideo.

No year in Latin America would be complete without coups and 1970, although not a "bumper crop" year, was no exception.

Argentina, second largest country in South America, experienced a "revolution within a revolution." Military President Juan Carlos Ongania, in power since June, 1966, was ousted June 8 in a bloodless 12-hour coup.

Ongania's apparent plans to stay in power indefinitely and his idea of setting up a "corporate style government" sparked the coup, led by the heads of the army, navy and air force.

Brig. Gen. Roberto Marcelo Levingston, 50, a virtually unknown army intelligence officer assigned as an attache in the Argentine kembassy in Washington, D.C., was appointed president 10 days later with a proviso that he "co-govern" with the military chiefs.

Widespread labor unrest, rising inflation and three nationwide general strikes marred Levingston's first six months in office.

Revolution-prone Bolivia underwent still another tragicomic upheaval, with Gen. Juan Juse Torres, a leftist-leaning army general, finally emerging on top after a chaotic week. Torres replaced former president Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia, in power since 1969.

Six other countries, including Chile, installed presidents via the ballot box.

They were Misael Pastrana Borrero in Colombia, Jose Figueres in Costa Rica, Carlos Arana Osorio in Guatemala, Joaquin Balaguer, re-elected for a second term in the Dominican Republic, and Luis Echeverria in Mexico.

Two out of every three Latin Americans, however, continued to live under military rule as Brazil, Argentina, Panama, Guatemala, Peru and Paraguay retained their military governments.

YOGA, exercises she learned in Berlin while working for a master's degree in gymnastics and those she learned from famous teachers, such as Sabri Mahir, Marlene Dietrich's mentor, are the foundation of Anya Triwar's exercise programs. Sandra Chapin does the headstand, an important Yoga posture that is very important for promoting good circulation.

(I-J photos by Jim Kean)

CORRECT BREATHING — is a very important part of exercise, says Anya Triwar, who uses some of the breathing exercises taught Russian astronauts. She illustrates with Mrs. Abbott Johnson one exercise that is very benefivial for emphysema patients as well as for developing the bust and firming flabby upper arms.

CALORIES DO COUNT

Says Diet, Exercise Specialist

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Anya Triwar believes that diet and exercise needs for many people can be as individual as fingerprints and suggest that is the reason one person can gain while another loses on the same diet.

She also believes that even people with severe physical handicaps can follow a diet-exercise program — with the approval, of course, of their doctors.

Though she has had a fascinating career in such positions as associate editor of Vogue magazine in Berlin, reporter and correspondent for a newspaper in Basel, Switzerland, and owner of Publica, a public relations firm in Paris and Berlin, the Russian-born Anya Triwar is now a specialist in the field of diet and exercise.

Mrs. Triwar took her training in nutrition at the time she owned her public relations firm.

" I WAS ACTING as consultant and handling public relations for the largest European health food consortium, Neuform, which is comparable in size to General Foods in this country. More than 150 factories and 3,500 health stores in Germany and Switzerland were involved, and I felt I ought to know as much as possible about foods. I attended the University of Technology of West Berlin and studied nutrition with Professors Schormueller and Warburg, a Nobel Prize laureate.

"My exercises are a combination of Yoga and those I learned in the work I did for my master's teaching degree in gymnastics at the Mensendieck school in Berlin and in my study with famous teachers. The best known is Sabri Mahir, teacher of many stars in Paris and Berlin. He is the one who helped Marlene Dietrich lose enormously in weight before she did ' The Blue Angel' motion picture. I knew her very well in Berlin and see her when she comes here."

Siver-haired and strong as a gymnast in prime condition, Mrs. Triwar shows the results of living according to her theories. Two of her secrets are swimming every day at 6 a.m. in the Belvedere Lagoon, where her home is located, and fasting.

As she spoke of her work in a strong Russian-accented voice, her mobile face and gestures emphasized her comments.

"Nearly all we have learned in diet in the last 15 to 20 years is for the birds!" she exclaimed. "All the rules have changed — such as that no one should try to reduce on a diet as low as 850 calories daily — that fasting is dangerous — and that allowance should be made for weight increase with age.

"CALORIES DO count, but they must be adjusted to the individual and type of any existing handicap. If a case is complicated, I start with a six-day diagnostic diet to see how the person reacts. Because of different metabolism one person may gain on the same diet another will lose on.

"After I find out what type of person you are, I then plan an individual diet. For people with medical problems I work closely with their doctors. My diets have been accepted by California surgeons and have been used at the University of California hospital for patients before and after operations."

Mrs. Triwar is especially proud of her work with people who have severe physical handicaps — people who previously thought they could not diet or exercise.

"The majority of ladies I work with," she explains," are sent to me by their physicians, who want them to lose weight before operations or for some other health reason. I also work with doctors in connection with their post-operative treatments.

"I MAKE SURE I have a written release from each doctor. Among physicians I work with are a heart specialist from the Ross Valley Medical Clinic and a lung specialist at the Presbyterian Hospital in San Francisco.

"Would you believe I have the wives of 15 doctors? One woman has had open-heart surgery. One with diabetes has accomplished wonders, and I'm working with another who has cataracts."

Realizing that tremendous advances are constantly being made in nutrition, Mrs. Triwar keeps up with the latest scientific research in the field by keeping in touch with such people as Professor A. A. Pokrovski, a member of the Moscow Academy of Medicine, Professor Milliez, chief of the cardiology department of the Hospital Broussais in Paris, and Professor Jean Tremolieres, leading French nutritionist of the Hospital Bechat, also in Paris. She goes every year in June to consult with them and German physicians.

Anya Triwar is a great believer in fasting — for most people one day a week is good, she suggests.

"Better hungry than too much food," she insists. "But you must begin slowly. One day you skip breakfast and continue on the regular diet the rest of the week. The next week you skip breakfast and lunch one day and return to the regular diet, and the third week you skip all three meals for one day. There are only two reasons for not doing this — diabetes and low blood sugar."

Another of Mrs. Triwar's beliefs is that prevention of many illnesses and help with treatment of many can

Mr. and Mrs. William Digrazia of Ranch Road in Tiburon continued their tradition of 12 years, an open house for neighbors, held on Sunday. Among their 44 guests were Dr. and Mrs. P. Dunlop Smith, Messrs. and Mmes. John Duckett, Ben James, Orton Buckner, Albert DiGrazia, Grant Waggoner, E.R. Jerome, Frederick Manley, William O'Keefe, J.P. Kampmeyer, Everett Girtler, Stan Behrens, William Asiano, Al Arnaud, John Gallagher, William Bremer, Howard Rowebottom, Frank Tedesco, Leo Souza, Arnt Tjensvold; Mmes. Clare Hughes and Natalie Holly and Miss Elma Plattert.

CAROLING AND and visiting with Elizabeth Terwilliger, Marin naturalist, were enjoyed by 32 small friends of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bekins' children in their Belvedere home on Dec. 22. On Christmas Day, the Bekins held open house for their friends. And on Sunday they planned to celebrate Laurence Bekins' fifth birthday with a trek on new state park at Kirby Cove near the Golden Gate Bridge.

Christmas dinner was enjoyed at the Belvedere home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ericson by her sister, Mrs. Evans Barnard of Santa Rosa, and husband, the Ericson's daughter Robin, and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gerdes and their daughters from Redwood City.

MRS. ANDREW B. Stockton of Kent Woodlands will have her traditional open house on New Year's day. She had a Christmas dinner for her family on Dec. 20 and gave another party for friends on Sunday. Her family and friends look forward to seeing her home during the holidays as she decorates each room of the house with a Christmas tree.

A REHEARSAL dinner will be held at Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito on Friday, the evening before the wedding of Liz McIlroy of Belvedere and Tymothy Park of Seattle. Mrs. Helen Purcell Park will entertain Liz's minister and wife, the Rev. and Mrs. L.A. White; her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm McIlroy; her brothers, Andrew, William and Douglas; Mr. and Mrs. William Frerichs of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Judith Fain of San Francisco.

Seattle guests are Tymothy's grandmother, Hugh Purcell; brother, Robert Nym Park; Patrick Dunn and Madeline Granuzzo.

WHILE THEIR newly-purchased home on Golden Gate Avenue in Belvedere is being remodeled, Mr. and Mrs. Frank King are spending the holidays with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Bert West of Belvedere.

CELEBRATING NEW Year's Eve at the Tiburon home of Mayor and Mrs. Denis Rice will be Messrs. and Mmes. Charles Bassett, Richard Canady, F.G. Knight, Bryan Chapman, Branwell Fanning, Philip Bass, Ben Wells, David Heldt, Al Aramburu, Don Loomis, all of Tiburon, and Murray Smith of Mill Valley, Ernie Ruehl of the East Bay, Robert Westberg of Mill Valley, Phil Hudner of San Francisco and Robert Trieber of Belvedere.

MRS. STANLEY P. Leete of San Rafael is heading the arrangements committee for Loch Lomond Yacht Club's New Year party. It will feature dancing to live music, favors, noise-makers and a midnight buffet.

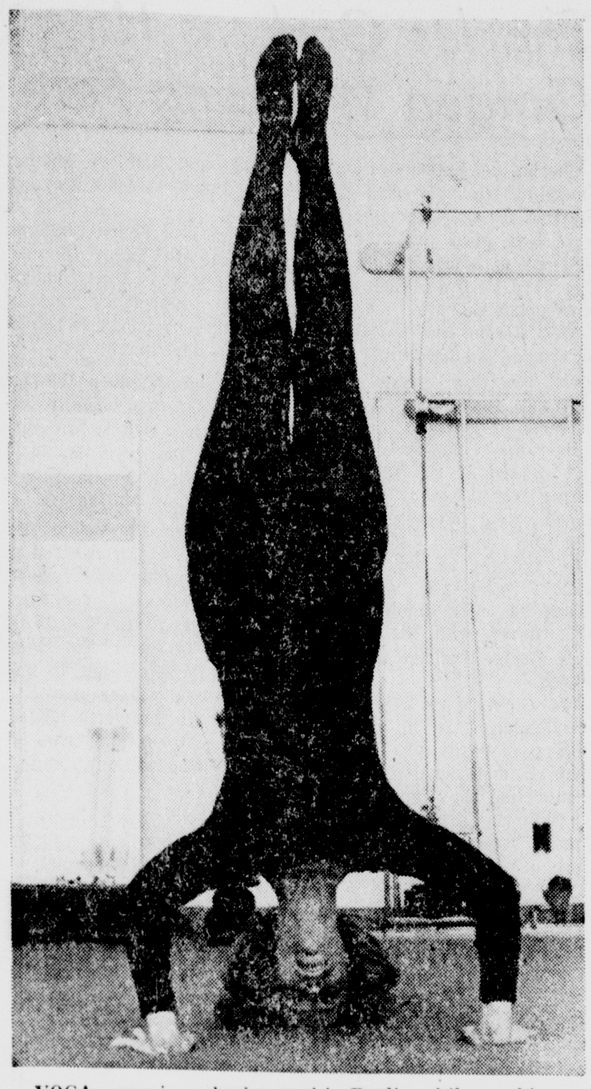
Says Diet, Exercise Specialist



YOGA, exercises she learned in Berlin while working for a master's degree in gymnastics and those she learned from famous teachers, such as Sabri Mahir, Marlene Dietrich's mentor, are the foundation of Anya Triwar's exercise programs. CORRECT BREATHING — is a very important part of exercise, says Anya Triwar, who uses some of the breathing exercises taught Russian astronauts. Anya Triwar believes that diet and exercise needs for many people can be as individual as fingerprints and suggest that is the reason one person can gain while another loses on the same diet.

She also believes that even people with severe physical handicaps can follow a diet-exercise program — with the approval, of course, of their doctors.

Though she has had a fascinating career in such positions as associate editor of Vogue magazine in Berlin, reporter and correspondent for a newspaper in Basel, Switzerland, and owner of Publica, a public relations firm in Paris and Berlin, the Russian-born Anya Triwar is now a specialist in the field of diet and exercise.

Mrs. Triwar took her training in nutrition at the time she owned her public relations firm.

" I WAS ACTING as consultant and handling public relations for the largest European health food consortium, Neuform, which is comparable in size to General Foods in this country. More than 150 factories and 3,500 health stores in Germany and Switzerland were involved, and I felt I ought to know as much as possible about foods. I attended the University of Technology of West Berlin and studied nutrition with Professors Schormueller and Warburg, a Nobel Prize laureate.

"My exercises are a combination of Yoga and those I learned in the work I did for my master's teaching degree in gymnastics at the Mensendieck school in Berlin and in my study with famous teachers. Home And Family Girl Wants To Be Protected And Pampered

DEAR HELEN:

I think women's lib is kind of like midi skirts: Fine for those who want the new style, but please don't force it all of us.

I'm afraid that if the equal rights bill passes, it may louse things up for us girls who dream of marriage as our big career. Personally, I want a man who will support, prbtect, shelter and yes, even pamper me. I don't hanker to work after marriage or serve in the armed forces or compete with men, or even make big decisions, and this legislation might force me to.

"I don't want to excel in business and always be sharp and smart and able to talk about anything. Even at 16, I like women's magazines. Cooking is fun. Children are great. My ideal is a loving husband, babies, a nice home — and the right to stay in it. Equality threatens me.

I admire career girls, but I don't envy them. If laws are changed so women aren't protected, well, we'll have to work for it. Hasn't anyone thought about that? — HOME AND FAMILY CAREER GIRL

DEAR HAFCG:

Find the right man and no law can change you from homebody into career girl — at least no law presently considered.

But be sure the husband you choose shares your views. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

With all the controversy about women's liberation, I'd like to share something I read.

In "Keeper of the Springs," Peter Marshall, the late U.S. Senate Chaplain, said that for 19 centuries, since the birth of Christ, "womanhood has been recognized by men as a sacred and noble thing; that woman is of a finer clay. . .So it remained for the 20th century, in the name of progress, tolerance, broadmindedness, and freedom to pull her (woman) down from her throne and try to make her like man. She wanted equality; for 19 centuries she has been superior. But now, they said, she wanted to be equal; and to obtain that equality she had to step down. . .So, in the name of tolerance, woman now has the right to become intoxicated, to have an alcoholic breath, to smoke, to work like a man and to act like a man — for is she not man's equal?

"Today this is called progress. But, no nation has ever made progress in a downward direction; no people ever became great by lowering their standards, or good by adopting looser morals." — MARY, AGE 15

DEAR HELEN:

After looking for jobs and discovering how little women are offered, or paid — even with college degrees to back up their qualifications — I say, "Give me Liberation, or give me debt!" — KATHY

DEAR HELEN:

Your response was irrelevant to the question about reincarnation, and I beg to complain! The man asked "Are you interested in 'coming back?'" and you said, "Heck, I'm not even interested in going!" That's evasive!

People write and you're not interested. If you mean you don't believe in it, say so. — FOR AN INTELLIGENT ANSWER

DEAR HELEN:

Maybe not reincarnation, but about resurrection — I'm sending you this religious booklet . . .LIFE AFTER DEATH be accomplished through proper food and exercise.

"Russia is far ahead in scientific nutrition," she declares. "They have many clinics where you are cured by food and diet, without any medicine.

"Do you know that if you drink two cups of rose hip tea a day, you will be immune from colds? That is because of vitamin C. Wheat germ daily is good too."

Mrs. Triwar's diets may sound Spartan, but she says she "adores" food and has some secret recipes that are delicious, highly nutritious and low calorie. One of these is the original Muesli of a professor who owned the Bircher sanitorium in Zurich, Switzerland.

"I HAVE EVEN suggested to Mayor Alioto that one way of fighting poverty would be to establish a government position for a consultant who would teach people to eat food that is not only healthy but cheap and tasty, with emphasis on the last two." Many people are turned off, she believes, when you mention healthful foods.

Daily exercise is as important as diet, Mrs. Triwar stresses, and she has her own exercises designed for everything from general physical fitness to specific problems such as getting rid of "dowager's hump."

"A very important part of exercise is correct breathing," Mrs. Triwar continued, adding that, "We inhale enough but do not exhale enough. I use some of the breathing exercises taught Russian astronauts and physical exercises used by the American astronauts as well as members of the French Olympic team."

The mother of four children, three still living, Mrs. Triwar came to this country at the suggestion of a son who lived in the Bay Area and was married to a San Francisco girl. She opened her salon in Tiburon four years ago.

Mrs. Triwar is working on a series of articles under the general title, "The New Health Multiplication Table." "In nutrition 2 x 2 are not necessarily 4," she says.

Charles Gerkens Have Golden Wedding Fete

Charles and Esther Gerken of Sausalito, who will have been married 50 years on Dec. 29, were both born, educated and married in Lake City, Minn., and have known each other since childhood.

Mrs. Gerken was brought up on a farm and some time after their marriage moved into Lake City, where he was a bartender.

He came to Sausalito in 1942 and worked in the shipyards during World War II. He was joined a year later by his wife and only child, Jeanne, now Mrs. Edward Snyder of Mill Valley. After the shipyards closed he was employed as a gardener with the Golden Gate Bridge District until he retired.

The Gerkens have three grandchildren, all living with their parents in Mill Valley. They are Jean Snyder, 19, who is attending the University of California at Riverside; Charles Snyder, 15, a sophomore at Tamalpais High School; and Kathleen Snyder, 11, a student at Edna Maguire School.

Quite remarkable is the fact that Mrs. Gerken's parents celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary, and she is the fourth of the children to celebrate a golden wedding anniversary.

Coming for the celebration from Lake City are two sisters who celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries, Mrs. Julia Anderson and Mrs. Molly Setter. A brother, Irvin Bronkhurst, who celebrated his golden wedding, will be unable to come from Ellsworth, Wisc. Another sister coming from St. Paul, Minn., is Mrs. Angelo Carelli.

Mrs. Gerken says she keeps busy around her home, and Mr. Gerken's hobby is gardening.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Home And Family Girl Wants To Be Protected And Pampered

DEAR HELEN:

I think women's lib is kind of like midi skirts: Fine for those who want the new style, but please don't force it all of us.

I'm afraid that if the equal rights bill passes, it may louse things up for us girls who dream of marriage as our big career. Personally, I want a man who will support, protect, shelter and yes, even pamper me. I don't hanker to work after marriage or serve in the armed forces or compete with men, or even make big decisions, and this legislation might force me to.

"I don't want to excel in business and always be sharp and smart and able to talk about anything. Even at 16, I like women's magazines. Cooking is fun. Children are great. My ideal is a loving husband, babies, a nice home — and the right to stay in it. Equality threatens me.

I admire career girls, but I don't envy them. If laws are changed so women aren't protected, well, we'll have to work for it. Hasn't anyone thought about that? — HOME AND FAMILY CAREER GIRL

DEAR HAFCG:

Find the right man and no law can change you from homebody into career girl — at least no law presently considered.

But be sure the husband you choose shares your views. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

With all the controversy about women's liberation, I'd like to share something I read.

In "Keeper of the Springs," Peter Marshall, the late U.S. Senate Chaplain, said that for 19 centuries, since the birth of Christ, "womanhood has been recognized by men as a sacred and noble thing; that woman is of a finer clay. . .So it remained for the 20th century, in the name of progress, tolerance, broadmindedness, and freedom to pull her (woman) down from her throne and try to make her like man. She wanted equality; for 19 centuries she has been superior. But now, they said, she wanted to be equal; and to obtain that equality she had to step down. . .So, in the name of tolerance, woman now has the right to become intoxicated, to have an alcoholic breath, to smoke, to work like a man and to act like a man — for is she not man's equal?

"Today this is called progress. But, no nation has ever made progress in a downward direction; no people ever became great by lowering their standards, or good by adopting looser morals." — MARY, AGE 15

DEAR HELEN:

After looking for jobs and discovering how little women are offered, or paid — even with college degrees to back up their qualifications — I say, "Give me Liberation, or give me debt!" — KATHY

DEAR HELEN:

Your response was irrelevant to the question about reincarnation, and I beg to complain! The man asked "Are you interested in 'coming back?' " and you said, "Heck, I'm not even interested in going!" That's evasive!

People write and you're not interested. If you mean you don't believe in it, say so. — FOR AN INTELLIGENT ANSWER

DEAR HELEN:

Maybe not reincarnation, but about resurrection — I'm sending you this religious booklet . . .LIFE AFTER DEATH

DEAR READERS:

The sound you hear is Helen, frustrated humorist, gnashing her teeth. — H.

This column is dedicated family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

HEALTH BUILDING — is emphasized by Anya Triwar in her diet-exercise programs. Working on adbdomen control is Mrs. Arvo Toivonen, a remarkable example of what can be accomplished by a 57-year-old woman who has had open-heart surgery. Previously unable to lose on a starvation diet, she is getting results from an individually and scientifically planned diet.

THE OAKVIEW — Club in Terra Linda, was the setting for the reception following the wedding of Lorraine Reynolds and Kenneth Charles Porter at Holy Innocents' Episcopal Church in Corte Madera. Lorraine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Reynolds of San Rafael and Kenneth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gilbert Porter of Duluth, Minn.

Breathing Exercises Of Russ Astronauts

"Russia is far ahead in scientific nutrition," she declares. "They have many clinics where you are cured by food and diet, without any medicine.

"Do you know that if you drink two cups of rose hip tea a day, you will be immune from colds? That is because of vitamin C. Wheat germ daily is good too."

Mrs. Triwar's diets may sound Spartan, but she says she "adores" food and has some secret recipes that are delicious, highly nutritious and low calorie. One of these is the original Muesli of a professor who owned the Bircher sanitorium in Zurich, Switzerland.

"I HAVE EVEN suggested to Mayor Alioto that one way of fighting poverty would be to establish a government position for a consultant who would teach people to eat food that is not only healthy but cheap and tasty, with emphasis on the last two." Many people are turned off, she believes, when you mention healthful foods.

Daily exercise is as important as diet, Mrs. Triwar stresses, and she has her own exercises designed for everything from general physical fitness to specific problems such as getting rid of "dowager's hump."

"A very important part of exercise is correct breathing," Mrs. Triwar continued, adding that, "We inhale enough but do not exhale enough. I use some of the breathing exercises taught Russian astronauts and physical exercises used by the American astronauts as well as members of the French Olympic team."

The mother of four children, three still living, Mrs. Triwar came to this country at the suggestion of a son who lived in the Bay Area and was married to a San Francisco girl. She opened her salon in Tiburon four years ago.

Mrs. Triwar is working on a series of articles under the general title, "The New Health Multiplication Table." "In nutrition 2 x 2 are not necessarily 4," she says.

Charles Gerkens Have Golden Wedding Fete

Charles and Esther Gerken of Sausalito, who will have been married 50 years on Dec. 29, were both born, educated and married in Lake City, Minn., and have known each other since childhood.

Mrs. Gerken was brought up on a farm and some time after their marriage moved into Lake City, where he was a bartender.

He came to Sausalito in 1942 and worked in the shipyards during World War II. He was joined a year later by his wife and only child, Jeanne, now Mrs. Edward Snyder of Mill Valley. After the shipyards closed he was employed as a gardener with the Golden Gate Bridge District until he retired.

The Gerkens have three grandchildren, all living with their parents in Mill Valley. They are Jean Snyder, 19, who is attending the University of California at Riverside; Charles Snyder, 15, a sophomore at Tamalpais High School; and Kathleen Snyder, 11, a student at Edna Maguire School.

Quite remarkable is the fact that Mrs. Gerken's parents celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary, and she is the fourth of the children to celebrate a golden wedding anniversary.

Coming for the celebration from Lake City are two sisters who celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries, Mrs. Julia Anderson and Mrs. Molly Setter. A brother, Irvin Bronkhurst, who celebrated his golden wedding, will be unable to come from Ellsworth, Wisc. Another sister coming from St. Paul, Minn., is Mrs. Angelo Carelli.

Mrs. Gerken says she keeps busy around her home, and Mr. Gerken's hobby is gardening.

Yacht Clubs Plan Dinner Dances And Center Plans Buffet, Party

Corinthian Yacht Club will hold a New Year's Eve dinner dance Thursday from 9 p.m. until after midnight for members and guests. Dinner will be served from 9:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. at the Belvedere clubhouse.

SAN FRANCISCO YACHT Club in Belvedere also plans a dinner dance on New Year's Eve. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 8:30 p.m. and dancing begins at 9 p.m.

THE OUTDOOR Art Club community services section, under the chairmanship of Mrs. William Perka and co-chairmen Mmes. J. M. Hahn and Albert Miller, has been busy for many months making articles to be given to elderly residents in rest homes throughout Marin County. Articles made were lap robes, bibs, handknit socks, bed jackets and handbags.

They were given to residents at parties, for which Mrs. Otto Weissich and her choral group sang carols. Gifts brought to the Christmas tea by members were also distributed with the handmade articles.

The group included Mmes. John Ball, Ray Bolinger and Ole Christensen, San Rafael; Mrs. Jeffrey Ferries and Miss Julie Holter, Mill Valley; Mrs. Charles M. Freeman, Ross, and Miss Natalie Lucia, Corte Madera.

Pins for 200 hours of service went to Mmes. George Lagier and Richard Reynolds, San Rafael; Joseph Collins, Greenbrae; Thomas Decker, Tiburon; Richard Franks, Corte Madera; Cirilo Gonzales, Nicasio, and Warren Harms, Mill Valley.

The recipients of 300-hour service pins included Mmes. Richard Dondero and Henry Ingwersen, San Anselmo; Louis Goldblatt and Eugene McGeorge, Mill Valley; Dean Jennings, Belvedere; Doris Martini, Kentfield, and Collins Pappas, San Rafael, while 400-hour pins were presented to Miss Carol Brandt and Mrs. Wilbur Parker, Jr., San Rafael, and Mrs. George Ghiselli, Greenbrae.

Mmes. William Descalso and Harry Pieper, San Rafael; Joseph Homer, San Anselmo; Jerome Lerner, Larkspur; Thomas McNally, Corte Madera; John Schulte, Kentfield, and William J. Young, Fairfax, received 500-hour awards, and a 700-hour pin was awarded to Mrs. Donald Murray.

For 800 hours of service Mrs. Stephen Kramer, San Rafael, and Mrs. John O'Connell, Kentfield, received pins, while Mrs. Vincent White, Mill Valley, was presented a 900-hour award.

Bennett Sworn In By Warren

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — William M. Bennett of Kentfield was sworn in yesterday by retired U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren as a member of the state Board of Equalization and pledged to revamp California's tax structure.

Bennett, 52, won election to the $25,000-a-year post in November. He succeeds Iaul R. Leake of Woodland, who retired from the five-member board after 18 years.

Warren, who appointed Leak to the post, commended Bennett for his public service. Bennett is the formeer president of the state Public Utilities Commission and a state deputy attorney general.

"We need men of courage who will stand up and be counted when the people's interest is in jeopardy," Warren said. "I think you have that kind of man in Bill Bennett."

Bennett, who has practiced law in Kentfield since leaving the PUC in 1968, returned the compliment by praising the Warren Court as having done "the most good for the most people."

"It put individuals above institutions and people above property," said Bennett, adding that he was elected by "the ordinary people."

He then pledged to relieve what he said was a disproportionate tax burden on "the little people" of California by shifting the taxes to business.

The Board of Equalization's functions include collection of the sales tax and assessment of utility company properties.

Bennett several years ago won national recognition by winning a U.S. Supreme Court order directing the El Paso Natural Gas Co. to pay customers a rate rebate.

As PUC president he and utilities were in regular confrontations over rates, and Bennett recalled his differences with them at the swearing-in ceremony.

"You don't realize you're elected until Christmas cards start arriving," he said, adding that he got "five Christmas cards from utilities, 10 from banks, three from railroads, five from oil companies and so on."

White House Aides View Nixon's Accomplishments

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon enters the second half of his term proud of his success in winning postal and draft reforms but disappointed at congressional inaction on other major domestic proposals such as revenue-sharing and welfare reform.

Three of the chief White House advisers on domestic matters outlined the administration's achievements and frustrations in a two-hour session with newsmen. Under the rules of the meeting, they cannot be identified.

The officials generally declined to predict the future or to discuss possible changes in policy. They concentrated on the administration's view of the first half of Nixon's term.

One official said Nixon took office determined to emphasize domestic reform because there was serious doubt in the country about "the institutional credibility of the presidency, the ability of the federal government to get results, the responsiveness of our institutions and so on."

The official said the jury of public opinion is still out on whether Nixon has restored credibility to the presidency. But he made it plain that the administration believes there has been progress.

One official exhibted irritation at civil rights groups and the "questioning—the perpetual questioning—of our commitment" to the cause of racial equality.

He insisted that more school districts were desegregated in the last two years than in the entire 15 years between the Supreme Court's 1954 desegregation decision and the Nixon inauguration. He brushed aside complaints that some districts desegregated only on paper while retaining black and white schools, or segregated classrooms within schools. These problems, he said, "flow out of the fact that you hace black students in those (formerly white) schools."

The official also said the administration is de-emphasizing programs intended specifically to help Negroes or other minorities. He said Nixon is concentrating instead on programs that will assist all people regardless of race.

"I think far too many of the categorical programs we had in the past were geared toward the black and this minority and they didn't work," the official said. "We are trying to have programs that do affect in a general way without trying to zero in on a specification or a peculiar kind of profile."

Has Nixon succeeded in his campaign promise to "bring us together?" the officials were asked.

"Obviously, there is a difference of opinion," one official responded. "But I would simply point to the fact that in the period of the last six months, a period that most observers were quite apprehensive about ... there has been a remarkable change in mood and there has not been nearly the amount of racial disturbance or community disturbance in the ghetto areas that marked a similar period a year and two years ago."

Each of the officials stressed that Nixon was disappointed his revenue sharing proposal for no-strings-attached grants to the states and cities did not even receive a hearing by the House Ways and Means Committee. The bill was intended to send ultimately $5 billion a year to the states and cities, nearly all of which are hard-pressed financially.

All three said the measure's chances of approval by Congress were greater next year because of a worsening financial crisis at state capitols and city halls.

One official said states and cities cannot raise enough money on their own because the voters will not tolerate additional taxes at the local level. But he refused to say if the administration would propose a federal tax increase, if necessary, to provide revenues to be shared with the states and cities.

The officials repeated the standard administration economic forecast, that 1971 will see business activity pick up and inflation decline. They said the economic problems of 197 provided a solid base for advancement next year.

Two Dead Sharks Put In Pool

Terra Linda Recreation Center came up with a novel diversion for swimmers — sharks in the pool.

Two of them, as a matter of fact.

Someone with a black humor threw them into the pool at about 2 p.m. Sunday, and they still were resting there late this morning — resting quietly since they were dead.

Maintenance supervisor Richard N. Watkinson said that the two leopard sharks, each about two feet long, will stay in the pool "until the garbage men come. They don't smell in there, at least." He said they were to be removed later today.

Watkinson said the sheriff's office was investigating the incident.

New Humanity Committee Files Nonprofit Papers

The Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice, newly formed in Marin County, has filed nonprofit corporation papers with Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan in Sacramento.

Purpose of the committee is "to change the prisons," San Rafael attorney Sally S. Soladay explained yesterday. She has been active in seeking prison reform through court actions, and is a member of the new committee. Its president is Richard Sloan of Lagunitas; directors are James H. Kovacs of San Rafael and former Marin Supervisor Thomas T. Storer of Novato.

The committee will hold a public meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 4 in the student center at College of Marin, Mrs. Soladay said.

Changes In Arab Leadership Bode Well For Common Man

By GERARD LOUGHRAN

BEIRUT (UPI)—For millions of Arabs, 1970 ends on a distinctly upbeat note. The reason: A greater government concern for the man in the street.

Rulers who for years seemed to spend their time denouncing the distant enemy Israel suddenly turned their attention this year to the price of food, announced plans to increase efficiency, lifted trade barriers and abolished travel bans.

To Abou Ben Ali and his wife —or wives—and their half-dozen children it's been a minor revolution and a major revelation, and their only worry is whether it will last. 1971 may provide the answer.

Reasons for the change of heart are specific to the countries concerned.

In Egypt, President Gamal Abdel Nasser died and Anwar Sadat took over. Promptly a policy of "the people first" was declared and Premier Mahmoud Fawzi announced price cuts in essential commodities and promised to increase efficiency and help the individual through the bureaucratic morass.

Sadat enjoys nothing like the adulation Nasser received and seems clearly bent on forming a popular base of support—if only to see his regime through the lean periods the conflict with Israel may well reimpose.

The Syrians, too, are breathing unusually free these days. Four years under the oppressive regime of Baath party ideologist Salah Jadid left the country depressed, short of essential foodstuffs, isolated from its neighbors and numbed by political rhetoric.

On Friday Nov. 15 Gen. Hafez Assad, after indecision for a year, finally seized control, locked up Baathists and proceeded to unlock Syria from its straitjacket.

He announced citizens could travel out of the country without getting government permission. He lifted restrictions on a wide range of imports. He formed a government containing non-Baathists and he released some political prisoners.

A delegation of merchants who met Assad declared weepily afterwards it was the first time they had been called "brothers" by a government leader for four years. Usually it was "capitalist profiteers."

Iraq, too, notorious for its public hangings and treason trials, unlocked the prison gates and let out political detainees, including two former prime ministers and one-time interior and defense chiefs.

Egyptian prisoners were deported to Cairo and Iraq got its own men in return.

There is still static between the two nations, but Iraq, probably fearing the sterile isolation that befell Syria, has moved tentatively to take a place in the forward movement.

Lebanon has long been the democratic model for Arab nations, but it too has suffered the wasting effects of prolonged party squabbling, corruption and interference by military intelligence in public and political life.

A new president and a cabinet which contained—prime minister apart—not a single member of the old guard which has dominated the country since independence, brought heady hopes to Lebanese of more enlightened rule.

Idealists who seek to see in these developments an Arab-wide move towards social concern are probably optimistic. The policies are no more durable than the regimes which promoted them.

And if fighting resumes on expiration of the Israel-Arab cease-fire Feb. 5, they could drift back anonymous into the desert sands.

About a half million U.S.citizens between the ages of 20 and 40 have some form of multiple sclerosis.

Bennett Sworn In By Warren

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — William M. Bennett of Kentfield was sworn in yesterday by retired U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren as a member of the state Board of Equalization and pledged to revamp California's tax structure.

Bennett, 52, won election to the $25,000-a-year post in November. He succeeds Iaul R. Leake of Woodland, who retired from the five-member board after 18 years.

Warren, who appointed Leak to the post, commended Bennett for his public service. Bennett is the formeer president of the state Public Utilities Commission and a state deputy attorney general.

"We need men of courage who will stand up and be counted when the people's interest is in jeopardy," Warren said. "I think you have that kind of man in Bill Bennett."

Bennett, who has practiced law in Kentfield since leaving the PUC in 1968, returned the compliment by praising the Warren Court as having done "the most good for the most people."

"It put individuals above institutions and people above property," said Bennett, adding that he was elected by "the ordinary people."

He then pledged to relieve what he said was a disproportionate tax burden on "the little people" of California by shifting the taxes to business.

The Board of Equalization's functions include collection of the sales tax and assessment of utility company properties.

Bennett several years ago won national recognition by winning a U.S. Supreme Court order directing the El Paso Natural Gas Co. to pay customers a rate rebate.

As PUC president he and utilities were in regular confrontations over rates, and Bennett recalled his differences with them at the swearing-in ceremony.

"You don't realize you're elected until Christmas cards start arriving," he said, adding that he got "five Christmas cards from utilities, 10 from banks, three from railroads, five from oil companies and so on."

Bennett Sworn In By Warren

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — William M. Bennett of Kentfield was sworn in yesterday by retired U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren as a member of the state Board of Equalization and pledged to revamp California's tax structure.

Bennett, 52, won election to the $25,000-a-year post in November. He succeeds Iaul R. Leake of Woodland, who retired from the five-member board after 18 years.

Warren, who appointed Leak to the post, commended Bennett for his public service. Bennett is the formeer president of the state Public Utilities Commission and a state deputy attorney general.

"We need men of courage who will stand up and be counted when the people's interest is in jeopardy," Warren said. "I think you have that kind of man in Bill Bennett."

Bennett, who has practiced law in Kentfield since leaving the PUC in 1968, returned the compliment by praising the Warren Court as having done "the most good for the most people."

"It put individuals above institutions and people above property," said Bennett, adding that he was elected by "the ordinary people."

He then pledged to relieve what he said was a disproportionate tax burden on "the little people" of California by shifting the taxes to business.

The Board of Equalization's functions include collection of the sales tax and assessment of utility company properties.

Bennett several years ago won national recognition by winning a U.S. Supreme Court order directing the El Paso Natural Gas Co. to pay customers a rate rebate.

As PUC president he and utilities were in regular confrontations over rates, and Bennett recalled his differences with them at the swearing-in ceremony.

"You don't realize you're elected until Christmas cards start arriving," he said, adding that he got "five Christmas cards from utilities, 10 from banks, three from railroads, five from oil companies and so on."

New Humanity Committee Files Nonprofit Papers

The Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice, newly formed in Marin County, has filed nonprofit corporation papers with Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan in Sacramento.

Purpose of the committee is "to change the prisons," San Rafael attorney Sally S. Soladay explained yesterday. She has been active in seeking prison reform through court actions, and is a member of the new committee. Its president is Richard Sloan of Lagunitas; directors are James H. Kovacs of San Rafael and former Marin Supervisor Thomas T. Storer of Novato.

The committee will hold a public meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 4 in the student center at College of Marin, Mrs. Soladay said.

White House Aides View Nixon's Accomplishments

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon enters the second half of his term proud of his success in winning postal and draft reforms but disappointed at congressional inaction on other major domestic proposals such as revenue-sharing and welfare reform.

Three of the chief White House advisers on domestic matters outlined the administration's achievements and frustrations in a two-hour session with newsmen. Under the rules of the meeting, they cannot be identified.

The officials generally declined to predict the future or to discuss possible changes in policy. They concentrated on the administration's view of the first half of Nixon's term.

One official said Nixon took office determined to emphasize domestic reform because there was serious doubt in the country about "the institutional credibility of the presidency, the ability of the federal government to get results, the responsiveness of our institutions and so on."

The official said the jury of public opinion is still out on whether Nixon has restored credibility to the presidency. But he made it plain that the administration believes there has been progress.

One official exhibted irritation at civil rights groups and the "questioning—the perpetual questioning—of our commitment" to the cause of racial equality.

He insisted that more school districts were desegregated in the last two years than in the entire 15 years between the Supreme Court's 1954 desegregation decision and the Nixon inauguration. He brushed aside complaints that some districts desegregated only on paper while retaining black and white schools, or segregated classrooms within schools. These problems, he said, "flow out of the fact that you hace black students in those (formerly white) schools."

The official also said the administration is de-emphasizing programs intended specifically to help Negroes or other minorities. He said Nixon is concentrating instead on programs that will assist all people regardless of race.

"I think far too many of the categorical programs we had in the past were geared toward the black and this minority and they didn't work," the official said. "We are trying to have programs that do affect in a general way without trying to zero in on a specification or a peculiar kind of profile."

Has Nixon succeeded in his campaign promise to "bring us together?" the officials were asked.

"Obviously, there is a difference of opinion," one official responded. "But I would simply point to the fact that in the period of the last six months, a period that most observers were quite apprehensive about ... there has been a remarkable change in mood and there has not been nearly the amount of racial disturbance or community disturbance in the ghetto areas that marked a similar period a year and two years ago."

Each of the officials stressed that Nixon was disappointed his revenue sharing proposal for no-strings-attached grants to the states and cities did not even receive a hearing by the House Ways and Means Committee. The bill was intended to send ultimately $5 billion a year to the states and cities, nearly all of which are hard-pressed financially.

All three said the measure's chances of approval by Congress were greater next year because of a worsening financial crisis at state capitols and city halls.

One official said states and cities cannot raise enough money on their own because the voters will not tolerate additional taxes at the local level. But he refused to say if the administration would propose a federal tax increase, if necessary, to provide revenues to be shared with the states and cities.

The officials repeated the standard administration economic forecast, that 1971 will see business activity pick up and inflation decline. They said the economic problems of 197 provided a solid base for advancement next year.

Two Dead Sharks Put In Pool

Terra Linda Recreation Center came up with a novel diversion for swimmers — sharks in the pool.

Two of them, as a matter of fact.

Someone with a black humor threw them into the pool at about 2 p.m. Sunday, and they still were resting there late this morning — resting quietly since they were dead.

Maintenance supervisor Richard N. Watkinson said that the two leopard sharks, each about two feet long, will stay in the pool "until the garbage men come. They don't smell in there, at least." He said they were to be removed later today.

Watkinson said the sheriff's office was investigating the incident.

Correctional Group To Up Member Aid

I-J Special Report

SOLEDAD — Directors of the California Correctional Officers Association have launched a campaign to increase the services the association provides its members.

The board hopes to offset organizing efforts by the Teamsters Union among guards at California's 14 state prisons, according to Moe Camacho. He is new president of the CCOA and a guard at the penal facility in Monterey County.

Arnold Thompson, president of the CCOA chapter at San Quentin Prison, reported late in September that the state association's directors had voted 11-2 to poll its 3,600 members on whether they favored affiliation with the municipal employees division of Teamsters Local 960.

The poll never materialized, according to a spokesman for the guards association. Ken Brown, Fairfield newspaperman and public relations aide for the CCOA, said yesterday that at a meeting in Sacramento Nov. 23, the state board decided to ask members to increase their dues from $1.50 a month to $2.50. This would finance retaining a legislative advocate and a full-time public relations director and would continue employment of the association's attorney.

Camacho said the association plans to bargain for the first time for increased pay, rather than see its members join outside unions to gain bargaining power.

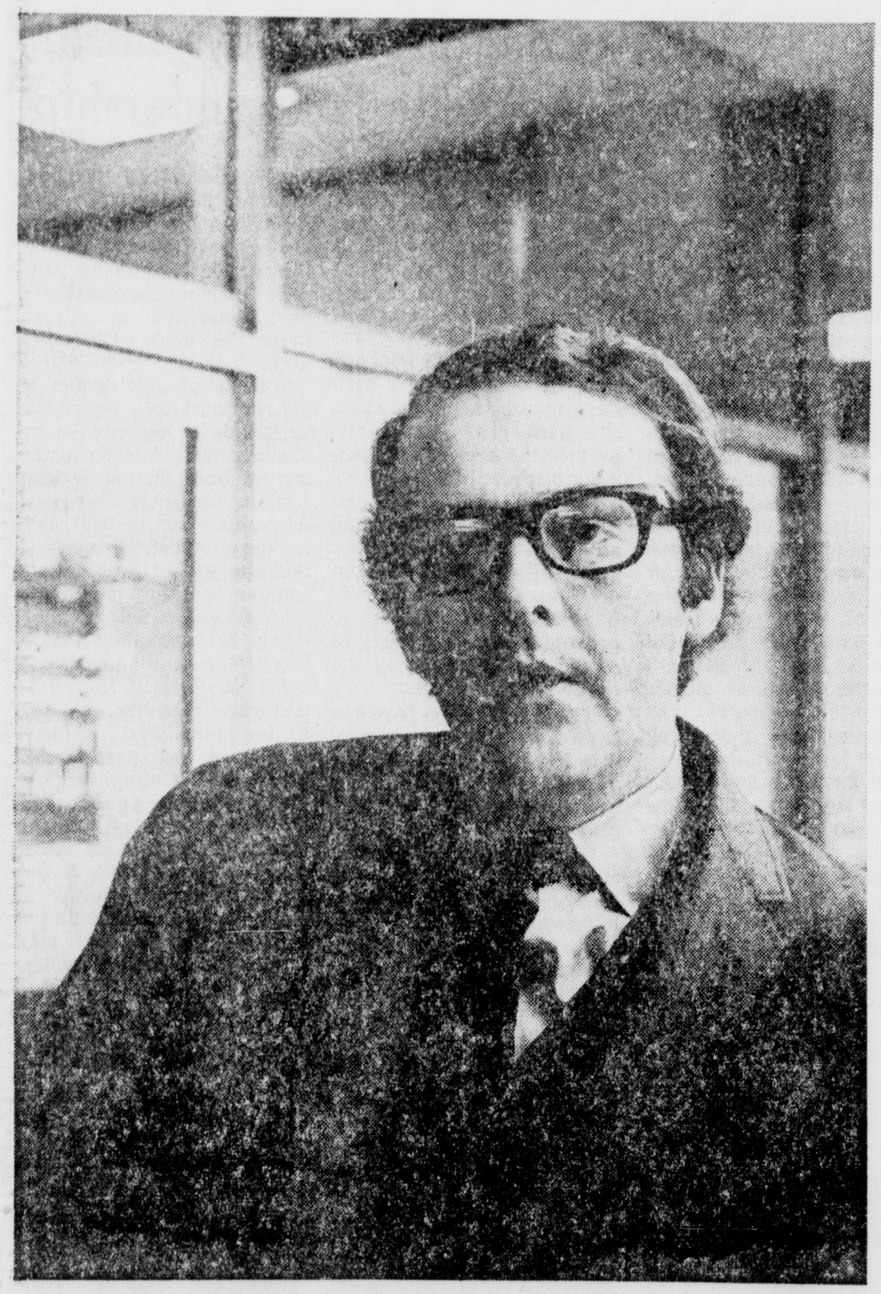
Comacho declared that a California prison guard lags 23 per cent in pay behind other lawmen in the state.

"We've been treated. . . like crossing guards when . . . the life of a correctional officer is every bit as hazardous and mentally trying as that of a peace officer or highway patrolman," Camacho said.

He said the CCOA previously concentrated on gaining retirement benefits and uniform legal representation for members. Now it will branch out to offer services competitive to the Teamsters' inducements, Camacho said.

Brown said the guards' association board, informally polled at the November meeting in Sacramento, seemed unanimously opposed to seeing guards join any outside organization other than the California State Employees Association.

He said the Teamsters local had proposed monthly dues of $6, and promised no additional assessments.



NEW RIGHTS DIRECTOR

D. Curt Moody, newly appointed director of the Marin County Human Rights Department, pauses outside his Civic Center office. The 35-year-old Moody, who has been on the job a week, has begun an inventory of social services in the county. He says of his new role: "With limited resources, we can't do all. So part of our job is to help others pool their resources and beef up services."

Move Asked On Disposing Of Bottles

Huntington Beach City Council is asking Marin and other California counties to push for legislation to require deposits on beverage cans and bottles.

"We should eliminate litter and health hazards caused by the sale of beverages in disposable, non-returnable containers," wrote Mayor Donald Shipley of Huntington Beach.

He asked Marin to pass a resolution similar to the one approved by Huntington City Council last Monday. It urges the League of California Cities, the County Supervisors Association of California, and each city and county to seek the following legislation:

Require deposits on all containers; encourage research by beverage and container industries in the field of biodegradable (material that will disintegrate) containers; encourage citizens to take a more responsible attitude toward disposal, including recycling.

BUSES, BUSES — ALMOST EVERYWHERE NOW

Years of talk about bus service in Marin has given way to actual operation in three areas by the Golden Gate Bridge District. Drivers will stop to pick up or discharge passengers at any safe place along their routes. Buses and drivers are supplied by Marin County Transit Systems, a Marin City-based company, under district and county subsidies. Police Disperse Laguna Beach Rock Festival

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —Singing "Here Comes Santa Claus," police Monday broke up Laguna Beach's Christmas rock festival that drew 20,000 young people at its peak.

Only two arrests were made as 400 officers swept through the festival area at sunrise and herded the remaining 2,000 participants onto buses where they were taken downtown.

"What they do when they get to the city limits is their business," one officer said.

The police were armed with shotguns and dressed in riot gear, and moved through the area after declaring the festival an illegal assembly.

They prodded young people out of sleeping bags and tents into near-freezing temperatures and fog.

Court Orders D.A. To Produce Captain In Metzger's Arrest

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday ordered the district attorney's office to produce the captain of a converted subchaser whose information apparently led to the arrest of Sausalito attorney Michael Henry Metzger.

Metzger's attorneys, William O. Weissich and Patrick Hallinan, asked Judge E. Warren McGuire for the order, saying they had not had the opportunity to question the captain, Gerald N. McDonald, and feared he would leave the county.

Metzger was indicted Dec. 15 by the grand jury on felony charges of possession of LSD, marijuana, cocaine and a tear gas weapon and a misdemeanor charge of having a device for smoking pot. The charges stemmed from a raid on Metzger's home Dec. 6.

Hallinan called McDonald a "perjurer and a liar" in court yesterday.

Weissich said that McDonald was a "regular informant for U.S. customs."

McDonald's subchaser was raided last July in the Tiburon harbor, but charges against him of possessing stolen property were dropped two weeks ago when the district attorney's office said it had been unable to find evidence that McDonald knew several weapons found on board were stolen.

Judge McGuire ordered McDonald to appear Jan. 5 when other defense motion will be heard, and he also ordered more than $6,000 seized in the raid on Metzger's home returned to Metzger.

Food Stores Loses $5,000 To Thieves

About $5,000 in cash and checks was stolen sometime between 6:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday from a locked safe at Cala Foods in Corte Madera, police said yesterday.

Officers said Roy C. Fetherolf, assistant store manager, told them he had placed the money in the safe at 6:30 p.m. but noticed the safe door open and the money gone at 8 p.m.

A reading of the Golden Gate Bridge District's schedules shows the extent of public transit service already available in Marin, both within the county and from Sausalito to San Francisco's Ferry Building via the ferry. Fares on the weekday buses are 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for youths age 16 and under. Shown left top and bottom are schedules for the ferry, Sausalito feeder bus, and above Tiburon feeder bus, and service between North and Central Marin.

Correctional Group To Up Member Aid

I-J Special Report

SOLEDAD — Directors of the California Correctional Officers Association have launched a campaign to increase the services the association provides its members.

The board hopes to offset organizing efforts by the Teamsters Union among guards at California's 14 state prisons, according to Moe Camacho. He is new president of the CCOA and a guard at the penal facility in Monterey County.

Arnold Thompson, president of the CCOA chapter at San Quentin Prison, reported late in September that the state association's directors had voted 11-2 to poll its 3,600 members on whether they favored affiliation with the municipal employees division of Teamsters Local 960.

The poll never materialized, according to a spokesman for the guards association. Ken Brown, Fairfield newspaperman and public relations aide for the CCOA, said yesterday that at a meeting in Sacramento Nov. 23, the state board decided to ask members to increase their dues from $1.50 a month to $2.50. This would finance retaining a legislative advocate and a full-time public relations director and would continue employment of the association's attorney.

Camacho said the association plans to bargain for the first time for increased pay, rather than see its members join outside unions to gain bargaining power.

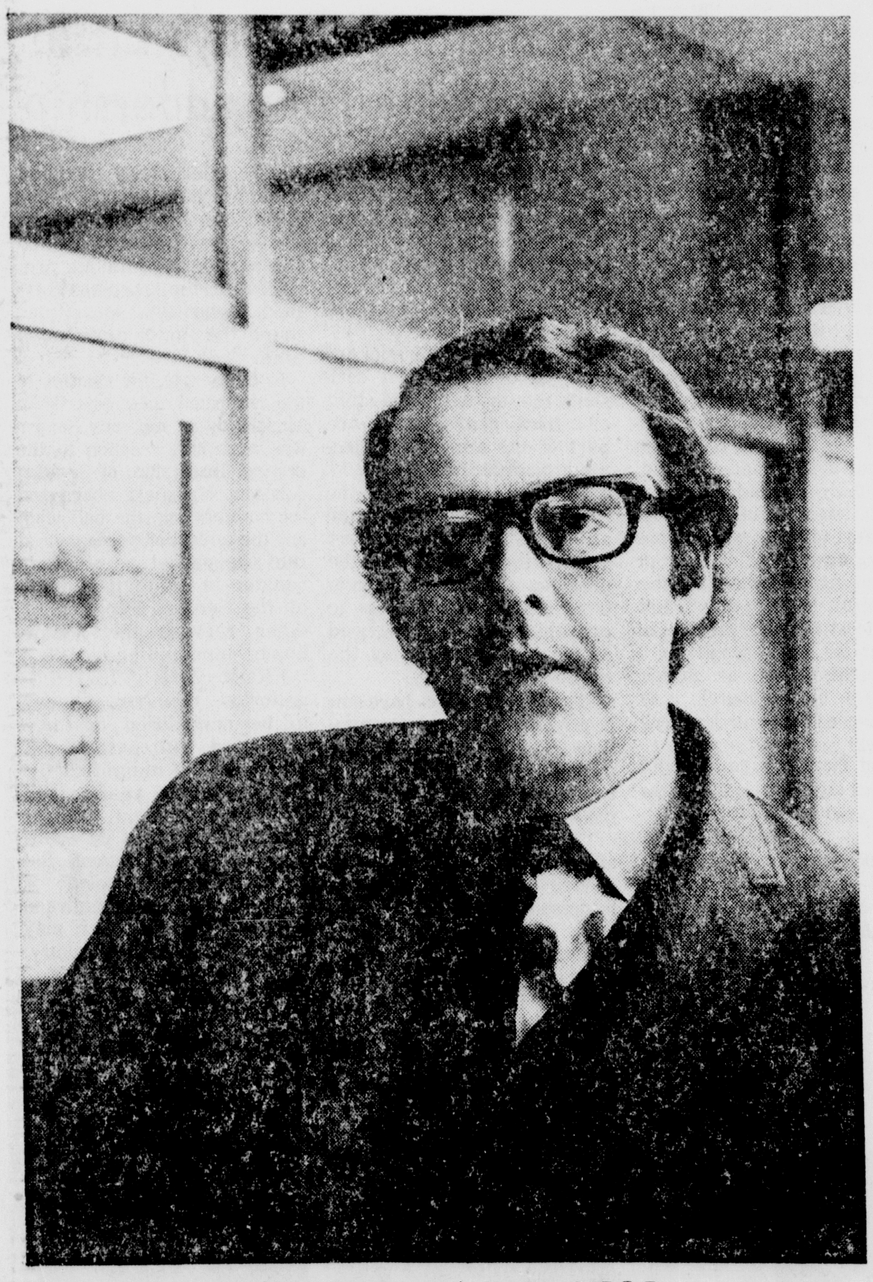
Comacho declared that a California prison guard lags 23 per cent in pay behind other lawmen in the state.

"We've been treated... like crossing guards when ... the life of a correctional officer is every bit as hazardous and mentally trying as that of a peace officer or highway patrolman," Camacho said.

He said the CCOA previously concentrated on gaining retirement benefits and uniform legal representation for members. Now it will branch out to offer services competitive to the Teamsters' inducements, Camacho said.

Brown said the guards' association board, informally polled at the November meeting in Sacramento, seemed unanimously opposed to seeing guards join any outside organization other than the California State Employees Association.

He said the Teamsters local had proposed monthly dues of $6, and promised no additional assessments.



NEW RIGHTS DIRECTOR

D. Curt Moody, newly appointed director of the Marin County Human Rights Department, pauses outside his Civic Center office. The 35-year-old Moody, who has been on the job a week, has begun an inventory of social services in the county. He says of his new role: "With limited resources, we can't do all. So part of our job is to help others pool their resources and beef up services."

Move Asked On Disposing Of Bottles

Huntington Beach City Council is asking Marin and other California counties to push for legislation to require deposits on beverage cans and bottles.

"We should eliminate litter and health hazards caused by the sale of beverages in disposable, non-returnable containers," wrote Mayor Donald Shipley of Huntington Beach.

He asked Marin to pass a resolution similar to the one approved by Huntington City Council last Monday. It urges the League of California Cities, the County Supervisors Association of California, and each city and county to seek the following legislation:

Require deposits on all containers; encourage research by beverage and container industries in the field of biodegradable (material that will disintegrate) containers; encourage citizens to take a more responsible attitude toward disposal, including recycling.

Police Disperse Laguna Beach Rock Festival

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —Singing "Here Comes Santa Claus," police Monday broke up Laguna Beach's Christmas rock festival that drew 20,000 young people at its peak.

Only two arrests were made as 400 officers swept through the festival area at sunrise and herded the remaining 2,000 participants onto buses where they were taken downtown.

"What they do when they get to the city limits is their business," one officer said.

The police were armed with shotguns and dressed in riot gear, and moved through the area after declaring the festival an illegal assembly.

They prodded young people out of sleeping bags and tents into near-freezing temperatures and fog.

Court Orders D.A. To Produce Captain In Metzger's Arrest

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday ordered the district attorney's office to produce the captain of a converted subchaser whose information apparently led to the arrest of Sausalito attorney Michael Henry Metzger.

Metzger's attorneys, William O. Weissich and Patrick Hallinan, asked Judge E. Warren McGuire for the order, saying they had not had the opportunity to question the captain, Gerald N. McDonald, and feared he would leave the county.

Metzger was indicted Dec. 15 by the grand jury on felony charges of possession of LSD, marijuana, cocaine and a tear gas weapon and a misdemeanor charge of having a device for smoking pot. The charges stemmed from a raid on Metzger's home Dec. 6.

Hallinan called McDonald a "perjurer and a liar" in court yesterday.

Weissich said that McDonald was a "regular informant for U.S. customs."

McDonald's subchaser was raided last July in the Tiburon harbor, but charges against him of possessing stolen property were dropped two weeks ago when the district attorney's office said it had been unable to find evidence that McDonald knew several weapons found on board were stolen.

Judge McGuire ordered McDonald to appear Jan. 5 when other defense motion will be heard, and he also ordered more than $6,000 seized in the raid on Metzger's home returned to Metzger.

Food Stores Loses $5,000 To Thieves

About $5,000 in cash and checks was stolen sometime between 6:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday from a locked safe at Cala Foods in Corte Madera, police said yesterday.

Officers said Roy C. Fetherolf, assistant store manager, told them he had placed the money in the safe at 6:30 p.m. but noticed the safe door open and the money gone at 8 p.m.

Correctional Group To Up Member Aid

I-J Special Report

SOLEDAD — Directors of the California Correctional Officers Association have launched a campaign to increase the services the association provides its members.

The board hopes to offset organizing efforts by the Teamsters Union among guards at California's 14 state prisons, according to Moe Camacho. He is new president of the CCOA and a guard at the penal facility in Monterey County.

Arnold Thompson, president of the CCOA chapter at San Quentin Prison, reported late in September that the state association's directors had voted 11-2 to poll its 3,600 members on whether they favored affiliation with the municipal employees division of Teamsters Local 960.

The poll never materialized, according to a spokesman for the guards association. Ken Brown, Fairfield newspaperman and public relations aide for the CCOA, said yesterday that at a meeting in Sacramento Nov. 23, the state board decided to ask members to increase their dues from $1.50 a month to $2.50. This would finance retaining a legislative advocate and a full-time public relations director and would continue employment of the association's attorney.

Camacho said the association plans to bargain for the first time for increased pay, rather than see its members join outside unions to gain bargaining power.

Comacho declared that a California prison guard lags 23 per cent in pay behind other lawmen in the state.

"We've been treated. . . like crossing guards when . . . the life of a correctional officer is every bit as hazardous and mentally trying as that of a peace officer or highway patrolman," Camacho said.

He said the CCOA previously concentrated on gaining retirement benefits and uniform legal representation for members. Now it will branch out to offer services competitive to the Teamsters' inducements, Camacho said.

Brown said the guards' association board, informally polled at the November meeting in Sacramento, seemed unanimously opposed to seeing guards join any outside organization other than the California State Employees Association.

He said the Teamsters local had proposed monthly dues of $6, and promised no additional assessments.

Processes Of Justice In California And Greece

There is an interesting commentary on the processes of justice, American and Greek styles, in what followed a narcotics raid on a Tamalpais Valley antique store nerarly two years ago.

On Jan. 17, 1969, Marin County and state narcotics agents raided the Resh Gallery on Shoreline Highway. They found a cache of LSD, hashish and marijuana which they valued at $350,000.

They arrested eight persons.

A few days later, charges against one of the eight were dropped. On Feb. 4, another was turned over to juvenile court. On Feb. 20, the Marin County Grand Jury indicted the seven on a variety of narcotics charges.

BUT AFTER THAT, nothing much happened.

On June 6, Charles Noel Hess of Oakland, one of the seven, was arrested in Larkspur on suspicion of narcotics possession. But because he already was under indictment, no further charge was filed. Subsequently, however, the indictment against him was dismissed.

On July 17, another of them, Richard Raymond Argento, was arrested by San Rafael police on suspicion of growing marijuana in his apartment. Again, because he already was under indictment, no further charge was filed.

Along the way, charges against Linda Jean Shack and Jeffrey Lynn Forcier also were dismissed. Four remained under indictment.

ATTORNEYS FOR the four challenged the legality of the raid and sought to suppress evidence obtained in it. Rebuffed in Marin County courts, appeal was taken to the district court of appeals.

It ruled the raid was legal, and returned the case to Marin County for trial. But, according to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, notice of the ruling was not received at his office.

As a result of all this, attorneys for Frederick Martin Engelhardy, Richard Conrad Pace and Argento claimed their clients had been denied their constitutional right to a speedy trial. They asked that therefore the charges all be dismissed. Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court now has this plea under consideration — nearly two years after the raid in which the arrests were made.

THE FOURTH MAN still under indictment was not represented in this petition. He is Robert Franklin Black of Sausalito.

In August, he was arrested in Greece, along with four other Americans, on charges of smuggling hashish. Arresting officers found 1,425 pounds of hashish in a plane in which the five were flying.

Evidence was presented that the hashish was being loaded into the plane at a secluded airstrip in Lebanon when police surprised the quintet, causing them to leave with only a partial load. They were nabbed on landing in Greece.

They were tried and convicted this month. Black and three others drew 10-year prison terms, the fifth man, a nine-year term.

ATTORNEYS IN the U.S. hired to defend the men complained that they were not allowed to represent them in the Greek court — hardly surprising, since an attorney licensed in Greece would scarcely be allowed to represent a client in a court in the U.S.

The arrest, trial and convictions followed an orderly process. There is no evidence that the five were denied any rights they would have under the U. S. Constitution.

But Black's mistake was to be arrested in Greece. Justice, obviously, moves more swiftly there.

Los Angeles Court Decision Imperils Freedom Of The Press

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — An event occurred recently which bodes no good for the freedom of the people, or of the press. On the other hand, it probably will be argued that the end justifies the means.

The occurrence was the holding of the Los Angeles County Superior Court that the Los Angeles Free Press, which is known as an "underground newspaper," should pay a fine of $10,000 for publishing a confidential list of California's narcotics agents.

The court further issued a permanent injunction against the newspaper prohibiting it from printing names and addresses of agents in the future.

THIS DEPRIVES the people of the "right to know," and puts a muzzle on the press — a muzzle which probably is in violation of the first amendment of the Constitution of the United States, as well as Article I, Sec. 9, of the constitution of the State of California, which refers to freedom of speech and the press.

The Los Angeles Superior Court has arbitrarily said that a publication is banned from giving information to the public — information to which the public is entitled.

The constitutions of the nation and the state do not place conditions on the publication of information, nor do they limit publication to subjects which one segment of the population may think is improper for publication.

IT IS THE OPINION of this writer that it is unnecessary and in fact undesirable to publish the names of state narcotics agents for several reasons. The principal reasons are that the name of the agent has no particular news value unless he is involved in the news, and that the nature of his business makes it desirable that he remain anonymous.

On the other hand, the action of the court can go much farther than protection of one class of law enforcement officers from the spotlight.

It can lead to laws and judicial decisions which, in time, would prevent the citizen from knowing anything about his government.

It can lead to abuses which the press has fought for centuries to avoid, and should continue to fight as a matter of principle, rather than approve as a matter of expediency.

WE REALIZE it is not a popular position to defend the actions of an underground newspaper, which no doubt published the list of narcotics agents to alert its readers.

But it still is a fact that the narcotics agents are public employees, their salaries paid by the state, and fundamentally, the paper has as much right to publish their names as any paper in the state has to print any other state records.

It is only with continued battle for fundamental rights, whether they be popular or not, that the freedom of the press can be maintained, and the right of the people to know can stand unabridged.

Just Where Does Ecology Stop?

We have been saving all our glass, aluminum cans, tin cans, papers, etc. Saturday, as we have on previous third Saturdays, our daughter took the lot to the Co-op and this was what she was told: "Take the aluminum cans home and smash them flat, put all the other cans in the garbage, that's all the good they are."

Now, I have been religiously sorting the glass as to color, have washed it carefully and removed labels; I have removed all the labels from cans, taken top and bottom off, washed them carefully and smashed them, but I'm sure I don't know the content of cans other than aluminum — which I keep separate, but I have no way of smashing the aluminum cans — and I would just like to know where ecology starts and finishes — what is the sense of trying so hard, having the garage floor half full of bags with assorted glass, aluminum cans, tin cans, etc., if some darned fool is going to insult us when we do take them, clean and sorted, to the Co-op lot?

Engineer Agrees On Education Need

I read your Dec. 12 "Editor's Notebook" with a greal deal of interest. We in the engineering profession, as well as science and business, are vitally concerned about the thrust of our college education process, wherein we are graduating a great many generalists and very few practical business men and "doers."

There is a need for liberal arts education but the design, construction and maintenance of all kinds of things makes this a civilization of critical importance.

We in the engineering profession applaud Dr. S.I. Hiyakawa of San Francisco State College, Earl Jones of Sonoma State and yourself for so forcefully bringing to all our people's attention the needs for a balanced educational process in this state and country.

Civic Center Like Seven-Year Itch

More about what Mr. William D. (Bill) Fusselman in his Dec. 18 "County Comment" called "blue funk":

I remember I-J accounts several years ago of supervisors' meetings where Mr. Fusselman, with his "no" vote, would put up what appeared to be a lonely fight against the location and the structural type of Marin's Civic Center where and as it is today. Mentally I boosted his plain common sense as against others' apparent desire for fancy show-off, in this matter which concerned so many of us taxpayers. Today, a mere glimpse of this "edifice" is revolting.

And yet, I enter it gladly for jury duty — once having reached its portals! My transportation is by bus from Mill Valley, with transfer to Novato bus at Marin City, thence to San Pedro Road. From there, with raised umbrella and puddle-jumping feet (usually) I struggle upgrade round a hill, thence along makeshift sidewalk for what seems like a mile. Attempting this in reverse is even more exasperating. I've seen no timetable nor directions to bus-stops; and from workers there, "Sorry, I know nothing about buses."

"This thing" — like the seven-year-itch of years past — is on our hands to be lived with, but one can't help scratching it.

Why Use Taxes To Send Farewell?

I have just received the third piece of mail from the office of senator — or Ex-Senator Jack McCarthy.

I object. I object on the grounds that his rehash of his supposed accomplishments is simply an ego trip for him at outrageous expense to the taxpayers. I read that the ego-trip of Ex-Senator Dolwig cost us $39,000. How much did this cost us? Remember, three of these letters came to this address.

This is not what one would expect from the party that pretends to espouse 'economy' in government. Does he have any plans to reject his monthly welfare check? (It cannot be called a pension, according to Webster, since a pension is 'recognition of past services, which were not fully compensated at the time.' It is not wages.)

By the way, how can one find out how much the monthly welfare check is to retired legislators? Also, state employees who receive disability pensions cannot accept other employment remunerating them beyond a certain amount unless they give up their deserved pension. Do ex-legislators or judges do the same?

'Crash Pad' Does What Jesus Urged

I find the attitudes of some Mill Valley city officials regarding the crash pad at Mill Valley United Methodist Church absolutely unbelievable. If the city had genuine concern for the safeness of the building and the lives of those who would be staying in it, why were questions not raised last April and May when the operation was being organized? I have a feeling that if those opposing the operation of the crash pad were honest with themselves and with the rest of us they would admit that they are not worried about the safety of the building as much as they are about the "undesirables" and "wanderers" who use the building. And this is what disturbs me.

When Jesus said "love one another," it was without qualification, not "love those who are clean, have jobs, live in Mill Valley, and will love you back" — just "love one another." I see the crash pad as an attempt at that kind of loving. Admittedly the crash pad is not the ultimate solution to the problems of those who for one reason or another cannot, or will not, fit into society like the rest of us, but it is an attempt to at least solve the problem of shelter for a few people for a few nights. It is the church trying to be the church. It is the people trying to love one another.

North Africa Joins Race To Snare Tourist Dollar

ISLAND OF DJERBA, Tunisia — Europe is on a travel binge. In spite of strikes, slowdowns, brownouts and a variety of political turmoil, pleasure seekers spurred by the Christmas holidays are on the move.

While American airlines are hurting with reports of large losses, European lines are trying to keep up with the demand by putting on hundreds of extra flights.

ON THE SHORES of this farthest island off the North African coast, gleaming white hotels have gone up. Djerba, flat as a pancake, wind-swept, claims to have been the island where Ulysses heard the sirens and stopped the ears of his crew with wax to prevent them from yielding to the seductive songs. The two principal hotels, the Ulysses Palace and Les Sirennes, celebrate this legend.

Primarily it is a German resort. The big chartered jets from Frankfurt put down several hundred trippers a day. They come on a package deal, $150 or $200, for fare and accommodation for a stay of 10 days in the sun. In affluent Germany this draws a new class of travelers — clerks, secretaries, small shopkeepers.

The sun is brilliant but the air is nippy and the Mediterranean frigid, a challenge to the boldest swimmers. Grateful for the sun, the Germans sit around the pool huddled in blankets. As they gather for the table d'hote lunch the loudspeaker gives out with the music of "Tristan and Isolde."

THE SIRENS of promotion and publicity have done their work well. The prescription is a familiar one. Two or three film stars intensively photographed in bikinis during a stay of a few days or a prominent figure out of the news — Chancellor Willy Brandt came from Bonn to spend Christmas here a year ago — and an ambiance is created flattering the 10-day tripper who feels he is moving in a realm of fashion and fame.

This is a phenomenon world-wide from Tahiti to the Caribbean. The goal is not alone sun and sea, but in an evermore crowded environment the resort must seem to be a kind of escape hatch into a simpler and more elemental setting. It is air conditioning and a heated swimming pool with the illusion of a return to nature. The natives are so picturesque —their little donkeys, the women carrying water jars as they might have done when Ulysses sailed past, the burnoose such a quaint and yet practical costume.

HOTELS AND transportation give limited employment and the standard of living is raised a bit. But there is a social hazard in staking out the jet age and the beneficiaries of that age in the midst of a past in which the wooden plow and the well are the essentials of life.

The natives in some areas are restless. Reports from the Caribbean, where so many splendid resorts have gone up, tell of an undercurrent of resentment and defiance among the blacks in the crowded slums out of sight of the sun bathers on the beach.

SOCIAL HAZARD though it may be, Tunisia is going in strong for the tourist dollar. The projection is for 70,000 to 80,000 hotel rooms in the next few years. The Mediterranean shore at Hammamet is lined with hotels. Morocco, with its extraordinary advantages of scene and setting, has developed a flourishing trade with jets from Europe and America bringing tourists to Casablanca and Agadir. Algerian development plans put a low priority on tourism, with industry the principal goal.

In Europe, Spain is the country that has benefited most from the great tourist boom. From all over the continent and from North America they have flocked to the beauty of the past and the haven of peace and quiet created by Francisco Franco. So calm, no crime, no violence — then comes the Burgos trial, which a leading French commentator has compared to the inquisition in its cynical brutality.

The tourist must pursue his illusion. He must survive the crowded chaos of the airport and hope that on a distant shore he will find the peace of a receding past.

Congress Displays Little Aptitude For Leadership

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) Congress is putting on a dismal performance for liberal admirers who think it is time for the legislative branch to replace the President in national leadership.

Christmas tree bills, mini and maxi filibusters, budget decisions months after the start of a fiscal year — these are part of the annual adjournment disorder.

FROM THE START of the 20th century, there has been an almost continuous growth in the power of the presidency. And conservatives looked to Congress to prevent what they viewed as seizure of power by the executive branch.

Those conservatives have now been joined by liberal organizations calling for a rearrangement of national priorities and for a more rapid disengagement in Vietnam.

"The U.S. can no longer afford a complacent Congress deferring to an executive leadership that is either ambiguous or absent," the National Committee for an Effective Congress says. "The time has come for Congress to step out in front."

This and other liberal groups, like Americans for Democratic Action, now seek congressional help for their causes because of dislike of what they say in the White House of Lyndon B. Johnson or Richard M. Nixon. Yet their senior and middle-aged members were once admirers of "strong" Presidents such as Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

THE LIBERALS who want Congress to assume national leadership, of course, want it to reform itself with special attention for erasing the evils of the seniority system. Congress itself now seems in urgent need of leadership. John W. McCormack, the retiring speaker, has learned much about the exercise of legislative power but has looked like a pale copy of his predecessor, the late Sam Rayburn, who also sometimes found the House unmanageable.

In the Senate, the election of the respected nice guy, Mike Mansfield, as majority leader was a natural reaction to the driving leadership of Lyndon Johnson. Mansfield abandoned the hammerlock, the bull whip and the torrent of words poured into the ear of a reluctant senator in his management of the Senate. For this or other reasons the Senate has become unmanageable.

FROM THE VISITORS' galleries, members appear to be unqualified upstarts compared with past giants whose size is magnified by the number of years since death or retirement.

Congress needs to do something about its operations. But if it seems stalemated by divisions within and between the House and Senate, it may mirror the mood of the country.

Processes Of Justice In California And Greece

There is an interesting commentary on the processes of justice, American and Greek styles, in what followed a narcotics raid on a Tamalpais Valley antique store nerarly two years ago.

On Jan. 17, 1969, Marin County and state narcotics agents raided the Resh Gallery on Shoreline Highway. They found a cache of LSD, hashish and marijuana which they valued at $350,000.

They arrested eight persons.

A few days later, charges against one of the eight were dropped. On Feb. 4, another was turned over to juvenile court. On Feb. 20, the Marin County Grand Jury indicted the seven on a variety of narcotics charges.

BUT AFTER THAT, nothing much happened.

On June 6, Charles Noel Hess of Oakland, one of the seven, was arrested in Larkspur on suspicion of narcotics possession. But because he already was under indictment, no further charge was filed. Subsequently, however, the indictment against him was dismissed.

On July 17, another of them, Richard Raymond Argento, was arrested by San Rafael police on suspicion of growing marijuana in his apartment. Again, because he already was under indictment, no further charge was filed.

Along the way, charges against Linda Jean Shack and Jeffrey Lynn Forcier also were dismissed. Four remained under indictment.

ATTORNEYS FOR the four challenged the legality of the raid and sought to suppress evidence obtained in it. Rebuffed in Marin County courts, appeal was taken to the district court of appeals.

It ruled the raid was legal, and returned the case to Marin County for trial. But, according to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, notice of the ruling was not received at his office.

As a result of all this, attorneys for Frederick Martin Engelhardy, Richard Conrad Pace and Argento claimed their clients had been denied their constitutional right to a speedy trial. They asked that therefore the charges all be dismissed. Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court now has this plea under consideration — nearly two years after the raid in which the arrests were made.

THE FOURTH MAN still under indictment was not represented in this petition. He is Robert Franklin Black of Sausalito.

In August, he was arrested in Greece, along with four other Americans, on charges of smuggling hashish. Arresting officers found 1,425 pounds of hashish in a plane in which the five were flying.

Evidence was presented that the hashish was being loaded into the plane at a secluded airstrip in Lebanon when police surprised the quintet, causing them to leave with only a partial load. They were nabbed on landing in Greece.

They were tried and convicted this month. Black and three others drew 10-year prison terms, the fifth man, a nine-year term.

ATTORNEYS IN the U.S. hired to defend the men complained that they were not allowed to represent them in the Greek court — hardly surprising, since an attorney licensed in Greece would scarcely be allowed to represent a client in a court in the U.S.

The arrest, trial and convictions followed an orderly process. There is no evidence that the five were denied any rights they would have under the U. S. Constitution.

But Black's mistake was to be arrested in Greece. Justice, obviously, moves more swiftly there.

Christmas tree bills, mini and maxi filibusters, budget decisions months after the start of a fiscal year — these are part of the annual adjournment disorder.

FROM THE START of the 20th century, there has been an almost continuous growth in the power of the presidency. And conservatives looked to Congress to prevent what they viewed as seizure of power by the executive branch.

Those conservatives have now been joined by liberal organizations calling for a rearrangement of national priorities and for a more rapid disengagement in Vietnam.

"The U.S. can no longer afford a complacent Congress deferring to an executive leadership that is either ambiguous or absent," the National Committee for an Effective Congress says. "The time has come for Congress to step out in front."

This and other liberal groups, like Americans for Democratic Action, now seek congressional help for their causes because of dislike of what they say in the White House of Lyndon B. Johnson or Richard M. Nixon. Yet their senior and middle-aged members were once admirers of "strong" Presidents such as Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

THE LIBERALS who want Congress to assume national leadership, of course, want it to reform itself with special attention for erasing the evils of the seniority system. Congress itself now seems in urgent need of leadership. John W. McCormack, the retiring speaker, has learned much about the exercise of legislative power but has looked like a pale copy of his predecessor, the late Sam Rayburn, who also sometimes found the House unmanageable.

In the Senate, the election of the respected nice guy, Mike Mansfield, as majority leader was a natural reaction to the driving leadership of Lyndon Johnson. Mansfield abandoned the hammerlock, the bull whip and the torrent of words poured into the ear of a reluctant senator in his management of the Senate. For this or other reasons the Senate has become unmanageable.

FROM THE VISITORS' galleries, members appear to be unqualified upstarts compared with past giants whose size is magnified by the number of years since death or retirement.

Congress needs to do something about its operations. But if it seems stalemated by divisions within and between the House and Senate, it may mirror the mood of the country.

Processes Of Justice In California And Greece

There is an interesting commentary on the processes of justice, American and Greek styles, in what followed a narcotics raid on a Tamalpais Valley antique store nerarly two years ago.

On Jan. 17, 1969, Marin County and state narcotics agents raided the Resh Gallery on Shoreline Highway. They found a cache of LSD, hashish and marijuana which they valued at $350,000.

They arrested eight persons.

A few days later, charges against one of the eight were dropped. On Feb. 4, another was turned over to juvenile court. On Feb. 20, the Marin County Grand Jury indicted the seven on a variety of narcotics charges.

BUT AFTER THAT, nothing much happened.

On June 6, Charles Noel Hess of Oakland, one of the seven, was arrested in Larkspur on suspicion of narcotics possession. But because he already was under indictment, no further charge was filed. Subsequently, however, the indictment against him was dismissed.

On July 17, another of them, Richard Raymond Argento, was arrested by San Rafael police on suspicion of growing marijuana in his apartment. Again, because he already was under indictment, no further charge was filed.

Along the way, charges against Linda Jean Shack and Jeffrey Lynn Forcier also were dismissed. Four remained under indictment.

ATTORNEYS FOR the four challenged the legality of the raid and sought to suppress evidence obtained in it. Rebuffed in Marin County courts, appeal was taken to the district court of appeals.

It ruled the raid was legal, and returned the case to Marin County for trial. But, according to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, notice of the ruling was not received at his office.

As a result of all this, attorneys for Frederick Martin Engelhardy, Richard Conrad Pace and Argento claimed their clients had been denied their constitutional right to a speedy trial. They asked that therefore the charges all be dismissed. Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court now has this plea under consideration — nearly two years after the raid in which the arrests were made.

THE FOURTH MAN still under indictment was not represented in this petition. He is Robert Franklin Black of Sausalito.

In August, he was arrested in Greece, along with four other Americans, on charges of smuggling hashish. Arresting officers found 1,425 pounds of hashish in a plane in which the five were flying.

Evidence was presented that the hashish was being loaded into the plane at a secluded airstrip in Lebanon when police surprised the quintet, causing them to leave with only a partial load. They were nabbed on landing in Greece.

They were tried and convicted this month. Black and three others drew 10-year prison terms, the fifth man, a nine-year term.

ATTORNEYS IN the U.S. hired to defend the men complained that they were not allowed to represent them in the Greek court — hardly surprising, since an attorney licensed in Greece would scarcely be allowed to represent a client in a court in the U.S.

The arrest, trial and convictions followed an orderly process. There is no evidence that the five were denied any rights they would have under the U. S. Constitution.

But Black's mistake was to be arrested in Greece. Justice, obviously, moves more swiftly there.

Self-Support Along With Vote

I'd like to voice my opinion on this new voting age (18-year-olds). Since 18 is now considered adult enough to vote, maybe it could also be considered adult enough to be self-supporting.

After 15 years of paying child support, when these grownups reach 18 it seems that I, and millions of other fathers, could be released from support also at that age.

This "child support" is really something — and is a law that should be acted upon.

Let's get the ball rolling!

Just Where Does Ecology Stop?

We have been saving all our glass, aluminum cans, tin cans, papers, etc. Saturday, as we have on previous third Saturdays, our daughter took the lot to the Co-op and this was what she was told: "Take the aluminum cans home and smash them flat, put all the other cans in the garbage, that's all the good they are."

Now, I have been religiously sorting the glass as to color, have washed it carefully and removed labels; I have removed all the labels from cans, taken top and bottom off, washed them carefully and smashed them, but I'm sure I don't know the content of cans other than aluminum — which I keep separate, but I have no way of smashing the aluminum cans — and I would just like to know where ecology starts and finishes — what is the sense of trying so hard, having the garage floor half full of bags with assorted glass, aluminum cans, tin cans, etc., if some darned fool is going to insult us when we do take them, clean and sorted, to the Co-op lot?

Engineer Agrees On Education Need

I read your Dec. 12 "Editor's Notebook" with a greal deal of interest. We in the engineering profession, as well as science and business, are vitally concerned about the thrust of our college education process, wherein we are graduating a great many generalists and very few practical business men and "doers."

There is a need for liberal arts education but the design, construction and maintenance of all kinds of things makes this a civilization of critical importance.

We in the engineering profession applaud Dr. S.I. Hiyakawa of San Francisco State College, Earl Jones of Sonoma State and yourself for so forcefully bringing to all our people's attention the needs for a balanced educational process in this state and country.

Civic Center Like Seven-Year Itch

I remember I-J accounts several years ago of supervisors' meetings where Mr. Fusselman, with his "no" vote, would put up what appeared to be a lonely fight against the location and the structural type of Marin's Civic Center where and as it is today. Mentally I boosted his plain common sense as against others' apparent desire for fancy show-off, in this matter which concerned so many of us taxpayers. Today, a mere glimpse of this "edifice" is revolting.

And yet, I enter it gladly for jury duty — once having reached its portals! My transportation is by bus from Mill Valley, with transfer to Novato bus at Marin City, thence to San Pedro Road. From there, with raised umbrella and puddle-jumping feet (usually) I struggle upgrade round a hill, thence along makeshift sidewalk for what seems like a mile. Attempting this in reverse is even more exasperating. I've seen no timetable nor directions to bus-stops; and from workers there, "Sorry, I know nothing about buses."

"This thing" — like the seven-year-itch of years past — is on our hands to be lived with, but one can't help scratching it.

Why Use Taxes To Send Farewell?

I have just received the third piece of mail from the office of senator — or Ex-Senator Jack McCarthy.

I object. I object on the grounds that his rehash of his supposed accomplishments is simply an ego trip for him at outrageous expense to the taxpayers. I read that the ego-trip of Ex-Senator Dolwig cost us $39,000. How much did this cost us? Remember, three of these letters came to this address.

This is not what one would expect from the party that pretends to espouse 'economy' in government. Does he have any plans to reject his monthly welfare check? (It cannot be called a pension, according to Webster, since a pension is 'recognition of past services, which were not fully compensated at the time.' It is not wages.)

By the way, how can one find out how much the monthly welfare check is to retired legislators? Also, state employees who receive disability pensions cannot accept other employment remunerating them beyond a certain amount unless they give up their deserved pension. Do ex-legislators or judges do the same?

'Crash Pad' Does What Jesus Urged

I find the attitudes of some Mill Valley city officials regarding the crash pad at Mill Valley United Methodist Church absolutely unbelievable. If the city had genuine concern for the safeness of the building and the lives of those who would be staying in it, why were questions not raised last April and May when the operation was being organized? I have a feeling that if those opposing the operation of the crash pad were honest with themselves and with the rest of us they would admit that they are not worried about the safety of the building as much as they are about the "undesirables" and "wanderers" who use the building. And this is what disturbs me.

When Jesus said "love one another," it was without qualification, not "love those who are clean, have jobs, live in Mill Valley, and will love you back" — just "love one another." I see the crash pad as an attempt at that kind of loving. Admittedly the crash pad is not the ultimate solution to the problems of those who for one reason or another cannot, or will not, fit into society like the rest of us, but it is an attempt to at least solve the problem of shelter for a few people for a few nights. It is the church trying to be the church. It is the people trying to love one another.

North Africa Joins Race To Snare Tourist Dollar

ISLAND OF DJERBA, Tunisia — Europe is on a travel binge. In spite of strikes, slowdowns, brownouts and a variety of political turmoil, pleasure seekers spurred by the Christmas holidays are on the move.

While American airlines are hurting with reports of large losses, European lines are trying to keep up with the demand by putting on hundreds of extra flights.

ON THE SHORES of this farthest island off the North African coast, gleaming white hotels have gone up. Djerba, flat as a pancake, wind-swept, claims to have been the island where Ulysses heard the sirens and stopped the ears of his crew with wax to prevent them from yielding to the seductive songs. The two principal hotels, the Ulysses Palace and Les Sirennes, celebrate this legend.

Primarily it is a German resort. The big chartered jets from Frankfurt put down several hundred trippers a day. They come on a package deal, $150 or $200, for fare and accommodation for a stay of 10 days in the sun. In affluent Germany this draws a new class of travelers — clerks, secretaries, small shopkeepers.

The sun is brilliant but the air is nippy and the Mediterranean frigid, a challenge to the boldest swimmers. Grateful for the sun, the Germans sit around the pool huddled in blankets. As they gather for the table d'hote lunch the loudspeaker gives out with the music of "Tristan and Isolde."

THE SIRENS of promotion and publicity have done their work well. The prescription is a familiar one. Two or three film stars intensively photographed in bikinis during a stay of a few days or a prominent figure out of the news — Chancellor Willy Brandt came from Bonn to spend Christmas here a year ago — and an ambiance is created flattering the 10-day tripper who feels he is moving in a realm of fashion and fame.

This is a phenomenon world-wide from Tahiti to the Caribbean. The goal is not alone sun and sea, but in an evermore crowded environment the resort must seem to be a kind of escape hatch into a simpler and more elemental setting. It is air conditioning and a heated swimming pool with the illusion of a return to nature. The natives are so picturesque —their little donkeys, the women carrying water jars as they might have done when Ulysses sailed past, the burnoose such a quaint and yet practical costume.

HOTELS AND transportation give limited employment and the standard of living is raised a bit. But there is a social hazard in staking out the jet age and the beneficiaries of that age in the midst of a past in which the wooden plow and the well are the essentials of life.

The natives in some areas are restless. Reports from the Caribbean, where so many splendid resorts have gone up, tell of an undercurrent of resentment and defiance among the blacks in the crowded slums out of sight of the sun bathers on the beach.

SOCIAL HAZARD though it may be, Tunisia is going in strong for the tourist dollar. The projection is for 70,000 to 80,000 hotel rooms in the next few years. The Mediterranean shore at Hammamet is lined with hotels. Morocco, with its extraordinary advantages of scene and setting, has developed a flourishing trade with jets from Europe and America bringing tourists to Casablanca and Agadir. Algerian development plans put a low priority on tourism, with industry the principal goal.

In Europe, Spain is the country that has benefited most from the great tourist boom. From all over the continent and from North America they have flocked to the beauty of the past and the haven of peace and quiet created by Francisco Franco. So calm, no crime, no violence — then comes the Burgos trial, which a leading French commentator has compared to the inquisition in its cynical brutality.

The tourist must pursue his illusion. He must survive the crowded chaos of the airport and hope that on a distant shore he will find the peace of a receding past.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Los Angeles Court Decision Imperils Freedom Of The Press

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — An event occurred recently which bodes no good for the freedom of the people, or of the press. On the other hand, it probably will be argued that the end justifies the means.

The occurrence was the holding of the Los Angeles County Superior Court that the Los Angeles Free Press, which is known as an "underground newspaper," should pay a fine of $10,000 for publishing a confidential list of California's narcotics agents.

The court further issued a permanent injunction against the newspaper prohibiting it from printing names and addresses of agents in the future.

THIS DEPRIVES the people of the "right to know," and puts a muzzle on the press — a muzzle which probably is in violation of the first amendment of the Constitution of the United States, as well as Article I, Sec. 9, of the constitution of the State of California, which refers to freedom of speech and the press.

The Los Angeles Superior Court has arbitrarily said that a publication is banned from giving information to the public — information to which the public is entitled.

The constitutions of the nation and the state do not place conditions on the publication of information, nor do they limit publication to subjects which one segment of the population may think is improper for publication.

IT IS THE OPINION of this writer that it is unnecessary and in fact undesirable to publish the names of state narcotics agents for several reasons. The principal reasons are that the name of the agent has no particular news value unless he is involved in the news, and that the nature of his business makes it desirable that he remain anonymous.

On the other hand, the action of the court can go much farther than protection of one class of law enforcement officers from the spotlight.

It can lead to laws and judicial decisions which, in time, would prevent the citizen from knowing anything about his government.

It can lead to abuses which the press has fought for centuries to avoid, and should continue to fight as a matter of principle, rather than approve as a matter of expediency.

WE REALIZE it is not a popular position to defend the actions of an underground newspaper, which no doubt published the list of narcotics agents to alert its readers.

But it still is a fact that the narcotics agents are public employees, their salaries paid by the state, and fundamentally, the paper has as much right to publish their names as any paper in the state has to print any other state records.

It is only with continued battle for fundamental rights, whether they be popular or not, that the freedom of the press can be maintained, and the right of the people to know can stand unabridged.

Congress Displays Little Aptitude For Leadership

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) Congress is putting on a dismal performance for liberal admirers who think it is time for the legislative branch to replace the President in national leadership.

Petaluma School Plan Defers Worst Double Session Features

Double sessions and extended school days are not the most pleasant conditions, but a compromise plan to suit parents, students and teachers seems to have been achieved in Petaluma.

Teachers at the crowded Kenilworth Junior High School lobbied strongly for a double session plan that would have completely divided the student body in half and presumably, cut the crowding problem in half.

That method would have required some students to get on buses by 6 a.m. and not permit others to return home until after 6 p.m. While the school may be forced into that situation next fall because of fast growth on the east side, school officials want to put it off as long as possible and cause a minimum of inconvenience to families.

ON THE NEW overlapping double session schedule starting Feb. 1, the students' day will be shortened, but the main loss will not be academic, since the lunch hour will be cut. Instead of a hot meal, students will be permitted two snack periods per session.

Principal Douglas C. Arthur said he is trying to work out a plan so that the snack periods offer more sustenance than doughnuts and hot chocolate.

He said major changes will be in store for ninth graders. Because they are older and presumably more stable than seventh and eight graders, Arthur feels they will be able to adjust faster and more successfully.

Arthur said the decision to extend the afternoon closing time was made with busing in mind. In many cases, students are already picked up at 7 a.m. to arrive at school before the 8 a.m. starting time.

HE SAID that afternoon sessions from noon to 4:30 p.m. were designed for students walking from nearby subdivisions. While some students may have trouble adjusting to afternoon classes, the lateness of school closing won't disturb many family routines since most of the fathers commute to Marin or San Francisco for work and do not return home until 6 p.m.

While some will be upset with the new arrangement, it appears that school officials have made the best of the situation. If subdivision plans jell as expected, the school will probably end up on the true form of double sessions and the overlap plan will seem pleasant by comparison.

Victory On The Home Front For Army's Dauntless Listeners

WASHINGTON — The Army has been accused of investigating and keeping files on civilians, including senators, congressmen and leading citizens. I couldn't believe this was true until I happened to be passing through a basic training camp the other day and I saw a crusty drill sergeant holding up a tape recorder. He was talking to a platoon of recruits.

He barked, "Now this is your M-134 Field Issue Tape Recorder. You will carry this tape recorder at all times. This tape recorder is issued with three F-107-X cassettes, which you will carry on your belt ready for instant loading when you are in a combat situation. Any questions so far?"

"WHAT CONSTITUTES a combat situation, Sarge?"

"A combat situation during which you would use your M-134 Field Issue Tape Recorder could occur at a political convention, a peace rally, a university lecture, or if you were sent on patrol through the halls of Congress.

"Now, your M-134 Field Issue Tape Recorder can pick up sound at 200 yards, providing you use this B-62 directional microphone. You must assume that anyone you have been ordered to follow is the enemy, so you will record first and ask questions later. Your M-134 Field Issue Tape Recorder has been designed so you can tape at night as well as you can in the daytime. It must be cleaned after each bugging, and recharged for use the next day. Any questions?"

"SARGE, SUPPOSE we're out trailing a senator, and we run out of tape. Do we return to base or do we continue following him?"

"You will be working in pairs. One man will be sent back for more tape, while the other will continue pursuing his quarry. But I want to warn you to use your tape only when you have the enemy within earshot. Don't fire until you see the whites of their earlobes.

"Now, you will wear your M-134 Field Issue Tape Recorder under your jacket in this holster, like so. This will leave your hands free to take photographs of the enemy with this P-140 Cigarette Lighter Automatic 35 mm. Camera. This P-140 CLA mm. Camera may save your life. While recording your enemy, you will shoot him or her automatically. It has proved its value in hand-to-hand surveillance at the Republican and Democratic conventions.

"You will each be issued 20 rounds of Tri-X film to go with your camera. This will enable you to wipe out a rock festival, an anti-Vietnam demonstration or the governor of a state. Any questions?"

"SUPPOSE WE'RE trying to get near a governor and he's too far away?"

"You must ask for air support. The Air Force will take photos of the situation, and they will also try to pick up any conversations that you missed. Any questions?"

"Suppose we're out in the bushes of a cabinet officer's home tapping his telephone, and we're discovered. What do we do then?"

"You will give nothing but your name, rank and serial number. The Geneva Convention protects you if you are captured while tapping any U.S. government official's telephone.

"Now we're going out to the obstacle course on Capitol Hill. Half of you will pretend to be congressmen and the other half will track them down with your tape recorders. I want this platoon to realize the stakes are high and while this may seem like just an exercise, what you hear and see today may win the war against civilians. I don't want anyone coming back from patrol and saying he has nothing to feed into the Army's computers."

Future of the U.N. Focuses On Sino-U.S. Talks In Poland

By BRUCE W. MUNN
UPI Chief U. N. Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The future effectiveness of the United Nations well may be decided at Warsaw next summer.

That is the opinion of many thoughtful diplomats who attended the General Assembly's 25th anniversary session just ended.

The Assembly, for the first time in 21 years' debate, voted a simple majority—51-49 with 25 abstentions—in favor of giving China's seat to the Peking Communist regime. A precautionary resolution promoted by the United States to require a two-thirds majority vote of the Assembly to effect a change saved the seat for Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalists.

But it was evident that a corner had been turned, signaled, perhaps, by the U.S. speech in the Assembly China debate.

Although the White House sought to insist there was no change in U. S. policy, the speech delivered—with Senate Department approval-by Ambassador Christopher H. Phillips, deputy chief of the delegation, omitted previous years' insistence on blocking the seating of Peking but emphasized that Nationalist China must not be sacrificed.

This appeared to many as tacit acceptance by the United States of the "Two China"—or "One-China-One-Taiwan"—policy advocated by middle roaders for years but rejected by both the Communists and Nationalists.

The mounting diplomatic recognition of Peking, highlighted by the action of Canada and Italy in 1970, and the new U. S. attitude encouraged some fence-sitters to vote to seat the Communists while holding at the same time that the issue was an "important question" requiring a two-thirds majority.

Pending agreement on a Two China policy, few thought Peking's case would muster the required two-thirds, although it was unlikely the Communists would again lose their simple majority.

Most who voted both for Peking's seating and the two-thirds rule—for example, Britain—held that the "ball was not in their court," intimating that leadership on the issue rested with Washington.

The focus therefore was expected to zero in on Warsaw, where for many years quiet, informal talks have been held between U. S. and Communist Chinese ambassadors to Poland. There were only two meetings in 1970, but their resumption was expected next year and if a bare-bones agreement on a Two-China policy can be reached, Peking eventually could win the U. N. seat in which it has displayed increasing interest.

Ambassador Charles W. Yost, replaced by President Nixon as chief U. S. representative, feared that if the Communists took over China's Security Council seat and "vetoed right and left", it would wreck any value of the United Nations as a peace-keeping agent: But Yost also recognized that Peking could play a constructive role.

Some diplomats believed that if Peking sincerely wanted a U. N. seat, it could gain it by renouncing its "irrevocable" claim to the Nationalist island of Taiwan (Formosa) and revitalize the world organization which indubitably had slipped from the leadership function it exercised in the 1960s in the Congo and the Middle East, for instance.

The record was clear that the two major powers—the United States and the Soviet Union—preferred to reserve the United Nations for something less than life-and-death issues, relegating to it discussion of the issues of ecology, development, population and the like. Moscow and Washington showed a firm tendency in recent years to keep issues such as disarmament, missile deployment and limitation, the Vietnam conflict and anything approaching a war-or-peace question out of the United Nations.

But Communist China's presence here with an unwillingness—as a power of equal majority with a nuclear voice to be heard—to go along with such "understandings" could make the United Nations again the world's political stage.

Nixon, addressing the Assembly last Oct. 23, whiled acknowledging that the United Nations must not be "paralyzed in the most important function, that of keeping the peace," spelled out a series of issues on which his administration thought the organization could be effective.

These included pollution, which "knows no national or ideological boundaries"; internationalization of the seabeds and their uncharted resources; the population explosion and its control; traffic in narcotics; aircraft hijacking; the kidnaping of diplomats and human rights, especially for prisoners of war.

The President followed up this declaration in less than two months by replacing Yost, ending a 40-year diplomatic career, with Rep. George H. W. Bush, R-Tex., who lost election to the Senate in November. Bush had no diplomatic experience but had worked on ecological issues.

Consensus was that Yost, whose rare status as a "career ambassador"—the diplomatic equivalent of a four-star general held by only a handful in the U. S. foreign service—had shoddy treatment. Yost showed no rancor but he related to newsmen how he had held in a discussion that the top U. S. post at the United Nations should be filled by a non-professional and Philip H. Klutznick, a long-time economic and financial intimate of the delegation, argued that it rightly belonged to a career diplomat.

Yost's last year at the General Assembly, where he served as deputy chief before Nixon called him from retirement to take the top U. S. delegation post in January, 1969, was not one of exuberant U. N. achievement.

The Arabs forced the first assembly debate on the Middle East since the 1967 Arab-Israeli six-day war. They did not worsen the situation with flagrant propaganda as the United States feared but they did win an assembly demand for immediate Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory. The Arabs also gained a three-month extension of the 90-day cease-fire and standstill agreement negotiated by the United States last summer.

In another Mideast development, the assembly voted—despite a U. S. warning that it was a backward step—recognition of the "inalienable rights" of the Palestinians, who constitute the Arab guerrilla forces, for self-determination. Most dwell within Jordan and Israel.

For the first time in the 25-year U.N. history, the United States abstained from voting on the budget. It contended that the 14 per cent rise represented in the 1971 budget of almost $193 million was excessive.

Yost found the 25th assembly a mixture of achievements and disappointments. He was afraid too much time was spent on sweeping declarations reiterating U. N. Charter principles in documents "which leave no lasting impact".

Among the accomplishments of the Assembly, Yost listed:

—A declaration on friendly relations among states.

—Strategy for the Second Development Decade, the 1970s in which emphasis was renewed on aid for developing countires.

—A declaration of principles for peaceful uses of the seabeds and a start toward an international conference on this in 1973.

—Impetus for the environmental conference scheduled for Stockholm in 1972.

—Reinforcement of the U. N. Development Program which helps finance projects in developing countries.

—A call for treatment of prisoners of war, especially in Vietnam, in accordance with human rights provisions of a Geneva convention.

—Action on narcotics control.

—Steps to streamline U. N. procedure.

Among the disappointments, Yost said was the failure of the Assembly to take more progressive action on peace-keeping. When the Security Council discussed Guinea's charge about a Portuguese invasion, "any number of delegates" objected that the United Nations was not in position to send a military force.

He listed as a minus failure to take steps to improve the International Court of Justice and machinery for peaceful settlement of disputes and failure to create the post of a High Commissioner for Human Rights, an effort Yost said was blocked by parliamentary maneuvering. He didn't say so, but other diplomatic sources laid the blame directly to the Soviet bloc.

Petaluma School Plan Defers Worst Double Session Features

Double sessions and extended school days are not the most pleasant conditions, but a compromise plan to suit parents, students and teachers seems to have been achieved in Petaluma.

Teachers at the crowded Kenilworth Junior High School lobbied strongly for a double session plan that would have completely divided the student body in half and presumably, cut the crowding problem in half.

That method would have required some students to get on buses by 6 a.m. and not permit others to return home until after 6 p.m. While the school may be forced into that situation next fall because of fast growth on the east side, school officials want to put it off as long as possible and cause a minimum of inconvenience to families.

ON THE NEW overlapping double session schedule starting Feb. 1, the students' day will be shortened, but the main loss will not be academic, since the lunch hour will be cut. Instead of a hot meal, students will be permitted two snack periods per session.

Principal Douglas C. Arthur said he is trying to work out a plan so that the snack periods offer more sustenance than doughnuts and hot chocolate.

He said major changes will be in store for ninth graders. Because they are older and presumably more stable than seventh and eight graders, Arthur feels they will be able to adjust faster and more successfully.

Arthur said the decision to extend the afternoon closing time was made with busing in mind. In many cases, students are already picked up at 7 a.m. to arrive at school before the 8 a.m. starting time.

HE SAID that afternoon sessions from noon to 4:30 p.m. were designed for students walking from nearby subdivisions. While some students may have trouble adjusting to afternoon classes, the lateness of school closing won't disturb many family routines since most of the fathers commute to Marin or San Francisco for work and do not return home until 6 p.m.

While some will be upset with the new arrangement, it appears that school officials have made the best of the situation. If subdivision plans jell as expected, the school will probably end up on the true form of double sessions and the overlap plan will seem pleasant by comparison.

By BRUCE W. MUNN
UPI Chief U. N. Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The future effectiveness of the United Nations well may be decided at Warsaw next summer.

That is the opinion of many thoughtful diplomats who attended the General Assembly's 25th anniversary session just ended.

The Assembly, for the first time in 21 years' debate, voted a simple majority—51-49 with 25 abstentions—in favor of giving China's seat to the Peking Communist regime. A precautionary resolution promoted by the United States to require a two-thirds majority vote of the Assembly to effect a change saved the seat for Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalists.

But it was evident that a corner had been turned, signaled, perhaps, by the U.S. speech in the Assembly China debate.

Although the White House sought to insist there was no change in U. S. policy, the speech delivered—with Senate Department approval-by Ambassador Christopher H. Phillips, deputy chief of the delegation, omitted previous years' insistence on blocking the seating of Peking but emphasized that Nationalist China must not be sacrificed.

This appeared to many as tacit acceptance by the United States of the "Two China"—or "One-China-One-Taiwan"—policy advocated by middle roaders for years but rejected by both the Communists and Nationalists.

The mounting diplomatic recognition of Peking, highlighted by the action of Canada and Italy in 1970, and the new U. S. attitude encouraged some fence-sitters to vote to seat the Communists while holding at the same time that the issue was an "important question" requiring a two-thirds majority.

Pending agreement on a Two China policy, few thought Peking's case would muster the required two-thirds, although it was unlikely the Communists would again lose their simple majority.

Most who voted both for Peking's seating and the two-thirds rule—for example, Britain—held that the "ball was not in their court," intimating that leadership on the issue rested with Washington.

The focus therefore was expected to zero in on Warsaw, where for many years quiet, informal talks have been held between U. S. and Communist Chinese ambassadors to Poland. There were only two meetings in 1970, but their resumption was expected next year and if a bare-bones agreement on a Two-China policy can be reached, Peking eventually could win the U. N. seat in which it has displayed increasing interest.

Ambassador Charles W. Yost, replaced by President Nixon as chief U. S. representative, feared that if the Communists took over China's Security Council seat and "vetoed right and left", it would wreck any value of the United Nations as a peace-keeping agent: But Yost also recognized that Peking could play a constructive role.

Some diplomats believed that if Peking sincerely wanted a U. N. seat, it could gain it by renouncing its "irrevocable" claim to the Nationalist island of Taiwan (Formosa) and revitalize the world organization which indubitably had slipped from the leadership function it exercised in the 1960s in the Congo and the Middle East, for instance.

The record was clear that the two major powers—the United States and the Soviet Union—preferred to reserve the United Nations for something less than life-and-death issues, relegating to it discussion of the issues of ecology, development, population and the like. Moscow and Washington showed a firm tendency in recent years to keep issues such as disarmament, missile deployment and limitation, the Vietnam conflict and anything approaching a war-or-peace question out of the United Nations.

But Communist China's presence here with an unwillingness—as a power of equal majority with a nuclear voice to be heard—to go along with such "understandings" could make the United Nations again the world's political stage.

Nixon, addressing the Assembly last Oct. 23, whiled acknowledging that the United Nations must not be "paralyzed in the most important function, that of keeping the peace," spelled out a series of issues on which his administration thought the organization could be effective.

These included pollution, which "knows no national or ideological boundaries"; internationalization of the seabeds and their uncharted resources; the population explosion and its control; traffic in narcotics; aircraft hijacking; the kidnaping of diplomats and human rights, especially for prisoners of war.

The President followed up this declaration in less than two months by replacing Yost, ending a 40-year diplomatic career, with Rep. George H. W. Bush, R-Tex., who lost election to the Senate in November. Bush had no diplomatic experience but had worked on ecological issues.

Consensus was that Yost, whose rare status as a "career ambassador"—the diplomatic equivalent of a four-star general held by only a handful in the U. S. foreign service—had shoddy treatment. Yost showed no rancor but he related to newsmen how he had held in a discussion that the top U. S. post at the United Nations should be filled by a non-professional and Philip H. Klutznick, a long-time economic and financial intimate of the delegation, argued that it rightly belonged to a career diplomat.

Yost's last year at the General Assembly, where he served as deputy chief before Nixon called him from retirement to take the top U. S. delegation post in January, 1969, was not one of exuberant U. N. achievement.

The Arabs forced the first assembly debate on the Middle East since the 1967 Arab-Israeli six-day war. They did not worsen the situation with flagrant propaganda as the United States feared but they did win an assembly demand for immediate Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory. The Arabs also gained a three-month extension of the 90-day cease-fire and standstill agreement negotiated by the United States last summer.

In another Mideast development, the assembly voted—despite a U. S. warning that it was a backward step—recognition of the "inalienable rights" of the Palestinians, who constitute the Arab guerrilla forces, for self-determination. Most dwell within Jordan and Israel.

For the first time in the 25-year U.N. history, the United States abstained from voting on the budget. It contended that the 14 per cent rise represented in the 1971 budget of almost $193 million was excessive.

Yost found the 25th assembly a mixture of achievements and disappointments. He was afraid too much time was spent on sweeping declarations reiterating U. N. Charter principles in documents "which leave no lasting impact".

Among the accomplishments of the Assembly, Yost listed:

—A declaration on friendly relations among states.

—Strategy for the Second Development Decade, the 1970s in which emphasis was renewed on aid for developing countires.

—A declaration of principles for peaceful uses of the seabeds and a start toward an international conference on this in 1973.

—Impetus for the environmental conference scheduled for Stockholm in 1972.

—Reinforcement of the U. N. Development Program which helps finance projects in developing countries.

—A call for treatment of prisoners of war, especially in Vietnam, in accordance with human rights provisions of a Geneva convention.

—Action on narcotics control.

—Steps to streamline U. N. procedure.

Among the disappointments, Yost said was the failure of the Assembly to take more progressive action on peace-keeping. When the Security Council discussed Guinea's charge about a Portuguese invasion, "any number of delegates" objected that the United Nations was not in position to send a military force.

Victory On The Home Front For Army's Dauntless Listeners

WASHINGTON — The Army has been accused of investigating and keeping files on civilians, including senators, congressmen and leading citizens. I couldn't believe this was true until I happened to be passing through a basic training camp the other day and I saw a crusty drill sergeant holding up a tape recorder. He was talking to a platoon of recruits.

He barked, "Now this is your M-134 Field Issue Tape Recorder. You will carry this tape recorder at all times. This tape recorder is issued with three F-107-X cassettes, which you will carry on your belt ready for instant loading when you are in a combat situation. Any questions so far?"

"WHAT CONSTITUTES a combat situation, Sarge?"

"A combat situation during which you would use your M-134 Field Issue Tape Recorder could occur at a political convention, a peace rally, a university lecture, or if you were sent on patrol through the halls of Congress.

"Now, your M-134 Field Issue Tape Recorder can pick up sound at 200 yards, providing you use this B-62 directional microphone. You must assume that anyone you have been ordered to follow is the enemy, so you will record first and ask questions later. Your M-134 Field Issue Tape Recorder has been designed so you can tape at night as well as you can in the daytime. It must be cleaned after each bugging, and recharged for use the next day. Any questions?"

"SARGE, SUPPOSE we're out trailing a senator, and we run out of tape. Do we return to base or do we continue following him?"

"You will be working in pairs. One man will be sent back for more tape, while the other will continue pursuing his quarry. But I want to warn you to use your tape only when you have the enemy within earshot. Don't fire until you see the whites of their earlobes.

"Now, you will wear your M-134 Field Issue Tape Recorder under your jacket in this holster, like so. This will leave your hands free to take photographs of the enemy with this P-140 Cigarette Lighter Automatic 35 mm. Camera. This P-140 CLA mm. Camera may save your life. While recording your enemy, you will shoot him or her automatically. It has proved its value in hand-to-hand surveillance at the Republican and Democratic conventions.

"You will each be issued 20 rounds of Tri-X film to go with your camera. This will enable you to wipe out a rock festival, an anti-Vietnam demonstration or the governor of a state. Any questions?"

"You must ask for air support. The Air Force will take photos of the situation, and they will also try to pick up any conversations that you missed. Any questions?"

"Suppose we're out in the bushes of a cabinet officer's home tapping his telephone, and we're discovered. What do we do then?"

"You will give nothing but your name, rank and serial number. The Geneva Convention protects you if you are captured while tapping any U.S. government official's telephone.

"Now we're going out to the obstacle course on Capitol Hill. Half of you will pretend to be congressmen and the other half will track them down with your tape recorders. I want this platoon to realize the stakes are high and while this may seem like just an exercise, what you hear and see today may win the war against civilians. I don't want anyone coming back from patrol and saying he has nothing to feed into the Army's computers."

Crocodile Dies After Kidnap

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A rare East Indian crocodile valued at more than $1,000 died from exposure to sub-freezing temperatures Sunday when it was stolen from its heated pit at the Jacksonville Zoo.

Zoo officials said the reptile, called a "false gavial," was taken by two "hippie types" who dropped it under some brush and fled when a zoo guard spotted them. A peace symbol had been painted on the crocodile's back and its long snout and its legs were bound.

"We have no idea why they wanted to take the gavial or why they painted a peace sign on its back," one zoo officials said.

The gavial was returned to its heated pit, but died a short time later. A zoo spokesman said the reptile was exposed to the extreme cold for at least 30 minutes before dawn Sunday.

2 Stolen Cars Found Damaged

Two cars stolen during the weekend were recovered after they were vandalized, according to San Rafael police.

Police said a 1964 Pontiac Tempest belonging to Betty L. Suhrke of 149 Humboldt Street was found at the end of Moody Court at 1:30 a.m. Saturday. The thieves had punctured the tires, slashed the upholstery and smashed the tail lights, police said.

A 1962 Chevrolet Impala taken between 4 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 a.m. yesterday from the home of James H. Stannard, 40 Forbes Avenue, was recovered in Santa Venetia with damage to the interior, police said.

Girl Reports An Assault

An 18-year-old Corte Madera girl was raped Saturday after accepting a ride from two men, Corte Madera police said.

Officers said the girl told them she was hitchhiking at Corte Madera Avenue and Village Square when the men picked her up, drove to a secluded area off Upper Corte Madera Avenue and raped her at knifepoint.

Officers said she described her attackers as between 20 and 25 years of age, blond and one had a moustache.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Tongue Is Said To Mirror Disease Elsewhere In Body

One of our readers wants to know: "What causes a burning sensation of the tongue?" Another asks: "Why do so many older people have soreness and dryness of the mouth and tongue?" All too often, no clues can be found to explain these common complaints.

On the other hand, when the edge or tip of the tongue is reddened, an inflammation or irritation (glossitis) usually is responsible for the burning sensation. It may stem from excessive use of tobacco, alcohol, spices or hot foods. Dental disorders, such as jagged teeth, poorly fitting dentures and mouth breathing, will do the same.

OCCASIONALLY glossitis stems from an allergy to toothpaste, mouthwashes or dyes in candy or drugs. In such instances, the burning is usually localized and of short duration. Herpetic ulcers and canker sores cause intense pain lasting from 7 to 10 days. Burning may also be the initial symptom of a tumor.

The tongue is said to mirror a disease elsewhere. Burning may be the only manifestation of an early anemia, diabetes or a nutritional deficiency. Certain generalized skin diseases also have an effect upon the tongue.

SORENESS AND dryness of the mouth in oldsters may be caused by the same disorders that are responsible for burning tongue. There may be no evidence of inflammation or irritation. Many of the victims are women beyond the menopause. Some have vitamin deficiencies or anemia. It is surprising how often mouth breathing and dehydration are implicated.

Among the household remedies for dry mouth is rinsing with Karo sirup in warm water; glycerine and lemon juice also are helpful. Many commercial mouthwashes also offer relief.

TRANSFUSION REACTION

M. G. writes: My father who has leukemia receives transfusions every six weeks or so. At first there were no reactions but lately he has been developing chills, fever, and nausea after being given blood. Is this due to poor matching of types?

REPLY

No. Persons who receive many transfusions may become sensitive to one of the constitutents of blood plasma. In such instances, the plasma (liquid part) may be separated from the red cells, which often are washed and administered as a red cell transfusion. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on leukemia.

IODIZED SALT

S. T. writes: Is iodized salt recommended for people who do not live in the so-called goiter belt?

REPLY

Yes, as an added precaution against goiter. It does no harm and has some value even though we are eating more and more processed foods from all over the country.

LOCKED BOWEL

W.F. writes: What is a locked bowel?

REPLY

A bowel can run, kink, twist, bloat, or become blocked or spastic, but it does not lock. This may be a pet expression of your physician to describe a type of constipation. The opposite is a possibility if it is locked in the open position.

LIPOMAS

T.C. writes: Are lipomas of a malignant nature?

REPLY

Not as a rule.

Bagley Hits Reagan Veto Of CRLA's Federal Grant

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Republican state lawmaker today urged the Nixon and Reagan administrations to employ "cooperation" and keep alive federally-financed California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA) for the poor.

Meantime, the influential California Farm Bureau Federation, the state's largest grower organization, called on the federal Office of Economic Opportunity to uphold Gov. Ronald Reagan's veto of a $1.8 million federal grant to operate CRLA during the next year.

Cruz Reynoso, statewide director of CRLA, expressed confidence that the veto will "be overridden and we will be in business next year." He accused Reagan of vetoing the sum for reasons of "political retaliation."

The governor's action, which can be overridden by federal OEO Chief Frank Carlucci, touched off a new storm of controversy although the veto was not unexpected.

The CRLA, which claims a success rate of 86 per cent, has been a frequent and successful opponent of Reagan administration-sponsored cutbacks in welfare and medical care services.

The governor has made no secret of his dislike for filing of certain class action suits by CRLA or of the organization's tackling of landmark cases.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who carried Reagan's tax program last year but frequently differs with him on social issues, made public copies of a Dec. 22 letter he wrote Reagan urging approval of the federal grant, insisting CRLA "fulfilled a serious need."

"I am sure the approach of cooperation would be more fruitful than denying to thousands of California's poor representation in our courts of law," he told the governor. "This would be the effect of a veto of this grant."

He said if the state OEO "does have a concern with the scope and operation of the program, I would urge you to work with the CRLA and the federal OEO to resolve these problems."

He sent a similar letter Monday to Carlucci.

Allan Grant, president of the farm bureau, said his group is in "full agreement" that California's poor need and deserve legal aid but "we feel that the CRLA and the federal OEO to resolve these problems" out their proper function."

Grant, appointed by Reagan in 1967 to the state board of agriculture, urged Carlucci to uphold Reagan's veto.

Reynoso said he based his forecast that Carlucci would overturn the veto on the belief that he already had thoroughly reviewed CRLA and that the President would do nothing to enhance Reagan's national standing.

Reagan was the only outspoken critic of Nixon's family assistance plan at the recent Republican national governors' conference in Sun Valley, Idaho, and was only one of two state chiefs to vote against endorsing it.

Lewis K. Uhler, state OEO director who recommended the veto, told a news conference the administration is drafting a privately financed alternative to CRLA and indicated it would press ahead with the plan even if the governor is overturned by the feder

Crocodile Dies After Kidnap

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A rare East Indian crocodile valued at more than $1,000 died from exposure to sub-freezing temperatures Sunday when it was stolen from its heated pit at the Jacksonville Zoo.

Zoo officials said the reptile, called a "false gavial," was taken by two "hippie types" who dropped it under some brush and fled when a zoo guard spotted them. A peace symbol had been painted on the crocodile's back and its long snout and its legs were bound.

"We have no idea why they wanted to take the gavial or why they painted a peace sign on its back," one zoo officials said.

The gavial was returned to its heated pit, but died a short time later. A zoo spokesman said the reptile was exposed to the extreme cold for at least 30 minutes before dawn Sunday.

2 Stolen Cars Found Damaged

Two cars stolen during the weekend were recovered after they were vandalized, according to San Rafael police.

Police said a 1964 Pontiac Tempest belonging to Betty L. Suhrke of 149 Humboldt Street was found at the end of Moody Court at 1:30 a.m. Saturday. The thieves had punctured the tires, slashed the upholstery and smashed the tail lights, police said.

A 1962 Chevrolet Impala taken between 4 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 a.m. yesterday from the home of James H. Stannard, 40 Forbes Avenue, was recovered in Santa Venetia with damage to the interior, police said.

Girl Reports An Assault

An 18-year-old Corte Madera girl was raped Saturday after accepting a ride from two men, Corte Madera police said.

Officers said the girl told them she was hitchhiking at Corte Madera Avenue and Village Square when the men picked her up, drove to a secluded area off Upper Corte Madera Avenue and raped her at knifepoint.

Officers said she described her attackers as between 20 and 25 years of age, blond and one had a moustache.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Tongue Is Said To Mirror Disease Elsewhere In Body

One of our readers wants to know: "What causes a burning sensation of the tongue?" Another asks: "Why do so many older people have soreness and dryness of the mouth and tongue?" All too often, no clues can be found to explain these common complaints.

On the other hand, when the edge or tip of the tongue is reddened, an inflammation or irritation (glossitis) usually is responsible for the burning sensation. It may stem from excessive use of tobacco, alcohol, spices or hot foods. Dental disorders, such as jagged teeth, poorly fitting dentures and mouth breathing, will do the same.

OCCASIONALLY glossitis stems from an allergy to toothpaste, mouthwashes or dyes in candy or drugs. In such instances, the burning is usually localized and of short duration. Herpetic ulcers and canker sores cause intense pain lasting from 7 to 10 days. Burning may also be the initial symptom of a tumor.

The tongue is said to mirror a disease elsewhere. Burning may be the only manifestation of an early anemia, diabetes or a nutritional deficiency. Certain generalized skin diseases also have an effect upon the tongue.

SORENESS AND dryness of the mouth in oldsters may be caused by the same disorders that are responsible for burning tongue. There may be no evidence of inflammation or irritation. Many of the victims are women beyond the menopause. Some have vitamin deficiencies or anemia. It is surprising how often mouth breathing and dehydration are implicated.

Among the household remedies for dry mouth is rinsing with Karo sirup in warm water; glycerine and lemon juice also are helpful. Many commercial mouthwashes also offer relief.

TRANSFUSION REACTION

M. G. writes: My father who has leukemia receives transfusions every six weeks or so. At first there were no reactions but lately he has been developing chills, fever, and nausea after being given blood. Is this due to poor matching of types?

REPLY

No. Persons who receive many transfusions may become sensitive to one of the constitutents of blood plasma. In such instances, the plasma (liquid part) may be separated from the red cells, which often are washed and administered as a red cell transfusion. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on leukemia.

IODIZED SALT

S. T. writes: Is iodized salt recommended for people who do not live in the so-called goiter belt?

REPLY

Yes, as an added precaution against goiter. It does no harm and has some value even though we are eating more and more processed foods from all over the country.

LOCKED BOWEL

W. F. writes: What is a locked bowel?

REPLY

A bowel can run, kink, twist, bloat, or become blocked or spastic, but it does not lock. This may be a pet expression of your physician to describe a type of constipation. The opposite is a possibility if it is locked in the open position.

LIPOMAS

T.C. writes: Are lipomas of a malignant nature?

REPLY

Not as a rule.

Bagley Hits Reagan Veto Of CRLA's Federal Grant

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Republican state lawmaker today urged the Nixon and Reagan administrations to employ "cooperation" and keep alive federally-financed California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA) for the poor.

Meantime, the influential California Farm Bureau Federation, the state's largest grower organization, called on the federal Office of Economic Opportunity to uphold Gov. Ronald Reagan's veto of a $1.8 million federal grant to operate CRLA during the next year.

Cruz Reynoso, statewide director of CRLA, expressed confidence that the veto will "be overridden and we will be in business next year." He accused Reagan of vetoing the sum for reasons of "political retaliation."

The governor's action, which can be overridden by federal OEO Chief Frank Carlucci, touched off a new storm of controversy although the veto was not unexpected.

The CRLA, which claims a success rate of 86 per cent, has been a frequent and successful opponent of Reagan administration-sponsored cutbacks in welfare and medical care services.

The governor has made no secret of his dislike for filing of certain class action suits by CRLA or of the organization's tackling of landmark cases.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who carried Reagan's tax program last year but frequently differs with him on social issues, made public copies of a Dec. 22 letter he wrote Reagan urging approval of the federal grant, insisting CRLA "fulfilled a serious need."

"I am sure the approach of cooperation would be more fruitful than denying to thousands of California's poor representation in our courts of law," he told the governor. "This would be the effect of a veto of this grant."

He said if the state OEO "does have a concern with the scope and operation of the program, I would urge you to work with the CRLA and the federal OEO to resolve these problems."

He sent a similar letter Monday to Carlucci.

Allan Grant, president of the farm bureau, said his group is in "full agreement" that California's poor need and deserve legal aid but "we feel that the CRLA and the federal OEO to resolve these problems" out their proper function."

Grant, appointed by Reagan in 1967 to the state board of agriculture, urged Carlucci to uphold Reagan's veto.

Reynoso said he based his forecast that Carlucci would overturn the veto on the belief that he already had thoroughly reviewed CRLA and that the President would do nothing to enhance Reagan's national standing.

Reagan was the only outspoken critic of Nixon's family assistance plan at the recent Republican national governors' conference in Sun Valley, Idaho, and was only one of two state chiefs to vote against endorsing it.

Lewis K. Uhler, state OEO director who recommended the veto, told a news conference the administration is drafting a privately financed alternative to CRLA and indicated it would press ahead with the plan even if the governor is overturned by the federal government.

Uhler declined to divulge specifics but said the proposal would stress "local control" and the volunteering of legal services to the poor by attorneys.

Inmates Drink Hair Tonic, Die

Ten of their companions were hospitalized and one of them became blind from effects of the liquid concoction, according to prison administrative officer Exequiel Santos.

"Usually, we allowed the prisoners to use hair tonic for purposes of grooming. This is the first case we have had of people using this seemingly harmless liquid for something else. Initial investigation shows the tonic was spiked with seconal tablets," Santos said.

2 Stolen Cars Found Damaged

Two cars stolen during the weekend were recovered after they were vandalized, according to San Rafael police.

Police said a 1964 Pontiac Tempest belonging to Betty L. Suhrke of 149 Humboldt Street was found at the end of Moody Court at 1:30 a.m. Saturday. The thieves had punctured the tires, slashed the upholstery and smashed the tail lights, police said.

A 1962 Chevrolet Impala taken between 4 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 a.m. yesterday from the home of James H. Stannard, 40 Forbes Avenue, was recovered in Santa Venetia with damage to the interior, police said.

Crocodile Dies After Kidnap

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A rare East Indian crocodile valued at more than $1,000 died from exposure to sub-freezing temperatures Sunday when it was stolen from its heated pit at the Jacksonville Zoo.

Zoo officials said the reptile, called a "false gavial," was taken by two "hippie types" who dropped it under some brush and fled when a zoo guard spotted them. A peace symbol had been painted on the crocodile's back and its long snout and its legs were bound.

"We have no idea why they wanted to take the gavial or why they painted a peace sign on its back," one zoo officials said.

The gavial was returned to its heated pit, but died a short time later. A zoo spokesman said the reptile was exposed to the extreme cold for at least 30 minutes before dawn Sunday.

Girl Reports An Assault

An 18-year-old Corte Madera girl was raped Saturday after accepting a ride from two men, Corte Madera police said.

Officers said the girl told them she was hitchhiking at Corte Madera Avenue and Village Square when the men picked her up, drove to a secluded area off Upper Corte Madera Avenue and raped her at knifepoint.

Officers said she described her attackers as between 20 and 25 years of age, blond and one had a moustache.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Tongue Is Said To Mirror Disease Elsewhere In Body

One of our readers wants to know: "What causes a burning sensation of the tongue?" Another asks: "Why do so many older people have soreness and dryness of the mouth and tongue?" All too often, no clues can be found to explain these common complaints.

On the other hand, when the edge or tip of the tongue is reddened, an inflammation or irritation (glossitis) usually is responsible for the burning sensation. It may stem from excessive use of tobacco, alcohol, spices or hot foods. Dental disorders, such as jagged teeth, poorly fitting dentures and mouth breathing, will do the same.

OCCASIONALLY glossitis stems from an allergy to toothpaste, mouthwashes or dyes in candy or drugs. In such instances, the burning is usually localized and of short duration. Herpetic ulcers and canker sores cause intense pain lasting from 7 to 10 days. Burning may also be the initial symptom of a tumor.

The tongue is said to mirror a disease elsewhere. Burning may be the only manifestation of an early anemia, diabetes or a nutritional deficiency. Certain generalized skin diseases also have an effect upon the tongue.

SORENESS AND dryness of the mouth in oldsters may be caused by the same disorders that are responsible for burning tongue. There may be no evidence of inflammation or irritation. Many of the victims are women beyond the menopause. Some have vitamin deficiencies or anemia. It is surprising how often mouth breathing and dehydration are implicated.

Among the household remedies for dry mouth is rinsing with Karo sirup in warm water; glycerine and lemon juice also are helpful. Many commercial mouthwashes also offer relief.

TRANSFUSION REACTION

M. G. writes: My father who has leukemia receives transfusions every six weeks or so. At first there were no reactions but lately he has been developing chills, fever, and nausea after being given blood. Is this due to poor matching of types?

REPLY

No. Persons who receive many transfusions may become sensitive to one of the constitutents of blood plasma. In such instances, the plasma (liquid part) may be separated from the red cells, which often are washed and administered as a red cell transfusion. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on leukemia.

IODIZED SALT

S. T. writes: Is iodized salt recommended for people who do not live in the so-called goiter belt?

REPLY

Yes, as an added precaution against goiter. It does no harm and has some value even though we are eating more and more processed foods from all over the country.

LOCKED BOWEL

W.F. writes: What is a locked bowel?

REPLY

A bowel can run, kink, twist, bloat, or become blocked or spastic, but it does not lock. This may be a pet expression of your physician to describe a type of constipation. The opposite is a possibility if it is locked in the open position.

LIPOMAS

T.C. writes: Are lipomas of a malignant nature?

REPLY

Not as a rule.

Bagley Hits Reagan Veto Of CRLA's Federal Grant

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Republican state lawmaker today urged the Nixon and Reagan administrations to employ "cooperation" and keep alive federally-financed California Rural Legal Assistance (CRLA) for the poor.

Meantime, the influential California Farm Bureau Federation, the state's largest grower organization, called on the federal Office of Economic Opportunity to uphold Gov. Ronald Reagan's veto of a $1.8 million federal grant to operate CRLA during the next year.

Cruz Reynoso, statewide director of CRLA, expressed confidence that the veto will "be overridden and we will be in business next year." He accused Reagan of vetoing the sum for reasons of "political retaliation."

The governor's action, which can be overridden by federal OEO Chief Frank Carlucci, touched off a new storm of controversy although the veto was not unexpected.

The CRLA, which claims a success rate of 86 per cent, has been a frequent and successful opponent of Reagan administration-sponsored cutbacks in welfare and medical care services.

The governor has made no secret of his dislike for filing of certain class action suits by CRLA or of the organization's tackling of landmark cases.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who carried Reagan's tax program last year but frequently differs with him on social issues, made public copies of a Dec. 22 letter he wrote Reagan urging approval of the federal grant, insisting CRLA "fulfilled a serious need."

"I am sure the approach of cooperation would be more fruitful than denying to thousands of California's poor representation in our courts of law," he told the governor. "This would be the effect of a veto of this grant."

He said if the state OEO "does have a concern with the scope and operation of the program, I would urge you to work with the CRLA and the federal OEO to resolve these problems."

He sent a similar letter Monday to Carlucci.

Allan Grant, president of the farm bureau, said his group is in "full agreement" that California's poor need and deserve legal aid but "we feel that the CRLA and the federal OEO to resolve these problems."

out their proper function."

Grant, appointed by Reagan in 1967 to the state board of agriculture, urged Carlucci to uphold Reagan's veto.

Reynoso said he based his forecast that Carlucci would overturn the veto on the belief that he already had thoroughly reviewed CRLA and that the President would do nothing to enhance Reagan's national standing.

Reagan was the only outspoken critic of Nixon's family assistance plan at the recent Republican national governors' conference in Sun Valley, Idaho, and was only one of two state chiefs to vote against endorsing it.

Lewis K. Uhler, state OEO director who recommended the veto, told a news conference the administration is drafting a privately financed alternative to CRLA and indicated it would press ahead with the plan even if the governor is overturned by the federal government.

Uhler declined to divulge specifics but said the proposal would stress "local control" and the volunteering of legal services to the poor by attorneys.

Inmates Drink Hair Tonic, Die

Ten of their companions were hospitalized and one of them became blind from effects of the liquid concoction, according to prison administrative officer Exequiel Santos.

"Usually, we allowed the prisoners to use hair tonic for purposes of grooming. This is the first case we have had of people using this seemingly harmless liquid for something else. Initial investigation shows the tonic was spiked with seconal tablets," Santos said.

Consumer Groups Object To Change In PUC Rules

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Four groups claiming to represent consumers have attacked proposed rule changes for hearings before the California Public Utilities Commission.

At a news conference held in the lobby of the State Building, the groups said they were taking "strenous exception" to the charges.

They would limit appearances before the PUC to lawyers, require the showing of a "substantial and special interest" prior to entering a case, and require defining of the issues involved at the beginning of each case.

Silvia Siegel, executive director of the Association of California Consumers, noted that the proposals were made by a three-attorney committee, all of whose members represented public utilities.

Michael McCloskey, executive director of the Sierra Club, said the PUC was moving in the opposite direction from the objectives for which it was formed.

Michael Peevey, of San Rafael research director for the California AFL-Cio, said the proposals were an attempt "to gag citizen participation in state government."

director of the California Farmer-Consumer Information Committee, said, "We think the recommendations should be rejected and the PUC should start again with a wider committee and not one representing just utilities."

J. P. Vukasin Jr., chairman of the PUC, said that since the recommendations were pending before the commission it would be inappropriate for him or other commissioners to comment.

State Boys' Ranch To Close In June

SACRAMENTO (UPI) The Reagan administration has disclosed that the California Youth Authority's Fricot Ranch School for Boys near San Andreas will be closed by next June.

The estimated 200 youths currently at Fricot School will be assigned to other state reform schools. Ranging in age between 8 and 14, they are among the youngest in state penal institutions.

The Youth Authority said in a prepared statement that Fricot School, in operation since 1944, will be shuttered because of a fall-off in population. It is located 11 miles east of San Andreas in Calaveras County.

"The decision to close the institution is the result of steadily declining Youth Authority populations, particularly among the younger age group of boys who normally are assigned to Fricot," the agency said.

In 1965, the population in CYA institutions reached a peak of 6,893 and fell to 6,372 last year. Final figures for 1970 are expected to show an additional drop, the CYA reported.

The decline in population was credited in large measure to the state's probation subsidy program in which counties receive extra state aid for keeping their felons at home.

The CYA reported there is "ample space" in other penal facilities for the Fricot youths and announced that the 106 staff members there would be offered jobs in other CYA ininstitutions or offices.

"There are expected to be no layoffs," reported Allen F. Breed, CYA director.

In the current fiscal year, the Fricot facility has a budget of $1.5 million. The new fiscal period starts in July and the agency said that the school will be closed by June.

High Price: Carnage On U. S. Roads

By the end of this year more than 56,000 Americans will have died in automobile accidents, 11,000 more than the total number of Americans who have died in Vietnam fighting since 1961.

Figured over the present decade, this highway slaughter will seriously erode the economic as well as human resources of the United States. In the 70s, Americans will roll up more than 10 trillion miles of highway travel, according to an estimate by John A. Volpe, secretary of transportation, in an article written for the January issue of Night Driving Safety News.

If the fatality rate stays at 50,000 per year, the U. S. will lose half a milliom people between now and 1980 — many of them young, creative and productive. Thirty million more will be crippled or disfigured. The economic cost, as nearly as can be estimated, will reach $150 billion, according to Volpe.

No nation long can support such an expenditure of human and financial resources. And the gloom of current statistics Volpe sees some reason for hope.

If the projected figures through November hold true at around 56,000 for the year, that would represent a drop of 1,100, or the lowest fatality rate per 100 million vehicle miles of travel of any year since records were kept.

Volpe noted several developments he thinks will help cut fatalites more in years to come.

In 1970, the Department of Transportation let contracts for development of experimental safety cars so designed that riders could walk away uninjured from crashes up to 50 miles per hour and rollovers at 70 mph.

It recently signed agreements with Germany and Japan to develop experimental safety vehicles with similar specifications to insure that foreign cars produced for export to the United States would meet all American standards.

Volpe feels that passive restraints such as air bags, self fastening belts or crash-deployed nets or blankets will save people in spite of themselves. Such restraints, he noted, must be installed in the front seat of all passenger cars pruduced after July 1, 1973. They must be capable of preventing death or serious injuries in crashes against a solid barrier at speeds up to 30 mph.

Another reason for Volpe's optimism is the Interstate Highway System. "We save one life for every five miles of Interstate highway built," said Volpe. "As the 42,500-mile system nears completion that figures out to a saving of 8,500 lives annually."

Highway deaths also are being cut down by isolating problem drinkers. "We can save about 23,000 lives a year by weeding out two per cent to five per cent of the driving population, the problem drinkers," Volpe said.

Large Market Seen In Foods For The Elderly

LONDON (UPI)—A medical nutritionist has called attention to what he calls the surprising fact that the food industry has created a large market in baby foods and yet has not realized there is an even bigger outlet for special foods for old people.

Dr. Arnold Bender of Queen Elizabeth College told the Royal Society of Health that although the elderly make up about 12 per cent of the population of Britain they use nearly 30 per cent of the expenditure on the National Health Services.

Defining anyone over 60 as elderly, Bender said 12 per cent were permanently or temporarily housebound and it was obviously of great economic and social importance to improve their health to the point where they could be independent.

In this connection he said proper nutrition was one of the important factors. Retirement or death of a lifelong partner or both often produced an apathy toward shopping, preparing food or even eating.

Some of the symptoms of which the elderly complained such as headache, insomnia, irritability, loss of appetite and headache could be traced to poor diet. He mentioned cases where old people were found to be living on tea and biscuits and suffering from deficiency conditions as a result.

Bender suggested that the time had come to make food especially for the elderly, containing a high percentage of nutrients in proportion to bulk so that even small quantities would help maintain bodily strength. He said they could be supplied as welfare foods or through ordinary shops or both.

The number of customers for these foods outnumber baby customers seven to one, he said. And the elderly eat more than babies.

Land Conservation Group's Secret Weapon — Ready Cash

By DUSTON HARVEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Like the hero in A Victorian melodrama, the man from Nature Conservancy arrived just in time to stop the foreclosure of the elderly artist's studio home.

The fast action with a checkbook kept portrait painter Loren Holmwood in his Southern California beach house — and preserved 700 acres of lush timberland overlooking Lake Tahoe for the federal government.

Huey D. Johnson, who wrote the $25,000 check, describes the complicated transaction as an unusual example of the Nature Conservancy's purpose —land conservation —and its chief weapon —ready cash.

Johnson is western regional director of the privately supported conservation organization which devotes its entire resources to preserving lands of outstanding scenic or ecological value.

In the past two decades, it has saved nearly 200,000 acres in 515 separate areas of 42 states.

Among its more spectacular efforts were addition of 10,000 acres of beach and tropical forest to Haleakala National Park in Hawaii, acquisition of 10,700-acre Wassaw Island off the Georgia coast for a federal wildlife sanctuary, and creation of a 32,920-acre state wildlife and recreation area at Bear Tooth Ranch in Montana.

The Conservancy's hallmarks are a quiet, businesslike approach to land acquisition and a $1.1 million revolving fund which allows it to provide cash in a hurry.

The organization, which has 21,500 dues-paying members and 45 employes at offices in Washington, Minneapolis and San Francisco, also has a $1 million endowment fund and a $6 million line of credit from the Ford Foundation. Both are used to guarantee bank loans for land purchases.

"These don't total too much," Johnson said during an interview. "But our freedom to move quickly often allows us to put down a little money and hold land on option; sometimes $100 or $500 will tie up land worth $1 million.

"We use the same tools as speculators," he added. "I hope we've proven the importance of management and professionalism in conservation. Emotion isn't enough when you're dealing with tough environmental problems. Too often conservationists just have no muscle."

The regional official said the non-profit Conservancy had one advantage over land developers —it can offer tax advantages on donations.

Half of the 500 parcels preserved by the organization have been gifts, ranging from Anne Morrow Lindbergh's Big Garden Island off the Maine coast to a $6 million redwood forest in Northern California donated by Georgia-Pacific Corp.

"We'll work in cahoots with anybody —from the Sierra Club to land developers," Johnson said.

The Conservancy works "in cahoots" regularly with federal, state and local governments. It puts down enough money to hold property —often up to 18 months —until the slow moving public agencies can obtain funds to buy the land.

On other projects, it loans money from the revolving fund to local conservation groups, which then stage fund-raising drives to repay the conservancy. They have up to three years.

Johnson said the group currently is trying to raise about $5 million from foundations and benefactors to complete "some great buys we got because of the recession." These included Lignumvitae Key off Florida, a second phase of the Hawaiian park project, and a 15,028-acre purchase and lease at Aravaipa Canyon in Arizona.

These included Lignumvitae Key off Florida, a second phase of the Hawaiian park project and a 15,-028-acre purchase and lease at Aravaipa Canyon in Arizona.

In Marin and Southern Sonoma County, the Nature Conservancy has been active in such projects as acquiring a 300-acre wildfowl preserve on Lower Tubbs Island east of Black Point. The $300,000 price tag was met by fund drives among school children, a $200,000 gift from a Reno foundation and private donations.

In February, private owners donated 37.4 acres of Richardson Bay and San Rafael Bay tidelands to the conservation group. In addition to buying up key nature areas to preserve them, the Conservancy also has jumped into the courts at times. In 1967, it filed suit to halt logging on Bolinas Ridge.

It purchased Kent Island in Bolinas Lagoon and turned it over to the county in March 1967 while still owing $75,000 on the property. This sparked a feud between the Marin County Grand Jury and the board of supervisors over whether any public funds should be spent on the property.

Several other projects currently under way are aimed at preserving coastal marshes, wetlands and islands used by marine life and migratory birds off Maine, Georgia, Virginia and Florida and on San Francisco Bay.

'White Only' Club Rule Under Fire

BOSTON (UPI)—The Massachusetts Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission says it is considering revoking the liquor licenses of more than 100 private "whites only" clubs in the state.

The commission announced Monday hearings would be held next month on whether to deny the clubs permission to sell liquor because of alleged longstanding policies of racial discriminaton.

Commission Chairman Howard M. Miller said the hearings will open Feb. 8. Licenses to be considered, he said, include 106 held by the Loyal Order of Moose, the Fraternal Order of Eagles and the Benovelent and Protective Order of Elks.

San Francisco Gives An Inch

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A San Francisco policeman need be no taller than 5 feet 7 inches, the Civil Service Commission ruled Monday.

Previously an applicant for a police job had to be at least 5 feet 8 inches tall and just last week Fred Lau, a college student, complained because he was three-quarters of an inch too short.

Chinese organizations had said the previous regulation kept many of their race from the force. Of the 1,800 San Francisco policemen, only three are Oriental.

Hussein Resting

LONDON (UPI) —King Hussein of Jordan, undergoing a general medical checkup at London's Fitzroy Nuffield hospital, was reported to be "quite comfortable" today by a hospital spokesman.

Consumer Groups Object To Change In PUC Rules

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Four groups claiming to represent consumers have attacked proposed rule changes for hearings before the California Public Utilities Commission.

At a news conference held in the lobby of the State Building, the groups said they were taking "strenous exception" to the charges.

They would limit appearances before the PUC to lawyers, require the showing of a "substantial and special interest" prior to entering a case, and require defining of the issues involved at the beginning of each case.

Silvia Siegel, executive director of the Association of California Consumers, noted that the proposals were made by a three-attorney committee, all of whose members represented public utilities.

Michael McCloskey, executive director of the Sierra Club, said the PUC was moving in the opposite direction from the objectives for which it was formed.

Michael Peevey, of San Rafael research director for the California AFL-Cio, said the proposals were an attempt "to gag citizen participation in state government."

director of the California Farmer-Consumer Information Committee, said, "We think the recommendations should be rejected and the PUC should start again with a wider committee and not one representing just utilities."

J. P. Vukasin Jr., chairman of the PUC, said that since the recommendations were pending before the commission it would be inappropriate for him or other commissioners to comment.

State Boys' Ranch To Close In June

SACRAMENTO (UPI) The Reagan administration has disclosed that the California Youth Authority's Fricot Ranch School for Boys near San Andreas will be closed by next June.

The estimated 200 youths currently at Fricot School will be assigned to other state reform schools. Ranging in age between 8 and 14, they are among the youngest in state penal institutions.

The Youth Authority said in a prepared statement that Fricot School, in operation since 1944, will be shuttered because of a fall-off in population. It is located 11 miles east of San Andreas in Calaveras County.

"The decision to close the institution is the result of steadily declining Youth Authority populations, particularly among the younger age group of boys who normally are assigned to Fricot," the agency said.

In 1965, the population in CYA institutions reached a peak of 6,893 and fell to 6,372 last year. Final figures for 1970 are expected to show an additional drop, the CYA reported.

The decline in population was credited in large measure to the state's probation subsidy program in which counties receive extra state aid for keeping their felons at home.

The CYA reported there is "ample space" in other penal facilities for the Fricot youths and announced that the 106 staff members there would be offered jobs in other CYA ininstitutions or offices.

"There are expected to be no layoffs," reported Allen F. Breed, CYA director.

In the current fiscal year, the Fricot facility has a budget of $1.5 million. The new fiscal period starts in July and the agency said that the school will be closed by June.

High Price: Carnage On U. S. Roads

By the end of this year more than 56,000 Americans will have died in automobile accidents, 11,000 more than the total number of Americans who have died in Vietnam fighting since 1961.

Figured over the present decade, this highway slaughter will seriously erode the economic as well as human resources of the United States. In the 70s, Americans will roll up more than 10 trillion miles of highway travel, according to an estimate by John A. Volpe, secretary of transportation, in an article written for the January issue of Night Driving Safety News.

If the fatality rate stays at 50,000 per year, the U. S. will lose half a milliom people between now and 1980 — many of them young, creative and productive. Thirty million more will be crippled or disfigured. The economic cost, as nearly as can be estimated, will reach $150 billion, according to Volpe.

No nation long can support such an expenditure of human and financial resources. And the gloom of current statistics Volpe sees some reason for hope.

If the projected figures through November hold true at around 56,000 for the year, that would represent a drop of 1,100, or the lowest fatality rate per 100 million vehicle miles of travel of any year since records were kept.

Volpe noted several developments he thinks will help cut fatalites more in years to come.

In 1970, the Department of Transportation let contracts for development of experimental safety cars so designed that riders could walk away uninjured from crashes up to 50 miles per hour and rollovers at 70 mph.

It recently signed agreements with Germany and Japan to develop experimental safety vehicles with similar specifications to insure that foreign cars produced for export to the United States would meet all American standards.

Volpe feels that passive restraints such as air bags, self fastening belts or crash-deployed nets or blankets will save people in spite of themselves. Such restraints, he noted, must be installed in the front seat of all passenger cars pruduced after July 1, 1973. They must be capable of preventing death or serious injuries in crashes against a solid barrier at speeds up to 30 mph.

Another reason for Volpe's optimism is the Interstate Highway System. "We save one life for every five miles of Interstate highway built," said Volpe. "As the 42,500-mile system nears completion that figures out to a saving of 8,500 lives annually."

Highway deaths also are being cut down by isolating problem drinkers. "We can save about 23,000 lives a year by weeding out two per cent to five per cent of the driving population, the problem drinkers," Volpe said.

Large Market Seen In Foods For The Elderly

LONDON (UPI)—A medical nutritionist has called attention to what he calls the surprising fact that the food industry has created a large market in baby foods and yet has not realized there is an even bigger outlet for special foods for old people.

Dr. Arnold Bender of Queen Elizabeth College told the Royal Society of Health that although the elderly make up about 12 per cent of the population of Britain they use nearly 30 per cent of the expenditure on the National Health Services.

Defining anyone over 60 as elderly, Bender said 12 per cent were permanently or temporarily housebound and it was obviously of great economic and social importance to improve their health to the point where they could be independent.

In this connection he said proper nutrition was one of the important factors. Retirement or death of a lifelong partner or both often produced an apathy toward shopping, preparing food or even eating.

Some of the symptoms of which the elderly complained such as headache, insomnia, irritability, loss of appetite and headache could be traced to poor diet. He mentioned cases where old people were found to be living on tea and biscuits and suffering from deficiency conditions as a result.

Bender suggested that the time had come to make food especially for the elderly, containing a high percentage of nutrients in proportion to bulk so that even small quantities would help maintain bodily strength. He said they could be supplied as welfare foods or through ordinary shops or both.

The number of customers for these foods outnumber baby customers seven to one, he said. And the elderly eat more than babies.

Land Conservation Group's Secret Weapon — Ready Cash

By DUSTON HARVEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Like the hero in A Victorian melodrama, the man from Nature Conservancy arrived just in time to stop the foreclosure of the elderly artist's studio home.

The fast action with a checkbook kept portrait painter Loren Holmwood in his Southern California beach house — and preserved 700 acres of lush timberland overlooking Lake Tahoe for the federal government.

Huey D. Johnson, who wrote the $25,000 check, describes the complicated transaction as an unusual example of the Nature Conservancy's purpose —land conservation —and its chief weapon —ready cash.

Johnson is western regional director of the privately supported conservation organization which devotes its entire resources to preserving lands of outstanding scenic or ecological value.

In the past two decades, it has saved nearly 200,000 acres in 515 separate areas of 42 states.

Among its more spectacular efforts were addition of 10,000 acres of beach and tropical forest to Haleakala National Park in Hawaii, acquisition of 10,700-acre Wassaw Island off the Georgia coast for a federal wildlife sanctuary, and creation of a 32,920-acre state wildlife and recreation area at Bear Tooth Ranch in Montana.

The Conservancy's hallmarks are a quiet, businesslike approach to land acquisition and a $1.1 million revolving fund which allows it to provide cash in a hurry.

The organization, which has 21,500 dues-paying members and 45 employes at offices in Washington, Minneapolis and San Francisco, also has a $1 million endowment fund and a $6 million line of credit from the Ford Foundation. Both are used to guarantee bank loans for land purchases.

"These don't total too much," Johnson said during an interview. "But our freedom to move quickly often allows us to put down a little money and hold land on option; sometimes $100 or $500 will tie up land worth $1 million.

"We use the same tools as speculators," he added. "I hope we've proven the importance of management and professionalism in conservation. Emotion isn't enough when you're dealing with tough environmental problems. Too often conservationists just have no muscle."

The regional official said the non-profit Conservancy had one advantage over land developers —it can offer tax advantages on donations.

Half of the 500 parcels preserved by the organization have been gifts, ranging from Anne Morrow Lindbergh's Big Garden Island off the Maine coast to a $6 million redwood forest in Northern California donated by Georgia-Pacific Corp.

"We'll work in cahoots with anybody —from the Sierra Club to land developers," Johnson said.

The Conservancy works "in cahoots" regularly with federal, state and local governments. It puts down enough money to hold property —often up to 18 months —until the slow moving public agencies can obtain funds to buy the land.

On other projects, it loans money from the revolving fund to local conservation groups, which then stage fund-raising drives to repay the conservancy. They have up to three years.

Johnson said the group currently is trying to raise about $5 million from foundations and benefactors to complete "some great buys we got because of the recession." These included Lignumvitae Key off Florida, a second phase of the Hawaiian park project, and a 15,028-acre purchase and lease at Aravaipa Canyon in Arizona.

Johnson said the group currently is trying to raise about $5 million from foundations and benefactors to complete "some great buys we got because of the recession." These included Lignumvitae Key off Florida, a second phase of the Hawaiian park project and a 15,028-acre purchase and lease at Aravaipa Canyon in Arizona.

In Marin and Southern Sonoma County, the Nature Conservancy has been active in such projects as acquiring a 300-acre wildfowl preserve on Lower Tubbs Island east of Black Point. The $300,000 price tag was met by fund drives among school children, a $200,000 gift from a Reno foundation and private donations.

In February, private owners donated 37.4 acres of Richardson Bay and San Rafael Bay tidelands to the conservation group. In addition to buying up key nature areas to preserve them, the Conservancy also has jumped into the courts at times. In 1967, it filed suit to halt logging on Bolinas Ridge.

It purchased Kent Island in Bolinas Lagoon and turned it over to the county in March 1967 while still owing $75,000 on the property. This sparked a feud between the Marin County Grand Jury and the board of supervisors over whether any public funds should be spent on the property.

Several other projects currently under way are aimed at preserving coastal marshes, wetlands and islands used by marine life and migratory birds off Maine, Georgia, Virginia and Florida and on San Francisco Bay.

'White Only' Club Rule Under Fire

BOSTON (UPI)—The Massachusetts Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission says it is considering revoking the liquor licenses of more than 100 private "whites only" clubs in the state.

The commission announced Monday hearings would be held next month on whether to deny the clubs permission to sell liquor because of alleged longstanding policies of racial discriminaton.

Commission Chairman Howard M. Miller said the hearings will open Feb. 8. Licenses to be considered, he said, include 106 held by the Loyal Order of Moose, the Fraternal Order of Eagles and the Benovelent and Protective Order of Elks.

San Francisco Gives An Inch

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A San Francisco policeman need be no taller than 5 feet 7 inches, the Civil Service Commission ruled Monday.

Previously an applicant for a police job had to be at least 5 feet 8 inches tall and just last week Fred Lau, a college student, complained because he was three-quarters of an inch too short.

Chinese organizations had said the previous regulation kept many of their race from the force. Of the 1,800 San Francisco policemen, only three are Oriental.

Hussein Resting

LONDON (UPI) —King Hussein of Jordan, undergoing a general medical checkup at London's Fitzroy Nuffield hospital, was reported to be "quite comfortable" today by a hospital spokesman.

Consumer Groups Object To Change In PUC Rules

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Four groups claiming to represent consumers have attacked proposed rule changes for hearings before the California Public Utilities Commission.

At a news conference held in the lobby of the State Building, the groups said they were taking "strenous exception" to the charges.

They would limit appearances before the PUC to lawyers, require the showing of a "substantial and special interest" prior to entering a case, and require defining of the issues involved at the beginning of each case.

Silvia Siegel, executive director of the Association of California Consumers, noted that the proposals were made by a three-attorney committee, all of whose members represented public utilities.

Michael McCloskey, executive director of the Sierra Club, said the PUC was moving in the opposite direction from the objectives for which it was formed.

Michael Peevey, of San Rafael research firector for the California AFL-Cio, said the proposals were an attempt "to gag citizen participation in state government."

director of the California Farmer-Consumer Information Committee, said, "We think the recommendations should be rejected and the PUC should start again with a wider committee and not one representing just utilities."

J. P. Vukasin Jr., chairman of the PUC, said that since the recommendations were pending before the commission it would be inappropriate for him or other commissioners to comment.

State Boys' Ranch To Close In June

SACRAMENTO (UPI) The Reagan administration has disclosed that the California Youth Authority's Fricot Ranch School for Boys near San Andreas will be closed by next June.

The estimated 200 youths currently at Fricot School will be assigned to other state reform schools. Ranging in age between 8 and 14, they are among the youngest in state penal institutions.

The Youth Authority said in a prepared statement that Fricot School, in operation since 1944, will be shuttered because of a fall-off in population. It is located 11 miles east of San Andreas in Calaveras County.

"The decision to close the institution is the result of steadily declining Youth Authority populations, particularly among the younger age group of boys who normally are assigned to Fricot," the agency said.

In 1965, the population in CYA institutions reached a peak of 6,893 and fell to 6,372 last year. Final figures for 1970 are expected to show an additional drop, the CYA reported.

The decline in population was credited in large measure to the state's probation subsidy program in which counties receive extra state aid for keeping their felons at home.

The CYA reported there is "ample space" in other penal facilities for the Fricot youths and announced that the 106 staff members there would be offered jobs in other CYA ininstitutions or offices.

"There are expected to be no layoffs," reported Allen F. Breed, CYA director.

In the current fiscal year, the Fricot facility has a budget of $1.5 million. The new fiscal period starts in July and the agency said that the school will be closed by June.

High Price: Carnage On U. S. Roads

By the end of this year more than 56,000 Americans will have died in automobile accidents, 11,000 more than the total number of Americans who have died in Vietnam fighting since 1961.

Figured over the present decade, this highway slaughter will seriously erode the economic as well as human resources of the United States. In the 70s, Americans will roll up more than 10 trillion miles of highway travel, according to an estimate by John A. Volpe, secretary of transportation, in an article written for the January issue of Night Driving Safety News.

If the fatality rate stays at 50,000 per year, the U. S. will lose half a milliom people between now and 1980 — many of them young, creative and productive. Thirty million more will be crippled or disfigured. The economic cost, as nearly as can be estimated, will reach $150 billion, according to Volpe.

No nation long can support such an expenditure of human and financial resources. And the gloom of current statistics Volpe sees some reason for hope.

If the projected figures through November hold true at around 56,000 for the year, that would represent a drop of 1,100, or the lowest fatality rate per 100 million vehicle miles of travel of any year since records were kept.

Volpe noted several developments he thinks will help cut fatalites more in years to come.

In 1970, the Department of Transportation let contracts for development of experimental safety cars so designed that riders could walk away uninjured from crashes up to 50 miles per hour and rollovers at 70 mph.

It recently signed agreements with Germany and Japan to develop experimental safety vehicles with similar specifications to insure that foreign cars produced for export to the United States would meet all American standards.

Volpe feels that passive restraints such as air bags, self fastening belts or crash-deployed nets or blankets will save people in spite of themselves. Such restraints, he noted, must be installed in the front seat of all passenger cars pruduced after July 1, 1973. They must be capable of preventing death or serious injuries in crashes against a solid barrier at speeds up to 30 mph.

Another reason for Volpe's optimism is the Interstate Highway System. "We save one life for every five miles of Interstate highway built," said Volpe. "As the 42,500-mile system nears completion that figures out to a saving of 8,500 lives annually."

Highway deaths also are being cut down by isolating problem drinkers. "We can save about 23,000 lives a year by weeding out two per cent to five per cent of the driving population, the problem drinkers," Volpe said.

Large Market Seen In Foods For The Elderly

LONDON (UPI)—A medical nutritionist has called attention to what he calls the surprising fact that the food industry has created a large market in baby foods and yet has not realized there is an even bigger outlet for special foods for old people.

Dr. Arnold Bender of Queen Elizabeth College told the Royal Society of Health that although the elderly make up about 12 per cent of the population of Britain they use nearly 30 per cent of the expenditure on the National Health Services.

Defining anyone over 60 as elderly, Bender said 12 per cent were permanently or temporarily housebound and it was obviously of great economic and social importance to improve their health to the point where they could be independent.

In this connection he said proper nutrition was one of the important factors. Retirement or death of a lifelong partner or both often produced an apathy toward shopping, preparing food or even eating.

Some of the symptoms of which the elderly complained such as headache, insomnia, irritability, loss of appetite and headache could be traced to poor diet. He mentioned cases where old people were found to be living on tea and biscuits and suffering from deficiency conditions as a result.

Bender suggested that the time had come to make food especially for the elderly, containing a high percentage of nutrients in proportion to bulk so that even small quantities would help maintain bodily strength. He said they could be supplied as welfare foods or through ordinary shops or both.

The number of customers for these foods outnumber baby customers seven to one, he said. And the elderly eat more than babies.

Land Conservation Group's Secret Weapon — Ready Cash

By DUSTON HARVEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Like the hero in A Victorian melodrama, the man from Nature Conservancy arrived just in time to stop the foreclosure of the elderly artist's studio home.

The fast action with a checkbook kept portrait painter Loren Holmwood in his Southern California beach house — and preserved 700 acres of lush timberland overlooking Lake Tahoe for the federal government.

Huey D. Johnson, who wrote the $25,000 check, describes the complicated transaction as an unusual example of the Nature Conservancy's purpose —land conservation —and its chief weapon —ready cash.

Johnson is western regional director of the privately supported conservation organization which devotes its entire resources to preserving lands of outstanding scenic or ecological value.

In the past two decades, it has saved nearly 200,000 acres in 515 separate areas of 42 states.

Among its more spectacular efforts were addition of 10,000 acres of beach and tropical forest to Haleakala National Park in Hawaii, acquisition of 10,700-acre Wassaw Island off the Georgia coast for a federal wildlife sanctuary, and creation of a 32,920-acre state wildlife and recreation area at Bear Tooth Ranch in Montana.

The Conservancy's hallmarks are a quiet, businesslike approach to land acquisition and a $1.1 million revolving fund which allows it to provide cash in a hurry.

The organization, which has 21,500 dues-paying members and 45 employes at offices in Washington, Minneapolis and San Francisco, also has a $1 million endowment fund and a $6 million line of credit from the Ford Foundation. Both are used to guarantee bank loans for land purchases.

"These don't total too much," Johnson said during an interview. "But our freedom to move quickly often allows us to put down a little money and hold land on option; sometimes $100 or $500 will tie up land worth $1 million.

"We use the same tools as speculators," he added. "I hope we've proven the importance of management and professionalism in conservation. Emotion isn't enough when you're dealing with tough environmental problems. Too often conservationists just have no muscle."

The regional official said the non-profit Conservancy had one advantage over land developers —it can offer tax advantages on donations.

Half of the 500 parcels preserved by the organization have been gifts, ranging from Anne Morrow Lindbergh's Big Garden Island off the Maine coast to a $6 million redwood forest in Northern California donated by Georgia-Pacific Corp.

"We'll work in cahoots with anybody —from the Sierra Club to land developers," Johnson said.

The Conservancy works "in cahoots" regularly with federal, state and local governments. It puts down enough money to hold property —often up to 18 months —until the slow moving public agencies can obtain funds to buy the land.

On other projects, it loans money from the revolving fund to local conservation groups, which then stage fund-raising drives to repay the conservancy. They have up to three years.

Johnson said the group currently is trying to raise about $5 million from foundations and benefactors to complete "some great buys we got because of the recession." These included Lignumvitae Key off Florida, a second phase of the Hawaiian park project, and a 15,028-acre purchase and lease at Aravaipa Canyon in Arizona.

Johnson said the group currently is trying to raise about $5 million from foundations and benefactors to complete "some great buys we got because of the recession." These included Lignumvitae Key off Florida, a second phase of the Hawaiian park project and a 15,028-acre purchase and lease at Aravaipa Canyon in Arizona.

In Marin and Southern Sonoma County, the Nature Conservancy has been active in such projects as acquiring a 300-acre wildfowl preserve on Lower Tubbs Island east of Black Point. The $300,000 price tag was met by fund drives among school children, a $200,000 gift from a Reno foundation and private donations.

In February, private owners donated 37.4 acres of Richardson Bay and San Rafael Bay tidelands to the conservation group. In addition to buying up key nature areas to preserve them, the Conservancy also has jumped into the courts at times. In 1967, it filed suit to halt logging on Bolinas Ridge.

It purchased Kent Island in Bolinas Lagoon and turned it over to the county in March 1967 while still owing $75,000 on the property. This sparked a feud between the Marin County Grand Jury and the board of supervisors over whether any public funds should be spent on the property.

Several other projects currently under way are aimed at preserving coastal marshes, wetlands and islands used by marine life and migratory birds off Maine, Georgia, Virginia and Florida and on San Francisco Bay.

'White Only' Club Rule Under Fire

BOSTON (UPI)—The Massachusetts Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission says it is considering revoking the liquor licenses of more than 100 private "whites only" clubs in the state.

The commission announced Monday hearings would be held next month on whether to deny the clubs permission to sell liquor because of alleged longstanding policies of racial discriminaton.

Commission Chairman Howard M. Miller said the hearings will open Feb. 8. Licenses to be considered, he said, include 106 held by the Loyal Order of Moose, the Fraternal Order of Eagles and the Benovelent and Protective Order of Elks.

San Francisco Gives An Inch

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A San Francisco policeman need be no taller than 5 feet 7 inches, the Civil Service Commission ruled Monday.

Previously an applicant for a police job had to be at least 5 feet 8 inches tall and just last week Fred Lau, a college student, complained because he was three-quarters of an inch too short.

Chinese organizations had said the previous regulation kept many of their race from the force. Of the 1,800 San Francisco policemen, only three are Oriental.

Hussein Resting

LONDON (UPI) —King Hussein of Jordan, undergoing a general medical checkup at London's Fitzroy Nuffield hospital, was reported to be "quite comfortable" today by a hospital spokesman.

Gossett's Understudy Talks Of 49er Fever

"I have 49er fever. It was the greatest crowd ever to greet a 49er team at the airport. I'm sure it will be twice as big when we come home from the Super Bowl."

Thus spake a football player about whom you've heard little. His name is Braden Beck, a member of the San Francisco 49er taxi squad. His job is place kicker and he would be activated in the event regular kicker Bruce Gossett developed a hangnail or some other disabling injury to his right metatarsal.

Beck spoke to about 60 members of the Marin 49er Goal Rushers Club at its weekly luncheon yesterday at the Holiday Inn, Terra Linda.

The former Stanford place kicker, a left footer, by the way, had nothing but praise for his teammates and coaches.

John Brodie? "He's one of the most confident persons I've ever met. He puts out 100 per cent and people expect him to put out 200 per cent."

The 17-14 victory over the Vikings Sunday in Bloomington? "The people back there were awfully cocky."

Which team would you rather play, Detroit or Dallas, the latter coming to Kezar Stadium Sunday off its victory over Detroit? "We'll be happy playing anyone, but I guess we'd rather play Dallas because Nolan knows their system."

Nolan was an assistant coach at Dallas before he came to San Francisco in 1968 to replace the fired Jack Christiansen.

Beck, a personable young man who kicked a 52-yard field goal against Washington State for Stanford in 1964, studies dentistry in the off-season. "Being a potential dentist," he grinned, "I like my position." Place kickers seldom get kicked in the choppers.

"Also," he added, "I have a lot of potential customers on the 49ers who will be able to afford me."

Beck had special praise for special team coach Doug Scovill, who came to the 49ers this year and did a magnificent job of improving the special teams.

"He (Scovill) spends 30 hours between Sunday afternoon and Tuesday analyzing game films and we spend an awful lot of time on our kicking game," said the blond Stanford grad. "He has made a difference. He has done a heckuva job. He's a rah-rah type who takes pride in his work."

Beck, by the way, would cherish a victory over Dallas next Sunday at Kezar. It was those same Cowboys who cut him from their squad before the 49ers signed him.

Asked about Sunday's showdown with Dallas, particularly their quarterback Craig Morton, a Cal alumnus, Beck said: "Personally I think he has one of the great arms in football, but he lacks consistency."

Beck revealed that the team celebrated on champagne after its arrival in San Francisco. "Yes," he admitted, "I had a few. We all felt we were going to win the game so we celebrated good."

He added: "I felt particularly good for guys like Brodie, (Len) Rhode, (Roland) Lakes and (Charley) Krueger because they have been with this organization so long and their frustration has been ended. I'm very fortunate to be a part of the club. I'm with a winner. I'm their fan and I'm fortunate because I can be a fan in the dressing room."

Beck also revealed that Roosevelt Taylor, the safety acquired by trade from Chicago who played on a championship team in the Windy City several years ago, told him: "This team has the best spirit that I have ever seen."

Amen.

49ers' Line 'Gets Better And Better

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Defensive line coach Paul Wiggin of the San Francisco Forty Niners has some bad news for the Dallas Cowboys.

Referring to the Forty Niners defensive line, Wiggin said: "It's a good group now and will get better and better." His choice of two "betters" was appropriate.

For if San Francisco defenders get better against Dallas in their NFC championship game Sunday at Kezar Stadium, a victory might result. And that would send the Prospectors into their first Super Bowl Jan. 17 at Miami where the defensive line could get better once again against either Baltimore or Oakland.

Rookie defensive end Cedrick Hardman, a 250-pounder from North Texas State, has suggested naming the defensive line the "Gold Rushers."

"We should be the Gold Rushers . . . we're rushing after all the money," he said, referring to the pot of monetary gold (about $25,000) that goes to each player on the Super Bowl winner.

Wiggin noted that youngsters such as Hardman, Earl Edwards and Bill Belk are constantly improving under the guidance of such veterans as Charlie Kreuger and Roland Lakes in the defensive line.

Head coach Dick Nolan and Wiggin have installed a "front eight" on the defensive line this season. Hardman, Edwards, Belk, Kreuger and Lakes join Tommy Hart, Stan Hindman and Sam Silas on a constant shuttle, depending on whether it is a goalline situation or whether a definite pass or run is expected.

Nevada oddsmakers have installed the Forty Niners as 3-1-2 to 4-point favorites. Dallas and San Francisco tied 24-24 the last time they met during the 1969 season.

The game pits Nolan against his former boss, head coach Tom Landry of the Cowboys.

"Tom taught me everything I know," said Nolan. "I have a lot of respect for him but we welcome this opportunity to beat him."

Safety Mel Phillips came out of the win over Minnesota with a sore wrist and Hardman scratched an eyeball but both said they would play against the Cowboys.

Warrior Clyde Lee Is A Perfect Sub

Leads Way As S.F. Stops Skid

ATLANTA (UPI) — Clyde Lee played the part of the perfect substitute Monday night and the San Francisco Warriors snapped a three-game losing streak.

Lee, a 6-10 frontliner from Vanderbilt, pumped in all of his 13 points to spark the gold-shirted Warriors to a 42-21 second period outburst against the Atlanta Hawks. That helped San Francisco build a 21-point cushion at intermission and the Warriors hung on for a 115-104 triumph.

Behind the shooting of rookies Bob Christian and Herb White, Atlanta outscored the Warriors 29-25 in the third quarter and 31-25 in the final stanza.

Rookie Pete Maravich joined the Hawk popping in the fourth quarter to cut the Warrior lead to nine points. But fine outside shooting by Jeff Mullins and Nate Thurmond kept the Warriors comfortably ahead.

Thurmond tallied 30 points to outduel Maravich by one point. Mullins and Lou Hudson of the Hawks each canned 24.

Coaches Disagree On Colts' System

OAKLAND (UPI) —Baltimore coach Don McCafferty says he's kept the same system Don Shula used with the Colts, but Oakland coach John Madden doesn't believe him.

"I didn't see any reason to change things just because I was the head man," said McCafferty Monday. He took over at Baltimore when Shula left the Colts earlier this year to go to the Miami Dolphins.

Madden, however, figures McCafferty installed significant "wrinkles" in the Colts offense and defense as the season progressed.

"It's much more significant what a team does in its last four or five games," said Madden. "That game we played back in August seems like a year ago. We've both played 20 games since then."

One week after the players strike was settled last summer, Baltimore defeated the Raiders 33-21 in an exhibition game.

McCafferty watched the Raiders beat Miami 21-14 Sunday in the AFC semifinal playoff but Madden was unable to see the Colts oust Cincinnati from the playoffs, 17-0, on Saturday because the Raiders were working out at the time.

But McCafferty spoke for both coaches when he said: "It's hard to pick up pass patterns or defensive alignments on television. About all you can do is get some basic tendencies."

Madden and McRafferty said neither of them has yet received game films from the other. Both are in the mail.

Nevada oddsmakers disagree on the point spread. Harrah's Tahoe Racebook lists the Raiders as 1-1-2 point choices while Jimmy (The Greek) Snyder of Las Vegas has the Colts favored by one point.

Madden figures the Colts will provide tougher opposition than the Dolphins because "Baltimore has better personnel and a lot of veterans."

While the Dolphins have one outstanding receiver in Paul Warfield, Madden says the Colts have three in Roy Jefferson, Eddie Hinton and John Mackey. Mackey may be slowed by an injury.

ROSE BOWL TALK

A Look At Mischievous Side of Woody Hayes

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Woody Hayes, the stern disciplinarian who coached Ohio State to a 9-0 record and a Rose Bowl bid, has a mischievous side.

Hayes, who sometimes gets his back up when questioned by sports writers about his team, was all smiles Monday when he spoke at a Rose Bowl luncheon featuring him and his Stanford coaching foe, John Ralston.

Hayes poked a bit of fun at Ralston, whose team had an 8-3 record to win the Pacific-8 title.

"Stanford is an excellent team, well-rounded," Hayes said. Then with a sly smile in Ralston's direction, he added, "Even well-coached."

At another point, Hayes quipped:

At the luncheon, an annual meeting of Southern California sports writers, Hayes warily divulged under questioning a morsel of information about his preparations for the New Year's Day game.

He told a questioner:

"We never go into a game without adding something and it's usually significant."

When pressed for more information, he said, "What you'd like me to do is tell you exactly what we're putting in new for Stanford, wouldn't you?"

"We're honored to play against such a worthy opponent," Ralston declaimed. "In fact ... a team we felt all through the year was the No. 1 team in the United States, a great team in every respect, equally strong defensively and offensively."

Hayes, on the other hand, may have had tongue in cheek when he answered a question about how he rated Indian quarterback, Jim Plunkett.

"He won the Heisman Trophy," said Hayes. "There's no question about it—he's got to be great."

Plunkett and the other players were not present.

On Plunkett's behalf, Ralston accepted the Voit Memorial Trophy given to "the top football player on the Pacific Coast." Plunkett won it last year too.

The sports writers and others present were asked to predict the outcome of the Rose Bowl game and the majority favored the Buckeyes.

There were 114 ballots cast and 72 favored the Big Ten champions by an average of 13 points. The biggest margin predicted was 28 points.

Stanford drew 39 votes with an average point spread of five. The biggest margin predicted for Stanford was 14. Three voters predicted a tie.

Reed Leads In All-Star Balloting

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willis Reed, captain and center of the New York Knicks and winner of the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player Award last season, was the only unanimous choice to represent the East squad in the NBA's 21st annual All-Star game Jan. 2 in San Diego.

Reed was named by all 17 sportswriters and sportscasters from the league cities who participated in the balloting.

Joining Reed were forwards John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics and Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers and guards Walt Frazier of the Knicks and Earl Monroe of the Baltimore Bullets.

Gus Johnson and Wes Unseld of the Bullets were also chosen along with Jo Jo White of the Celtics.

Six more players will be selected for the team by the Eastern Conference coaches. At least one player from each of the eight teams in the conference must be chosen to the squad, according to league rules.

Redwood, Host Marin Catholic Win Openers

The Redwood Giants and the host Marin Catholic Wildcats both won first round games yesterday and will face each other tonight in the Marin Catholic Invitational basketball tournament for high school freshman teams.

Redwood outscored Riordan in the fourth quarter, 20-8, and won over the San Francisco school, 52-39, while Marin Catholic knocked off Justin of Napa, 47-35. In other games, Serra defeated Bishop O'Dowd, 43-40 and St. Patricks edged Bellarmine, 36-35.

High scorers for the first day of the three day event were Tom Cronin of Marin Catholic with 22 points, and Neil Hennessey and Darrel Elder of Redwood with 18 each.

In second round games today, O'Dowd meets Bellarmine at 1 p.m., Serra goes against St. Patrick's at 3, Riordan faces Justin at 5 and Redwood and Marin Catholic clash at 7.

Cellars Win Rec Grid Title

The Cellars, with a record of eight wins and a tie, won the 1970 San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department touch football league title. The team finished ahead of Upsticks and Cal's Steakhouse.

Marin Catholic Quint Falls With A Thud

The Marin Catholic High School Wildcats, flying high after four straight wins, came down to earth with a thud yesterday. The Kentfield team from the Marin County Athletic League lost to lightly regarded Mills, 55-49 in a non-league basketball game in Millbrae.

The Wildcats were bound to let down somewhat after defeating powerful Lowell of San Francisco last week, but, according to coach Dave Hennessy, they played one of their worst games of the year. "We didn't shoot, we didn't board, we didn't do anything."

Austin Sullivan and Bill Donellan had their usual fine games, scoring 19 and 18 points respectively. But nobody else helped out. Marin is now 8-4 for the season.

Five other MCAL teams see preseason action this week. In games today, Drake hosted Lincoln of San Francisco at 11 a.m., San Rafael plays De Anza in the Pinole Valley Holdiay Classic at 7:30 p.m., San Marin entertains Arcata at 8, and Redwood is at home against St. Ignatius at 8:15.

Tomorrow Tamalpais travels to Vallejo for an 8:15 p.m. game with Hogan; on Thursday Drake hosts Montgomery at 1 p.m.; and Saturday Marin Catholic goes to Santa Rosa for an 8:15 p.m. game against Piner, San Marin hosts John O'Connel at 8, and Tam entertains Petaluma at 8:15.

NFL Might Tighten TV Blackout Policy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The National Football League may tighten up its 75-mile television blackout policy in an attempt to assure sellout crowds at future playoff games.

Jim Kensil, pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle's No. 1 assistant, said Monday night that a "re-evaluation" may be necessary "to keep faith with the fans who come out, week after week, in all types of weather."

NFL officials were concerned because the crowd for the Colts' game with the Cincinnati Bengals in Baltimore last Saturday was 9,000 under capacity and there were 1,900 empty seats for the Minnesota Vikings' game with the San Francisco Forty-Niners in Bloomington, Minn., last Sunday. It snowed in Baltimore Friday night and Sunday's game in Bloomington was played in eight-degree weather.

"In an area like Minneapolis-St. Paul, subject to extreme weather conditions, it becomes difficult to sell tickets when the game is available on television within walking distance of the stadium," said Kensil. "We have to keep faith with the fans who come out, week after week, in all types of weather.

"We are going to take a hard look at our blackout patterns and, under such circumstances as existed for the game in Minneapolis-St. Paul last Sunday, we may not permit as much signal penetration as in the past."

Various motels in Minneapolis-St. Paul, including one about a quarter of a mile from the stadium, have shown Minnesota home games on TV. Kensil said that between 1,000 and 2,500 fans in Minneapolis-St. Paul, who had paid for tickets to the stadium, elected to see games on TV in motels within the 75-mile radius rather than endure extremely cold weather.

"We are aware of the problem," he said.

Limping Seals Vs. New York

The Seals are minus defenseman Dick Mattiussi, goalie Bob Sneddon and defenseman Harry Howell.

Sneddon suffered a knee injury Saturday when California was thumped 9-3 by Los Angeles, and Mattiussi is nursing an injured shoulder. Howell has been on the disabled list for a fortnight.

The Rangers, who have split even with the Seals so far, are riding high after 18 straight games without a loss.

49er Tickets Go On Sale

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Tickets went on sale Monday for the San Francisco 49ers' NFC championship game against Dallas at Kezar Stadium next Sunday.

The ticket sale was opened at the Cow Palace, with sales limited to holders of season tickets and purchasers of 1971 season tickets yesterday and today.

Remaining tickets, priced at $12 each, will be sold to the public beginning Wednesday.

OLD OR NEW?

Coaches Disagree On Colts' System

OAKLAND (UPI) —Baltimore coach Don McCafferty says he's kept the same system Don Shula used with the Colts, but Oakland coach John Madden doesn't believe him.

"I didn't see any reason to change things just because I was the head man," said McCafferty Monday. He took over at Baltimore when Shula left the Colts earlier this year to go to the Miami Dolphins.

Madden, however, figures McCafferty installed significant "wrinkles" in the Colts offense and defense as the season progressed.

"It's much more significant what a team does in its last four or five games," said Madden. "That game we played back in August seems like a year ago. We've both played 20 games since then."

One week after the players strike was settled last summer, Baltimore defeated the Raiders 33-21 in an exhibition game.

McCafferty watched the Raiders beat Miami 21-14 Sunday in the AFC semifinal playoff but Madden was unable to see the Colts oust Cincinnati from the playoffs, 17-0, on Saturday because the Raiders were working out at the time.

But McCafferty spoke for both coaches when he said: "It's hard to pick up pass patterns or defensive alignments on television. About all you can do is get some basic tendencies."

Madden and McRafferty said neither of them has yet received game films from the other. Both are in the mail.

Nevada oddsmakers disagree on the point spread. Harrah's Tahoe Racebook lists the Raiders as 1-1-2 point choices while Jimmy (The Greek) Snyder of Las Vegas has the Colts favored by one point.

Madden figures the Colts will provide tougher opposition than the Dolphins because "Baltimore has better personnel and a lot of veterans."

While the Dolphins have one outstanding receiver in Paul Warfield, Madden says the Colts have three in Roy Jefferson, Eddie Hinton and John Mackey. Mackey may be slowed by an injury.

ROSE BOWL TALK

A Look At Mischievous Side of Woody Hayes

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Woody Hayes, the stern disciplinarian who coached Ohio State to a 9-0 record and a Rose Bowl bid, has a mischievous side.

Hayes, who sometimes gets his back up when questioned by sports writers about his team, was all smiles Monday when he spoke at a Rose Bowl luncheon featuring him and his Stanford coaching foe, John Ralston.

Hayes poked a bit of fun at Ralston, whose team had an 8-3 record to win the Pacific-8 title.

"Stanford is an excellent team, well-rounded," Hayes said. Then with a sly smile in Ralston's direction, he added, "Even well-coached."

At another point, Hayes quipped:

At the luncheon, an annual meeting of Southern California sports writers, Hayes warily divulged under questioning a morsel of information about his preparations for the New Year's Day game.

He told a questioner:

"We never go into a game without adding something and it's usually significant."

When pressed for more information, he said, "What you'd like me to do is tell you exactly what we're putting in new for Stanford, wouldn't you?"

"We're honored to play against such a worthy opponent," Ralston declaimed. "In fact ... a team we felt all through the year was the No. 1 team in the United States, a great team in every respect, equally strong defensively and offensively."

Hayes, on the other hand, may have had tongue in cheek when he answered a question about how he rated Indian quarterback, Jim Plunkett.

"He won the Heisman Trophy," said Hayes. "There's no question about it—he's got to be great."

Plunkett and the other players were not present.

On Plunkett's behalf, Ralston accepted the Voit Memorial Trophy given to "the top football player on the Pacific Coast." Plunkett won it last year too.

The sports writers and others present were asked to predict the outcome of the Rose Bowl game and the majority favored the Buckeyes.

There were 114 ballots cast and 72 favored the Big Ten champions by an average of 13 points. The biggest margin predicted was 28 points.

Stanford drew 39 votes with an average point spread of five. The biggest margin predicted for Stanford was 14. Three voters predicted a tie.

Reed Leads In All-Star Balloting

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willis Reed, captain and center of the New York Knicks and winner of the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player Award last season, was the only unanimous choice to represent the East squad in the NBA's 21st annual All-Star game Jan. 2 in San Diego.

Reed was named by all 17 sportswriters and sportscasters from the league cities who participated in the balloting.

Joining Reed were forwards John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics and Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers and guards Walt Frazier of the Knicks and Earl Monroe of the Baltimore Bullets.

Gus Johnson and Wes Unseld of the Bullets were also chosen along with Jo Jo White of the Celtics.

Six more players will be selected for the team by the Eastern Conference coaches. At least one player from each of the eight teams in the conference must be chosen to the squad, according to league rules.

49er Tickets Go On Sale

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Tickets went on sale Monday for the San Francisco 49ers' NFC championship game against Dallas at Kezar Stadium next Sunday.

The ticket sale was opened at the Cow Palace, with sales limited to holders of season tickets and purchasers of 1971 season tickets yesterday and today.

Remaining tickets, priced at $12 each, will be sold to the public beginning Wednesday.

Redwood, Host Marin Catholic Win Openers

The Redwood Giants and the host Marin Catholic Wildcats both won first round games yesterday and will face each other tonight in the Marin Catholic Invitational basketball tournament for high school freshman teams.

Redwood outscored Riordan in the fourth quarter, 20-8, and won over the San Francisco school, 52-39, while Marin Catholic knocked off Justin of Napa, 47-35. In other games, Serra defeated Bishop O'Dowd, 43-40 and St. Patricks edged Bellarmine, 36-35.

High scorers for the first day of the three day event were Tom Cronin of Marin Catholic with 22 points, and Neil Hennessey and Darrel Elder of Redwood with 18 each.

In second round games today, O'Dowd meets Bellarmine at 1 p.m., Serra goes against St. Patrick's at 3, Riordan faces Justin at 5 and Redwood and Marin Catholic clash at 7.

Cellars Win Rec Grid Title

The Cellars, with a record of eight wins and a tie, won the 1970 San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department touch football league title. The team finished ahead of Upsticks and Cal's Steakhouse.

Marin Catholic Quint Falls With A Thud

The Marin Catholic High School Wildcats, flying high after four straight wins, came down to earth with a thud yesterday. The Kentfield team from the Marin County Athletic League lost to lightly regarded Mills, 55-49 in a non-league basketball game in Millbrae.

The Wildcats were bound to let down somewhat after defeating powerful Lowell of San Francisco last week, but, according to coach Dave Hennessy, they played one of their worst games of the year. "We didn't shoot, we didn't board, we didn't do anything."

Austin Sullivan and Bill Donellan had their usual fine games, scoring 19 and 18 points respectively. But nobody else helped out. Marin is now 8-4 for the season.

Five other MCAL teams see preseason action this week. In games today, Drake hosted Lincoln of San Francisco at 11 a.m., San Rafael plays De Anza in the Pinole Valley Holiday Classic at 7:30 p.m., San Marin entertains Arcata at 8, and Redwood is at home against St. Ignatius at 8:15.

Tomorrow Tamalpais travels to Vallejo for an 8:15 p.m. game with Hogan; on Thursday Drake hosts Montgomery at 1 p.m.; and Saturday Marin Catholic goes to Santa Rosa for an 8:15 p.m. game against Piner, San Marin hosts John O'Connel at 8, and Tam entertains Petaluma at 8:15.

Limping Seals Vs. New York

The Seals are minus defenseman Dick Mattiussi, goalie Bob Sneddon and defenseman Harry Howell.

Sneddon suffered a knee injury Saturday when California was thumped 9-3 by Los Angeles, and Mattiussi is nursing an injured shoulder. Howell has been on the disabled list for a fortnight.

The Rangers, who have split even with the Seals so far, are riding high after 18 straight games without a loss.

NFL Might Tighten TV Blackout Policy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The National Football League may tighten up its 75-mile television blackout policy in an attempt to assure sellout crowds at future playoff games.

Jim Kensil, pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle's No. 1 assistant, said Monday night that a "re-evaluation" may be necessary "to keep faith with the fans who come out, week after week, in all types of weather."

NFL officials were concerned because the crowd for the Colts' game with the Cincinnati Bengals in Baltimore last Saturday was 9,000 under capacity and there were 1,900 empty seats for the Minnesota Vikings' game with the San Francisco Forty-Niners in Bloomington, Minn., last Sunday. It snowed in Baltimore Friday night and Sunday's game in Bloomington was played in eight-degree weather.

"In an area like Minneapolis-St. Paul, subject to extreme weather conditions, it becomes difficult to sell tickets when the game is available on television within walking distance of the stadium," said Kensil. "We have to keep faith with the fans who come out, week after week, in all types of weather.

"We are going to take a hard look at our blackout patterns and, under such circumstances as existed for the game in Minneapolis-St. Paul last Sunday, we may not permit as much signal penetration as in the past."

Various motels in Minneapolis-St. Paul, including one about a quarter of a mile from the stadium, have shown Minnesota home games on TV. Kensil said that between 1,000 and 2,500 fans in Minneapolis-St. Paul, who had paid for tickets to the stadium, elected to see games on TV in motels within the 75-mile radius rather than endure extremely cold weather.

"We are aware of the problem," he said.

Gossett's Understudy Talks Of 49er Fever

"I have 49er fever. It was the greatest crowd ever to greet a 49er team at the airport. I'm sure it will be twice as big when we come home from the Super Bowl."

Thus spake a football player about whom you've heard little. His name is Braden Beck, a member of the San Francisco 49er taxi squad. His job is place kicker and he would be activated in the event regular kicker Bruce Gossett developed a hangnail or some other disabling injury to his right metatarsal.

Beck spoke to about 60 members of the Marin 49er Goal Rushers Club at its weekly luncheon yesterday at the Holiday Inn, Terra Linda.

The former Stanford place kicker, a left footer, by the way, had nothing but praise for his teammates and coaches.

John Brodie? "He's one of the most confident persons I've ever met. He puts out 100 per cent and people expect him to put out 200 per cent."

The 17-14 victory over the Vikings Sunday in Bloomington? "The people back there were awfully cocky."

Which team would you rather play, Detroit or Dallas, the latter coming to Kezar Stadium Sunday off its victory over Detroit? "We'll be happy playing anyone, but I guess we'd rather play Dallas because Nolan knows their system."

Nolan was an assistant coach at Dallas before he came to San Francisco in 1968 to replace the fired Jack Christiansen.

Beck, a personable young man who kicked a 52-yard field goal against Washington State for Stanford in 1964, studies dentistry in the off-season. "Being a potential dentist," he grinned, "I like my position." Place kickers seldom get kicked in the choppers.

"Also," he added, "I have a lot of potential customers on the 49ers who will be able to afford me."

Beck had special praise for special team coach Doug Scovill, who came to the 49ers this year and did a magnificent job of improving the special teams.

"He (Scovill) spends 30 hours between Sunday afternoon and Tuesday analyzing game films and we spend an awful lot of time on our kicking game," said the blond Stanford grad. "He has made a difference. He has done a heckuva job. He's a rah-rah type who takes pride in his work."

Beck, by the way, would cherish a victory over Dallas next Sunday at Kezar. It was those same Cowboys who cut him from their squad before the 49ers signed him.

Asked about Sunday's showdown with Dallas, particularly their quarterback Craig Morton, a Cal alumnus, Beck said: "Personally I think he has one of the great arms in football, but he lacks consistency."

Beck revealed that the team celebrated on champagne after its arrival in San Francisco. "Yes," he admitted, "I had a few. We all felt we were going to win the game so we celebrated good."

He added: "I felt particularly good for guys like Brodie, (Len) Rhode, (Roland) Lakes and (Charley) Krueger because they have been with this organization so long and their frustration has been ended. I'm very fortunate to be a part of the club. I'm with a winner. I'm their fan and I'm fortunate because I can be a fan in the dressing room."

Beck also revealed that Roosevelt Taylor, the safety acquired by trade from Chicago who played on a championship team in the Windy City several years ago, told him: "This team has the best spirit that I have ever seen."

Amen.

49ers' Line 'Gets Better And Better

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Defensive line coach Paul Wiggin of the San Francisco Forty Niners has some bad news for the Dallas Cowboys.

Referring to the Forty Niners defensive line, Wiggin said: "It's a good group now and will get better and better." His choice of two "betters" was appropriate.

For if San Francisco defenders get better against Dallas in their NFC championship game Sunday at Kezar Stadium, a victory might result. And that would send the Prospectors into their first Super Bowl Jan. 17 at Miami where the defensive line could get better once again against either Baltimore or Oakland.

Rookie defensive end Cedrick Hardman, a 250-pounder from North Texas State, has suggested naming the defensive line the "Gold Rushers."

"We should be the Gold Rushers . . . we're rushing after all the money," he said, referring to the pot of monetary gold (about $25,000) that goes to each player on the Super Bowl winner.

Wiggin noted that youngsters such as Hardman, Earl Edwards and Bill Belk are constantly improving under the guidance of such veterans as Charlie Kreuger and Roland Lakes in the defensive line.

Head coach Dick Nolan and Wiggin have installed a "front eight" on the defensive line this season. Hardman, Edwards, Belk, Kreuger and Lakes join Tommy Hart, Stan Hindman and Sam Silas on a constant shuttle, depending on whether it is a goalline situation or whether a definite pass or run is expected.

Nevada oddsmakers have installed the Forty Niners as 3-1-2 to 4-point favorites. Dallas and San Francisco tied 24-24 the last time they met during the 1969 season.

"Tom taught me everything I know," said Nolan. "I have a lot of respect for him but we welcome this opportunity to beat him."

Safety Mel Phillips came out of the win over Minnesota with a sore wrist and Hardman scratched an eyeball but both said they would play against the Cowboys.

A 'PITCH' FOR MARCH OF DIMES

Warrior Clyde Lee Is A Perfect Sub

Leads Way As S.F. Stops Skid

ATLANTA (UPI) — Clyde Lee played the part of the perfect substitute Monday night and the San Francisco Warriors snapped a three-game losing streak.

Lee, a 6-10 frontliner from Vanderbilt, pumped in all of his 13 points to spark the gold-shirted Warriors to a 42-21 second period outburst against the Atlanta Hawks. That helped San Francisco build a 21-point cushion at intermission and the Warriors hung on for a 115-104 triumph.

Behind the shooting of rookies Bob Christian and Herb White, Atlanta outscored the Warriors 29-25 in the third quarter and 31-25 in the final stanza.

Rookie Pete Maravich joined the Hawk popping in the fourth quarter to cut the Warrior lead to nine points. But fine outside shooting by Jeff Mullins and Nate Thurmond kept the Warriors comfortably ahead.

Thurmond tallied 30 points to outduel Maravich by one point. Mullins and Lou Hudson of the Hawks each canned 24.

NFL Might Tighten TV Blackout Policy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The National Football League may tighten up its 75-mile television blackout policy in an attempt to assure sellout crowds at future playoff games.

Jim Kensil, pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle's No. 1 assistant, said Monday night that a "re-evaluation" may be necessary "to keep faith with the fans who come out, week after week, in all types of weather."

Reed Leads In All-Star Balloting

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willis Reed, captain and center of the New York Knicks and winner of the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player Award last season, was the only unanimous choice to represent the East squad in the NBA's 21st annual All-Star game Jan. 2 in San Diego.

Reed was named by all 17 sportswriters and sportscasters from the league cities who participated in the balloting.

Joining Reed were forwards John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics and Billy Cunningham of the Philadelphia 76ers and guards Walt Frazier of the Knicks and Earl Monroe of the Baltimore Bullets.

Gus Johnson and Wes Unseld of the Bullets were also chosen along with Jo Jo White of the Celtics.

Six more players will be selected for the team by the Eastern Conference coaches. At least one player from each of the eight teams in the conference must be chosen to the squad, according to league rules.

49er Tickets Go On Sale

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Tickets went on sale Monday for the San Francisco 49ers' NFC championship game against Dallas at Kezar Stadium next Sunday.

The ticket sale was opened at the Cow Palace, with sales limited to holders of season tickets and purchasers of 1971 season tickets yesterday and today.

Remaining tickets, priced at $12 each, will be sold to the public beginning Wednesday.

Redwood, Host Marin Catholic Win Openers

The Redwood Giants and the host Marin Catholic Wildcats both won first round games yesterday and will face each other tonight in the Marin Catholic Invitational basketball tournament for high school freshman teams.

Redwood outscored Riordan in the fourth quarter, 20-8, and won over the San Francisco school, 52-39, while Marin Catholic knocked off Justin of Napa, 47-35. In other games, Serra defeated Bishop O'Dowd, 43-40 and St. Patricks edged Bellarmine, 36-35.

High scorers for the first day of the three day event were Tom Cronin of Marin Catholic with 22 points, and Neil Hennessey and Darrel Elder of Redwood with 18 each.

In second round games today, O'Dowd meets Bellarmine at 1 p.m., Serra goes against St. Patrick's at 3, Riordan faces Justin at 5 and Redwood and Marin Catholic clash at 7.

Cellars Win Rec Grid Title

The Cellars, with a record of eight wins and a tie, won the 1970 San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department touch football league title. The team finished ahead of Upsticks and Cal's Steakhouse.

Christmas Presents That Wiggle, Crawl

By AL GIDDINGS

Cold, wind, and rain! What a weekend! But everybody didn't stay home. I was having Christmas dinner about 6 p.m. when I heard a knock on the door. There stood a fellow —no, not Santa Claus — with a bag of live ghost shrimp in his hand. The young fellow said he reads the column, so knowing I like ghost shrimp (for bait) decided to dig me 50 for Christmas. I hope the rest of you hardy diggers take note!

Then another young fellow came by to learn the art of tying a wire leader to a 5/0 hook to be used for sturgeon. He was going digging, so some way or another, he was convinced that he should also bring some shrimp by too. Who says there is no Santa Clause?

AND SPEAKING of Christmas, my wife Mary gave me a new Leopold 2-1/2 to 7 power scope. After 24 years, I guess I should replace the old 2-1/2 power Lyman Alaskan All Weather scope that has been so good. And another lady came by with some real Mexican Tamales — "Just to warm you up if you get cold these days", she said.

A few other people came by with warmer-uppers too but that's another story. Anyway it was a fine Christmas! Oh, I got Mary a fitting gift. She hasn't been keeping up in hiking, etc. being somewhat anchored at the post office where she works. So I thought a bicycle would keep her in shape. Yesterday, she bought some winter undies, gloves, and a knit hat just to go with the bike. She'll never get rugged that way!

ON MY ROUNDS, I checked the anglers at White House Pool. There are about 10 San Rafael anglers who are there wind, rain or snow. They catch a fish now and then, but things have been slow. I saw Milton Hain of San Rafael; he hasn't caught a fish this year. He's a top angler holding the California record for silver salmon with a 22-pounder he caught at Papermill, so it must be tough.

One angler, a stranger from Vallejo came over, used fresh roe and took a limit of steelheads weighing; seven, six and three pounds. He fished the willows above the bridge.

I STOPPED at Al's Mobil Station at Santa Venetia to wish Joe Mello a Merry Christmas. He said it was a slow week but gave me this rundown. He and his wife, Molly, were out once this week taking a 20 and a six-pounder. Ernie Eddings and a small party took three sturgeon out by the pumphouse. Now, if you know Ernie, he has some secret for keeping warm. Give him a call at Buck's Landing for the fishing dope, and be sure and ask him about the type heater he uses!

The Papermill Creek salmon run has been a small one, but I saw seven spawners in a block area, so let's hope that's a sign that enough fish got up to spawn.

EVERYONE HAS generally learned over the past years the value of these spawning fish. They're not edible, being almost dead from fungus and the rigors of reaching the spawning beds. The other day, big as life, at the Lagunitas Inkwells, a young fellow was attempting to spear a fish. I walked down, but that man, at the risk of his neck, ran across the water district pipes almost 40 feet over the rocks.

Perfection Is Name For Texas

Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian has been the one doing the looking lately, and is currently expounding on perfection as presented by the Wishbone-T offense he will face Friday in the 35th Cotton Bowl game.

First of all he finds no reason to be coy when asked his impressions of the University of Texas offense —the nation's No. 1 point producer in 1970.

"They have won 30 games in a row," he says. "That speaks for itself."

But Parseghian is a bit of a philosopher in his middle age, and philosophers don't stop short at expressing themselves in a dozen words.

Parseghian looks upon the Wishbone-T as created and refined by Darrell Royal and his Texas coaching staff as a sort of ultimate weapon, which with flawless execution is almost impossible to stop. The only way to beat Texas, he figures, is with a high gear offense that can score a lot of points itself.

"You have to face that reality when you play Texas," Parseghian said. "We faced it last year in preparing for them, and we have faced it in preparation for this game.

"Teams have tried a variety of defenses against Texas, but nobody has stopped the wishbone. They have gained an average of more than 300 yards on the ground, they have scored more points than any other team in the country this year."

And the Wishbone-T Notre Dame will face Friday will not be the same one it faced a year ago.

"Texas has been changing in their blocking patterns that we, as coaches, see. They run a little draw play now and then that they did not do last year, and they have a little off-tackle action.

"When we change our offense we use different formations and put in a whole lot of new plays. When Texas changes its offense they just change a blocking pattern."

Tars Open Loop Play On Jan. 6

In yesterday's Independent-Journal it was incorrectly reported that the College of Marin Tars open their Camino Norte Conference basketball season next Tuesday night at Aptos against Cabrillo Junior College.

Actually, the Tars play Cabrillo Saturday night in a non-league game, and open their league campaign the following Wednesday night, Jan. 6, at 8 O'clock against Skyline College in San Bruno.

Tough Teams In Marin Prep League

By DAVID EINSTEIN

The preseason is nearly at a close for Marin County Athletic League basketball teams, and some concrete evaluations can be made now, before the start of the regular league season Jan. 8.

There is no doubt, in the wake of tournament wins by Tamalpais, Redwood and Marin Catholic, that the MCAL is as tough this year as any league in the Bay area. Testimony toward that comes from the coaches poll of the top teams, which last week rated Tam seventh and Redwood 17th.

Tam, now as before the season started, is the favorite to win the MCAL title. The Indians of Mill Valley have everything-height, speed and a couple of superstars. In six-foot-three center Will Garner they have one of the top players in Northern California. College of Marin coach John Panagakis has said Garner, a junior transfer from Texas, could play for his team right now.

Then there is John Earl Huff, the Indians' playmaking guard who led them to the championship at the Redwood Empire torunament in Healdsburg. He can shoot from outside, drive, and, best of all, has the knack for making the big play.

Yet for all their talent, the Tam Indians can no longer be considered a shoe-in for the MCAL crown. At least three teams have a good shot at knocking them off, and one, Redwood, is a definite threat to win it all.

The Giants started slowly, losing four of their first six games. But one of their victories came against then No. 1 rated Berkeley, and last week the Larskpur team reeled off three straight wins to capture the Yuba City tournament.

Among the Giants' stars so far, the brightest by far has been 6-foot-6 forward Scott Trobbe, the team's sixth man last year. He has been scoring at a torrid pace, and was named to the all-tourney teams both at the McClane Invitational in Fresno and in Yuba. His 83 points in three games at Fresno fell one shy of the tournament record.

Center Steve McGee, the only returning starter on the club, has yet to reach his stride, but he was good enough in Yuba to make the all-tourney squad with Trobbe. McGee, at 6-foot-6, Trobbe, and 6-foot-5 forward Dave Tikker give the Giants the tallest front line in the MCAL, and one of the best.

The other tournament winner, Marin Catholic, has been a real pleasant surprise. The Wildcats, who finished last in the MCAL in 1970, have proven, by winning the Rose City Tournament and then beating Lowell of San Francisco, that they can play with almost any team in the area.

But more important, and most depressing for other coaches, is the fact that four of the Wildcats' five starters are juniors! Only Bill Donellan, the team's leading scorer, will be graduated this year. The others are Austin Sullivan, Tim Stone, Mike Hurley and Steve Vanni. Coach Dave Hennessy went with these players as sophomores last year, and now he's beginning to reap the rewards.

Another team that conceivably could win the crown is Terra Linda. The Trojans, who finished third in the Drake tourney, do not possess outstanding height, but they do have a real fine shooter in Joe Casteel, and what might be the league's most tenacious defense.

Larry Kerr, Bill Berry and Gordon Walker are quick, experienced defenders, who can force the best team into turnovers. When Casteel is hot, and the defense is working, Terra Linda is tough.

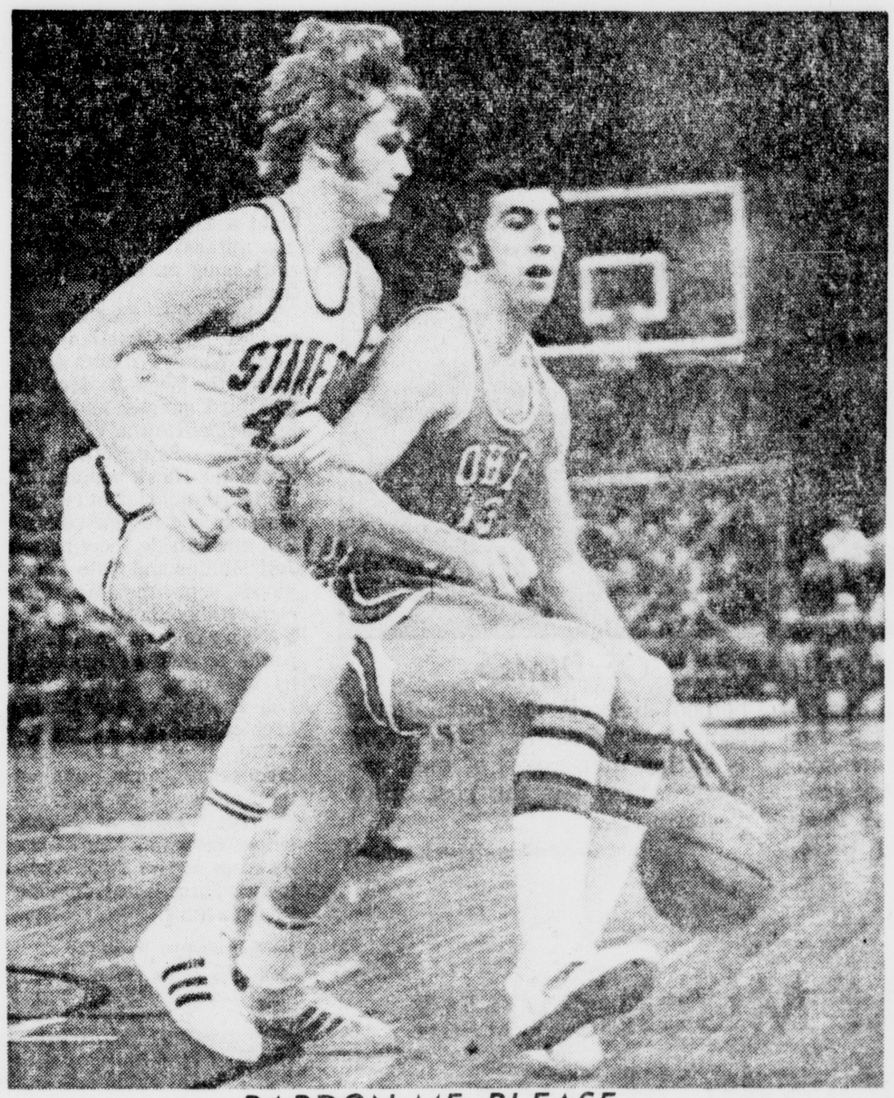
Two MCAL teams, San Marin and Novato, have been mysterious so far. Each has had brilliant games-San Marin scored 95 points against an outfit from Santa Cruz, and Novato beat Drake tourney winner Petaluma- and each has an all-leaguer, but both have suffered from terrible inconsistency.

San Marin's outstanding center, 6-foot-8 Dana LaFerriere, will need help, but it's hard to say where it can come from. One possiibility is sophomore Hoza Wright, who has shown some excellent moves; but he needs experience.

Novato has gotten outstanding performances from hot shooting guard Joe DeMaestri, but if the Hornets intend to go anywhere, they'll need a strong season from junior center Marty Moroski.

The final teams, San Rafael and Drake, are having what are commonly called "building years." The Bulldogs are not that bad- they have the brother combination of Bill and Wayne Lechner to give them some scoring punch - but the Pirates are having things tough.

The tallest man on the San Anselmo school's team is 6-foot-3 sophomore Tom Carlisle, and the only returning letterman is 6-foot forward Jim Forni. Good luck to new coach Bob Fitzhenry.



PARDON ME, PLEASE

Brodie Sums It Up Very Well

NEW YORK (UPI)—John Brodie has been around a while.

Long enough so that he's likely to hit you with a towel if you begin talking about his "Golden Arm," or start selling him some of those cereal flakes about how he's pro football's newest "Golden Boy."

At 35, you're not a boy anymore. Brodie will tell you that himself. Ken Willard, one of his San Francisco teammates, will let you in on somethng else.

"What's all this I'm hearing about John's 'great year'", Willard wantsto know. "He's had six great years, not just one."

John Brodie is coming off an extraordinary year. He has other things going for him besides football. He's set financially, he has a picture golf swing, and he's good looking enough so he'll do OK with those TV commercials, in case the 49ers go all the way.

John Brodie is also bright. To get an idea how bright, you only have to listen to him after the 49ers nailed down one of the NFC's final playoff berths with a 17-14 upset victory over Minnesota Sunday. Brodie was explaining precisely what he thought beat the Vikings. He's so bright it took him only a half dozen words or so to wrap up virtually all the weekend's football activity.

Better yet, John Brodie, in those few words, may have foreshadowed the key to next Sunday's final playoff contests, along with the big one to be played in the Super Bowl at Miami, Jan. 17.

Defense certainly is the name of the game.

Minnesota's front four went in with the big reputation, and the catchy nicknames, and did a fine job. San Francisco's anonymous front four outdid them. But good.

It was the same storyin Dallas Saturday. Dallas quarterback Craig Morton didn't have much of a day, but the Cowboys still grabbed the NFC's other final playoff spot by blanking Detroit, 5-0.

Next Sunday San Francisco goes against Dallas at Kezar Stadium for the NFC title. And Dick Nolan, the 49er coach, gives you an advance tip of what to look for.

"You're going to see two defenses that are very similar," he said.

Oakland meets Baltimore in Baltimre to determine the AFC champion, and the accent will be heavy on defense in this one also.

The eventual Super Bowl winner will receive, among things, a beautiful silver trophy. It has been named the Vince Lombardi Trophy, in memory of the late Green Bay and Washington coach. Everybody knows the phase of the game he always considered the most vital.

If you don't know, ask anybody who ever played for Vince Lombardi. Or ask someone like John Brodie.

He'll tell you, too.

Sharon And Friend Lose, U.S. Falls To England

PERTH, Australia (UPI) — Veterans Virginia Wade and Ann Jones fought off brutal heat and blustery winds Monday to sweep past the inexperienced United States team of Sharon Walsh and Patti Hogan and give Great Britain a 3-0 victory in the semi-finals of the women's Federation Cup tennis matches.

The British team will make its first appearance in the finals since 1967 on Tuesday when it plays the Australian duo of Evonne Goolagong and Margaret Court, who qualified by defeating France.

Golf

NEW YORK (UPI) — The richest professional golf tour in history comprising an expected 63 tournaments worth over $7 million was announced Monday by Joseph C. Dey, Jr., commissioner of the PGA Tournament Players Division.

A total of 63 tournaments are set or under negotiation for this year, as compared to 55 for last season. The total does not include Ryder Cup and World Cup play.

Football

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — When Coach Frank Lauterbur told his Toledo Rockets he was leaving them to take over at Iowa, they took it "like the mature kids they are" and went out to crush William & Mary 40-12 in the Tangerine Bowl Monday night.

"It becomes official today at 8 a.m. — I have nothing to say except that someone jumped the gun on the release" Lauterbur told newsmen, who had been suspecting all week he would succeed Ray Nagel at the Big Ten school.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — If Monday night's Blue-Gray game was the last football contest for Tommy Suggs, the South Carolina quarterback went out in fine style.

The 5-9, 190-pound native of Lamar, S.C., who thinks he is too short to make a professional team, passed for 211 yards and two touchdowns to lead the South to a resounding 38-7 win over the North in the 33rd annual charity game.

Yachting

SYNDEY (UPI) — The 73-foot New Zealand cutter Buccaneer had 20 hours to cover 150 miles Monday to break the course record in the Sydney-Hobart yacht race.

Buccaneer, which made 10 knots for two-thirds of the course, reported it was 85 miles off the Tasmanian coast, making five knots into a light southeasterly.

Buccaneer, sailed by its owner Tom Clarke, is certain to take line honors. It is the world's largest plywood-hulled yacht and the biggest yacht to race in the Sydney-Hobart race.

Baseball

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs Monday gave outfielder Tommy Davis, acquired to aid their futile pennant bid in September, his unconditional release.

Davis came to the Cubs Sept. 16 from the Oakland Athletics and hit .262 in 11 games with the Cubs. His release cut the Cubs roster to 36, four under the maximum.

Davis broke into baseball in 1960 with the Los Angeles Dodgers and later played for the New York Mets, Chicago White Sox, Seattle Pilots and the Houston Astros before going to Oakland.

Stanford Footballers Behind Closed Doors

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —Coach John Ralston and his Stanford football team suddenly went into hiding Monday in preparation for their Rose Bowl game New Year's day against Ohio State.

The Indians had been working out in public on the field of Cal State Long Beach but Ralston, without advance notice, drilled the squad at a secret location Monday and said he would do the same thing today and Wednesday.

The Indian coach reported he worked the team one hour and 35 minutes Monday in full gear.

"We worked on our passing game against the expected Ohio State secondary defense and we worked on our goal line offense," he said succinctly.

Up until Monday, Ralston took the attitude that he had nothing to hide since the teams had exchanged films on all 11 games played during the regular season.

The coach also reported that right linebacker Mike Simone is definitely out of the Rose Bowl game. Simone twisted his right ankle in the California game, then retwisted it in practice at Stanford. He will be replaced by Dennis Moore.

Tough Teams In Marin Prep League

By DAVID EINSTEIN

The preseason is nearly at a close for Marin County Athletic League basketball teams, and some concrete evaluations can be made now, before the start of the regular league season Jan. 8.

There is no doubt, in the wake of tournament wins by Tamalpais, Redwood and Marin Catholic, that the MCAL is as tough this year as any league in the Bay area. Testimony toward that comes from the coaches poll of the top teams, which last week rated Tam seventh and Redwood 17th.

Tam, now as before the season started, is the favorite to win the MCAL title. The Indians of Mill Valley have everything-height, speed and a couple of superstars. In six-foot-three center Will Garner they have one of the top players in Northern California. College of Marin coach John Panagakis has said Garner, a junior transfer from Texas, could play for his team right now.

Then there is John Earl Huff, the Indians' playmaking guard who led them to the championship at the Redwood Empire torunament in Healdsburg. He can shoot from outside, drive, and, best of all, has the knack for making the big play.

Yet for all their talent, the Tam Indians can no longer be considered a shoe-in for the MCAL crown. At least three teams have a good shot at knocking them off, and one, Redwood, is a definite threat to win it all.

The Giants started slowly, losing four of their first six games. But one of their victories came against then No. 1 rated Berkeley, and last week the Larskpur team reeled off three straight wins to capture the Yuba City tournament.

Among the Giants' stars so far, the brightest by far has been 6-foot-6 forward Scott Trobbe, the team's sixth man last year. He has been scoring at a torrid pace, and was named to the all-tourney teams both at the McClane Invitational in Fresno and in Yuba. His 83 points in three games at Fresno fell one shy of the tournament record.

Center Steve McGee, the only returning starter on the club, has yet to reach his stride, but he was good enough in Yuba to make the all-tourney squad with Trobbe. McGee, at 6-foot-6, Trobbe, and 6-foot-5 forward Dave Tikker give the Giants the tallest front line in the MCAL, and one of the best.

The other tournament winner, Marin Catholic, has been a real pleasant surprise. The Wildcats, who finished last in the MCAL in 1970, have proven, by winning the Rose City Tournament and then beating Lowell of San Francisco, that they can play with almost any team in the area.

But more important, and most depressing for other coaches, is the fact that four of the Wildcats' five starters are juniors! Only Bill Donellan, the team's leading scorer, will be graduated this year. The others are Austin Sullivan, Tim Stone, Mike Hurley and Steve Vanni. Coach Dave Hennessy went with these players as sophomores last year, and now he's beginning to reap the rewards.

Another team that conceivably could win the crown is Terra Linda. The Trojans, who finished third in the Drake tourney, do not possess outstanding height, but they do have a real fine shooter in Joe Casteel, and what might be the league's most tenacious defense.

Larry Kerr, Bill Berry and Gordon Walker are quick, experienced defenders, who can force the best team into turnovers. When Casteel is hot, and the defense is working, Terra Linda is tough.

Two MCAL teams, San Marin and Novato, have been mysterious so far. Each has had brilliant games-San Marin scored 95 points against an outfit from Santa Cruz, and Novato beat Drake tourney winner Petaluma- and each has an all-leaguer, but both have suffered from terrible inconsistency.

San Marin's outstanding center, 6-foot-8 Dana LaFerriere, will need help, but it's hard to say where it can come from. One possibility is sophomore Hoza Wright, who has shown some excellent moves; but he needs experience.

Novato has gotten outstanding performances from hot shooting guard Joe DeMaestri, but if the Hornets intend to go anywhere, they'll need a strong season from junior center Marty Moroski.

The final teams, San Rafael and Drake, are having what are commonly called "building years." The Bulldogs are not that bad- they have the brother combination of Bill and Wayne Lechner to give them some scoring punch - but the Pirates are having things tough.

The tallest man on the San Anselmo school's team is 6-foot-3 sophomore Tom Carlisle, and the only returning letterman is 6-foot forward Jim Forni. Good luck to new coach Bob Fitzhenry.

DEFENSE

Brodie Sums It Up Very Well

Long enough so that he's likely to hit you with a towel if you begin talking about his "Golden Arm," or start selling him some of those cereal flakes about how he's pro football's newest "Golden Boy."

At 35, you're not a boy anymore. Brodie will tell you that himself. Ken Willard, one of his San Francisco teammates, will let you in on something else.

"What's all this I'm hearing about John's 'great year' ", Willard wantsto know. "He's had six great years, not just one."

John Brodie is coming off an extraordinary year. He has other things going for him besides football. He's set financially, he has a picture golf swing, and he's good looking enough so he'll do OK with those TV commercials, in case the 49ers go all the way.

John Brodie is also bright. To get an idea how bright, you only have to listen to him after the 49ers nailed down one of the NFC's final playoff berths with a 17-14 upset victory over Minnesota Sunday. Brodie was explaining precisely what he thought beat the Vikings. He's so bright it took him only a half dozen words or so to wrap up virtually all the weekend's football activity.

Better yet, John Brodie, in those few words, may have foreshadowed the key to next Sunday's final playoff contests, along with the big one to be played in the Super Bowl at Miami, Jan. 17.

Defense certainly is the name of the game.

Minnesota's front four went in with the big reputation, and the catchy nicknames, and did a fine job. San Francisco's anonymous front four outdid them. But good.

It was the same storyin Dallas Saturday. Dallas quarterback Craig Morton didn't have much of a day, but the Cowboys still grabbed the NFC's other final playoff spot by blanking Detroit, 5-0.

Next Sunday San Francisco goes against Dallas at Kezar Stadium for the NFC title. And Dick Nolan, the 49er coach, gives you an advance tip of what to look for.

"You're going to see two defenses that are very similar," he said.

Oakland meets Baltimore in Baltimre to determine the AFC champion, and the accent will be heavy on defense in this one also.

The eventual Super Bowl winner will receive, among things, a beautiful silver trophy. It has been named the Vince Lombardi Trophy, in memory of the late Green Bay and Washington coach. Everybody knows the phase of the game he always considered the most vital.

If you don't know, ask anybody who ever played for Vince Lombardi. Or ask someone like John Brodie.

He'll tell you, too.

Sharon And Friend Lose, U.S. Falls To England

PERTH, Australia (UPI) — Veterans Virginia Wade and Ann Jones fought off brutal heat and blustery winds Monday to sweep past the inexperienced United States team of Sharon Walsh and Patti Hogan and give Great Britain a 3-0 victory in the semi-finals of the women's Federation Cup tennis matches.

The British team will make its first appearance in the finals since 1967 on Tuesday when it plays the Australian duo of Evonne Goolagong and Margaret Court, who qualified by defeating France.

Golf

NEW YORK (UPI) — The richest professional golf tour in history comprising an expected 63 tournaments worth over $7 million was announced Monday by Joseph C. Dey, Jr., commissioner of the PGA Tournament Players Division.

A total of 63 tournaments are set or under negotiation for this year, as compared to 55 for last season. The total does not include Ryder Cup and World Cup play.

Football

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — When Coach Frank Lauterbur told his Toledo Rockets he was leaving them to take over at Iowa, they took it "like the mature kids they are" and went out to crush William & Mary 40-12 in the Tangerine Bowl Monday night.

"It becomes official today at 8 a.m. — I have nothing to say except that someone jumped the gun on the release" Lauterbur told newsmen, who had been suspecting all week he would succeed Ray Nagel at the Big Ten school.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — If Monday night's Blue-Gray game was the last football contest for Tommy Suggs, the South Carolina quarterback went out in fine style.

The 5-9, 190-pound native of Lamar, S.C., who thinks he is too short to make a professional team, passed for 211 yards and two touchdowns to lead the South to a resounding 38-7 win over the North in the 33rd annual charity game.

Yachting

SYNDEY (UPI) — The 73-foot New Zealand cutter Buccaneer had 20 hours to cover 150 miles Monday to break the course record in the Sydney-Hobart yacht race.

Buccaneer, which made 10 knots for two-thirds of the course, reported it was 85 miles off the Tasmanian coast, making five knots into a light southeasterly.

Buccaneer, sailed by its owner Tom Clarke, is certain to take line honors. It is the world's largest plywood-hulled yacht and the biggest yacht to race in the Sydney-Hobart race.

Baseball

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs Monday gave outfielder Tommy Davis, acquired to aid their futile pennant bid in September, his unconditional release.

Davis came to the Cubs Sept. 16 from the Oakland Athletics and hit .262 in 11 games with the Cubs. His release cut the Cubs' roster to 36, four under the maximum.

Davis broke into baseball in 1960 with the Los Angeles Dodgers and later played for the New York Mets, Chicago White Sox, Seattle Pilots and the Houston Astros before going to Oakland.

Christmas Presents That Wiggle, Crawl

By AL GIDDINGS

Cold, wind, and rain! What a weekend! But everybody didn't stay home. I was having Christmas dinner about 6 p.m. when I heard a knock on the door. There stood a fellow —no, not Santa Claus — with a bag of live ghost shrimp in his hand. The young fellow said he reads the column, so knowing I like ghost shrimp (for bait) decided to dig me 50 for Christmas. I hope the rest of you hardy diggers take note!

Then another young fellow came by to learn the art of tying a wire leader to a 5/0 hook to be used for sturgeon. He was going digging, so some way or another, he was convinced that he should also bring some shrimp by too. Who says there is no Santa Clause?

AND SPEAKING of Christmas, my wife Mary gave me a new Leopold 2-1/2 to 7 power scope. After 24 years, I guess I should replace the old 2-1/2 power Lyman Alaskan All Weather scope that has been so good. And another lady came by with some real Mexican Tamales — "Just to warm you up if you get cold these days", she said.

A few other people came by with warmer-uppers too but that's another story. Anyway it was a fine Christmas! Oh, I got Mary a fitting gift. She hasn't been keeping up in hiking, etc. being somewhat anchored at the post office where she works. So I thought a bicycle would keep her in shape. Yesterday, she bought some winter undies, gloves, and a knit hat just to go with the bike. She'll never get rugged that way!

ON MY ROUNDS, I checked the anglers at White House Pool. There are about 10 San Rafael anglers who are there wind, rain or snow. They catch a fish now and then, but things have been slow. I saw Milton Hain of San Rafael; he hasn't caught a fish this year. He's a top angler holding the California record for silver salmon with a 22-pounder he caught at Papermill, so it must be tough.

One angler, a stranger from Vallejo came over, used fresh roe and took a limit of steelheads weighing; seven, six and three pounds. He fished the willows above the bridge.

On fishing Tomales — it's just too cold out there in a boat trying for stripers.

I STOPPED at Al's Mobil Station at Santa Venetia to wish Joe Mello a Merry Christmas. He said it was a slow week but gave me this rundown. He and his wife, Molly, were out once this week taking a 20 and a six-pounder. Ernie Eddings and a small party took three sturgeon out by the pumphouse. Now, if you know Ernie, he has some secret for keeping warm. Give him a call at Buck's Landing for the fishing dope, and be sure and ask him about the type heater he uses!

The Papermill Creek salmon run has been a small one, but I saw seven spawners in a block area, so let's hope that's a sign that enough fish got up to spawn.

EVERYONE HAS generally learned over the past years the value of these spawning fish. They're not edible, being almost dead from fungus and the rigors of reaching the spawning beds. The other day, big as life, at the Lagunitas Inkwells, a young fellow was attempting to spear a fish. I walked down, but that man, at the risk of his neck, ran across the water district pipes almost 40 feet over the rocks.

Perfection Is Name For Texas

Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian has been the one doing the looking lately, and is currently expounding on perfection as presented by the Wishbone-T offense he will face Friday in the 35th Cotton Bowl game.

First of all he finds no reason to be coy when asked his impressions of the University of Texas offense —the nation's No. 1 point producer in 1970.

"They have won 30 games in a row," he says. "That speaks for itself."

But Parseghian is a bit of a philosopher in his middle age, and philosophers don't stop short at expressing themselves in a dozen words.

Parseghian looks upon the Wishbone-T as created and refined by Darrell Royal and his Texas coaching staff as a sort of ultimate weapon, which with flawless execution is almost impossible to stop. The only way to beat Texas, he figures, is with a high gear offense that can score a lot of points itself.

"You have to face that reality when you play Texas." Parseghian said. "We faced it last year in preparing for them, and we have faced it in preparation for this game.

"Teams have tried a variety of defenses against Texas, but nobody has stopped the wishbone. They have gained an average of more than 300 yards on the ground, they have scored more points than any other team in the country this year."

And the Wishbone-T Notre Dame will face Friday will not be the same one it faced a year ago.

"Texas has been changing in their blocking patterns that we, as coaches, see. They run a little draw play now and then that they did not do last year, and they have a little off-tackle action.

"When we change our offense we use different formations and put in a whole lot of new plays. When Texas changes its offense they just change a blocking pattern."

Tars Open Loop Play On Jan. 6

In yesterday's Independent-Journal it was incorrectly reported that the College of Marin Tars open their Camino Norte Conference basketball season next Tuesday night at Aptos against Cabrillo Junior College.

Actually, the Tars play Cabrillo Saturday night in a non-league game, and open their league campaign the following Wednesday night, Jan. 6, at 8 O'clock against Skyline College in San Bruno.

Stanford Footballers Behind Closed Doors

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —Coach John Ralston and his Stanford football team suddenly went into hiding Monday in preparation for their Rose Bowl game New Year's day against Ohio State.

The Indians had been working out in public on the field of Cal State Long Beach but Ralston, without advance notice, drilled the squad at a secret location Monday and said he would do the same thing today and Wednesday.

The Indian coach reported he worked the team one hour and 35 minutes Monday in full gear.

"We worked on our passing game against the expected Ohio State secondary defense and we worked on our goal line offense," he said succinctly.

Up until Monday, Ralston took the attitude that he had nothing to hide since the teams had exchanged films on all 11 games played during the regular season.

The coach also reported that right linebacker Mike Simone is definitely out of the Rose Bowl game. Simone twisted his right ankle in the California game, then retwisted it in practice at Stanford. He will be replaced by Dennis Moore.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

Brodie Sums It Up Very Well

Long enough so that he's likely to hit you with a towel if you begin talking about his "Golden Arm," or start selling him some of those cereal flakes about how he's pro football's newest "Golden Boy."

At 35, you're not a boy anymore. Brodie will tell you that himself. Ken Willard, one of his San Francisco teammates, will let you in on something else.

"What's all this I'm hearing about John's 'great year' ", Willard wantsto know. "He's had six great years, not just one."

John Brodie is coming off an extraordinary year. He has other things going for him besides football. He's set financially, he has a picture golf swing, and he's good looking enough so he'll do OK with those TV commercials, in case the 49ers go all the way.

John Brodie is also bright. To get an idea how bright, you only have to listen to him after the 49ers nailed down one of the NFC's final playoff berths with a 17-14 upset victory over Minnesota Sunday. Brodie was explaining precisely what he thought beat the Vikings. He's so bright it took him only a half dozen words or so to wrap up virtually all the weekend's football activity.

Better yet, John Brodie, in those few words, may have foreshadowed the key to next Sunday's final playoff contests, along with the big one to be played in the Super Bowl at Miami, Jan. 17.

Minnesota's front four went in with the big reputation, and the catchy nicknames, and did a fine job. San Francisco's anonymous front four outdid them. But good.

It was the same storyin Dallas Saturday. Dallas quarterback Craig Morton didn't have much of a day, but the Cowboys still grabbed the NFC's other final playoff spot by blanking Detroit, 5-0.

Next Sunday San Francisco goes against Dallas at Kezar Stadium for the NFC title. And Dick Nolan, the 49er coach, gives you an advance tip of what to look for.

"You're going to see two defenses that are very similar," he said.

Oakland meets Baltimore in Baltimre to determine the AFC champion, and the accent will be heavy on defense in this one also.

The eventual Super Bowl winner will receive, among things, a beautiful silver trophy. It has been named the Vince Lombardi Trophy, in memory of the late Green Bay and Washington coach. Everybody knows the phase of the game he always considered the most vital.

If you don't know, ask anybody who ever played for Vince Lombardi. Or ask someone like John Brodie.

He'll tell you, too.

EDUCATION BY UMBRELLA

This umbrella-like communications satellite will provide India's first educational television, among other services, when it is launched by Honeywell Controls in 1973. A four-foot cube of instruments is mounted at the base of the 19-foot radar dish and power is supplied by two solar panels suspended above and to either side of the umbrella.

Stocks Up In Brisk Trading

After more than three hours, Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 0.40 at 91.49; the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips showed a gain of more than 4 points at 834.95; and advances were leading declines, 927 to 386, on 1,603 issues crossing the tape.

Volume at 1 p.m. amounted to 9,680,000 shares, versus 7,530,00 shares traded at a comparable period on Monday.

Among the day's most heavily traded issues were Sperry Rand, up ⅞ on 265,500 shares; RCA down ½ on 180,800 shares; Penn-Dixie Cement up ⅛ on 113,500 shares; Rohm & Haas down ⅞ on 105,000 shares; and Teledyne 1⅛ higher on 103,500 shares.

Less active Walt Disney climbed 3 points, while issues up a point or better included Walter Kidde, Eastman Kodak and Natomas.

Fractionally higher were Burroughs, Honeywell, Control Data, Ling-Temco, U.S. Steel, Chrysler, Ford, General Motors, Dow Chemical, Standard Oil of Ohio, and Standard of California.

McIntyre Porcupine, a gold mining issue, surrendered more than 2. Gold Stocks normally run counter to the market's trend.

White Front Deal

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Esgro, Inc., has entered an arrangement to operate franchised interior decorating departments in the outlets of White Front Stores, Inc. Esgro expects to generate sales of $15 million to $20 million from the departments.

New Developments Enhance Husky Oil

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you please comment on Husky Oil? — A. B.

A. Husky Oil has attracted some attention lately due largely to three rather encouraging developments. First, company reported an earnings turnaround in the third quarter which brought profits ahead to a record 41 cents a share - a 25 per cent advance.

The gain, which largely offset unfavorable first-half comparisons, may be attributed to improfitability in the refining/marketing end of the business and to the soaring demand for Husky's blended Lloydminster crude. Moreover, it appears that this turn-for-the-better may be extended.

Husky plans to acquire a stake in 61 wells in Wyoming's prolific Hilight field which represents roughly a 3,400 barrel per day addition to production and a 34-40 cent per barrel hike in the price of its Lloydminster crude. If all of this is brought down to net, the increase could boost cash flow by as much as 40 cents per share.

Although trading in the issue has been moderate, these bullish news items could stir up renewed interest and activity in Husky shares.

Q. I purchased $45,000 U. S. Treasury 7 3/4 per cent notes due in 1977 on original issue in August. They are currently being quoted at over 108, which means I can get at least $1080 per $1000 face value note. Who would buy a note at this price when it yields only 6.1 per cent held to maturity? — L.M.

A. If a potential buyer is convinced that interest rates are going to decline further, then your note, carrying a 7 3/4 per cent coupon, for a 7.2 per cent current yield, is not an unwise investment. Additional income received during the 6 1/2 years remaining prior to maturity will offset the capital loss incurred at that time. Since August, two factors, the government's policy of increasing the money supply and a slight easing in demand, have combined to reduce interest rates dramatically. Existing debt issues bearing higher coupon rates are consequently bid-up to the point where return is consistent with the going rates. It is a simple matter of balance by supply and demand.

Sales Decline At Electronics Firm

SANTA CLARA (BW) — Sales of $19,722,000 for the first fiscal half of 1971 have been announced by National Semiconductor Corp.

Net earnings after taxes were $356,000, or 22 cents per share. These results compare with sales of $20,657,000 and net earnings after taxes of $679,000 in the same 28-week period of the previous fiscal year.

Expansion Now Under Way At Tamalpais Pet Hospital

New construction now under way at the rear of the Tamalpais Pet Hospital at 691 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, will provide new and improved facilities for animal care.

The additional 800 square feet involved will result in a new laboratory, new treatment roomand two new examination rooms. Construction is being performed by William R. McDevitt and Co.

Tamalpais Pet Hospital is not the largest veterinary facility in the county, but it probably has the largest staff. It was opened in 1961 with two veterinarians - and now has five.

TRIFLES AND TREASURES, formerly at 709 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo, has a new address. The De Lews have moved their shop to 305 Montecito Drive in Corte Madera - much closer to their home.

WILLIAM K. KITCHIN of Santa Venetia has been appointed executive director of the California Optometric Association. He has had more than nine years of association management work and was formerly secretary of the Canners League of California in San Francisco.

Kitchin Alexander

H. M. (MURRAY) ALEXANDER of San Rafael has been appointed resident vice president and manager of the Oakland branch office of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies. He joined the organization as a causality manager underwriter in 1946 and has been assistant vice president and casualty manager at both Dallas and Newark, N.J. Recently he has been on the home office property-casualty department staff. He plans to continue living in San Rafael.

Robert H. Luchese of Novato has been appointed administrative officer at Fireman's Fund's new office in New York. He has been in the insurance field since 1944 and joined Fireman's Fund in 1951. Recently he has been assistant controller at the San Francisco home office.

PHILIP S. EHRLICH JR. of Belvedere, partner in the law firm of Ehrlich and Allison, has been named a director of Stecher-Traung-Schmidt Corp., San Francisco-based printing and lithography firm. He has been in practice in San Francisco since 1949 and is active in many Bay Area civic and community affairs.

MORE THAN 10,000 franchised car and truck dealers, manufacturers and allied industry representatives are expected to attend the 1971 convention and exposition of the National Automobile Dealers Association Jan. 16 - 20 in San Francisco.

The event will be held in the San Francisco Civic Auditorium. Highlights will be a series of special interest workshops, a general industry session and an exhibition of the latest in automovtive equipment and supplies by more than 125 firms.

Registration will open at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 16, in the main lobby of the auditorium. Exposition hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day through Tuesday, Jan. 19, in Brooks and Polk Halls.

REAL ESTATE: Henry L. Hicks and Associates, Novato has joined the American Institute of Marketing Systems, Inc., which features a nationwide referral program of home merchandising and family relocation services.

EDUCATION BY UMBRELLA

This umbrella-like communications satellite will provide India's first educational television, among other services, when it is launched by Honeywell Controls in 1973. A four-foot cube of instruments is mounted at the base of the 19-foot radar dish and power is supplied by two solar panels suspended above and to either side of the umbrella.

Stocks Up In Brisk Trading

After more than three hours, Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 0.40 at 91.49; the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips showed a gain of more than 4 points at 834.95, and advances were leading declines, 927 to 386, on 1,603 issues crossing the tape.

Volume at 1 p.m. amounted to 9,680,000 shares, versus 7,530,00 shares traded at a comparable period on Monday.

Among the day's most heavily traded issues were Sperry Rand, up ⅞ on 265,500 shares, RCA down ½ on 180,800 shares, Penn-Dixie Cement up ⅛ on 113,500 shares, Rohm & Haas down ⅞ on 105,000 shares, and Teledyne 1⅛ higher on 103,500 shares.

Less active Walt Disney climbed 3 points, while issues up a point or better included Walter Kidde, Eastman Kodak and Natomas.

Fractionally higher were Burroughs, Honeywell, Control Data, Ling-Temco, U.S. Steel, Chrysler, Ford, General Motors, Dow Chemical, Standard Oil of Ohio, and Standard of California.

McIntyre Porcupine, a gold mining issue, surrendered more than 2. Gold Stocks normally run counter to the market's trend.

White Front Deal

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Esgro, Inc., has entered an arrangement to operate franchised interior decorating departments in the outlets of White Front Stores, Inc. Esgro expects to generate sales of $15 million to $20 million from the departments.

New Developments Enhance Husky Oil

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you please comment on Husky Oil? — A. B.

A. Husky Oil has attracted some attention lately due largely to three rather encouraging developments. First, company reported an earnings turnaround in the third quarter which brought profits ahead to a record 41 cents a share - a 25 per cent advance.

The gain, which largely offset unfavorable first-half comparisons, may be attributed to improfitability in the refining/marketing end of the business and to the soaring demand for Husky's blended Lloydminster crude. Moreover, it appears that this turn-for-the-better may be extended.

Husky plans to acquire a stake in 61 wells in Wyoming's prolific Hilight field which represents roughly a 3,400 barrel per day addition to production and a 34-40 cent per barrel hike in the price of its Lloydminster crude. If all of this is brought down to net, the increase could boost cash flow by as much as 40 cents per share.

Although trading in the issue has been moderate, these bullish news items could stir up renewed interest and activity in Husky shares.

Q. I purchased $45,000 U. S. Treasury 7 3/4 per cent notes due in 1977 on original issue in August. They are currently being quoted at over 108, which means I can get at least $1080 per $1000 face value note. Who would buy a note at this price when it yields only 6.1 per cent held to maturity? — L.M.

A. If a potential buyer is convinced that interest rates are going to decline further, then your note, carrying a 7 3/4 per cent coupon, for a 7.2 per cent current yield, is not an unwise investment. Additional income received during the 6 1/2 years remaining prior to maturity will offset the capital loss incurred at that time. Since August, two factors, the government's policy of increasing the money supply and a slight easing in demand, have combined to reduce interest rates dramatically. Existing debt issues bearing higher coupon rates are consequently bid-up to the point where return is consistent with the going rates. It is a simple matter of balance by supply and demand.

Sales Decline At Electronics Firm

SANTA CLARA (BW) — Sales of $19,722,000 for the first fiscal half of 1971 have been announced by National Semiconductor Corp.

Net earnings after taxes were $356,000, or 22 cents per share. These results compare with sales of $20,657,000 and net earnings after taxes of $679,000 in the same 28-week period of the previous fiscal year.

Expansion Now Under Way At Tamalpais Pet Hospital

New construction now under way at the rear of the Tamalpais Pet Hospital at 691 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, will provide new and improved facilities for animal care.

The additional 800 square feet involved will result in a new laboratory, new treatment roomand two new examination rooms. Construction is being performed by William R. McDevitt and Co.

Tamalpais Pet Hospital is not the largest veterinary facility in the county, but it probably has the largest staff. It was opened in 1961 with two veterinarians - and now has five.

TRIFLES AND TREASURES, formerly at 709 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo, has a new address. The De Lews have moved their shop to 305 Montecito Drive in Corte Madera - much closer to their home.

WILLIAM K. KITCHIN of Santa Venetia has been appointed executive director of the California Optometric Association. He has had more than nine years of association management work and was formerly secretary of the Canners League of California in San Francisco.

Kitchin Alexander

H. M. (MURRAY) ALEXANDER of San Rafael has been appointed resident vice president and manager of the Oakland branch office of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies. He joined the organization as a causalty manager underwriter in 1946 and has been assistant vice president and casualty manager at both Dallas and Newark, N.J. Recently he has been on the home office property-casualty department staff. He plans to continue living in San Rafael.

Robert H. Luchese of Novato has been appointed administrative officer at Fireman's Fund's new office in New York. He has been in the insurance field since 1944 and joined Fireman's Fund in 1951. Recently he has been assistant controller at the San Francisco home office.

PHILIP S. EHRLICH JR. of Belvedere, partner in the law firm of Ehrlich and Allison, has been named a director of Stecher-Traung-Schmidt Corp., San Francisco-based printing and lithography firm. He has been in practice in San Francisco since 1949 and is active in many Bay Area civic and community affairs.

MORE THAN 10,000 franchised car and truck dealers, manufacturers and allied industry representatives are expected to attend the 1971 convention and exposition of the National Automobile Dealers Association Jan. 16 - 20 in San Francisco.

The event will be held in the San Francisco Civic Auditorium. Highlights will be a series of special interest workshops, a general industry session and an exhibition of the latest in automovtive equipment and supplies by more than 125 firms.

Registration will open at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 16, in the main lobby of the auditorium. Exposition hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day through Tuesday, Jan. 19, in Brooks and Polk Halls.

REAL ESTATE: Henry L. Hicks and Associates, Novato has joined the American Institute of Marketing Systems, Inc., which features a nationwide referral program of home merchandising and family relocation services.

EDUCATION BY UMBRELLA

This umbrella-like communications satellite will provide India's first educational television, among other services, when it is launched by Honeywell Controls in 1973. A four-foot cube of instruments is mounted at the base of the 19-foot radar dish and power is supplied by two solar panels suspended above and to either side of the umbrella.

Stocks Up In Brisk Trading

After more than three hours, Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 0.40 at 91.49; the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips showed a gain of more than 4 points at 834.95; and advances were leading declines, 927 to 386, on 1,603 issues crossing the tape.

Volume at 1 p.m. amounted to 9,680,000 shares, versus 7,530,00 shares traded at a comparable period on Monday.

Among the day's most heavily traded issues were Sperry Rand, up ⅞ on 265,500 shares, RCA down ½ on 180,800 shares, Penn-Dixie Cement up ⅛ on 113,500 shares, Rohm & Haas down ⅞ on 105,000 shares, and Teledyne 1⅛ higher on 103,500 shares.

Less active Walt Disney climbed 3 points, while issues up a point or better included Walter Kidde, Eastman Kodak and Natomas.

Fractionally higher were Burroughs, Honeywell, Control Data, Ling-Temco, U.S. Steel, Chrysler, Ford, General Motors, Dow Chemical, Standard Oil of Ohio, and Standard of California.

McIntyre Porcupine, a gold mining issue, surrendered more than 2. Gold Stocks normally run counter to the market's trend.

White Front Deal

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Esgro, Inc., has entered an arrangement to operate franchised interior decorating departments in the outlets of White Front Stores, Inc. Esgro expects to generate sales of $15 million to $20 million from the departments.

New Developments Enhance Husky Oil

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you please comment on Husky Oil? — A. B.

A. Husky Oil has attracted some attention lately due largely to three rather encouraging developments. First, company reported an earnings turnaround in the third quarter which brought profits ahead to a record 41 cents a share - a 25 per cent advance.

The gain, which largely offset unfavorable first-half comparisons, may be attributed to improfitability in the refining/marketing end of the business and to the soaring demand for Husky's blended Lloydminster crude. Moreover, it appears that this turn-for-the-better may be extended.

Husky plans to acquire a stake in 61 wells in Wyoming's prolific Hilight field which represents roughly a 3,400 barrel per day addition to production and a 34-40 cent per barrel hike in the price of its Lloydminster crude. If all of this is brought down to net, the increase could boost cash flow by as much as 40 cents per share.

Although trading in the issue has been moderate, these bullish news items could stir up renewed interest and activity in Husky shares.

Q. I purchased $45,000 U. S. Treasury 7 3/4 per cent notes due in 1977 on original issue in August. They are currently being quoted at over 108, which means I can get at least $1080 per $1000 face value note. Who would buy a note at this price when it yields only 6.1 per cent held to maturity? — L.M.

A. If a potential buyer is convinced that interest rates are going to decline further, then your note, carrying a 7 3/4 per cent coupon, for a 7.2 per cent current yield, is not an unwise investment. Additional income received during the 6 1/2 years remaining prior to maturity will offset the capital loss incurred at that time. Since August, two factors, the government's policy of increasing the money supply and a slight easing in demand, have combined to reduce interest rates dramatically. Existing debt issues bearing higher coupon rates are consequently bid-up to the point where return is consistent with the going rates. It is a simple matter of balance by supply and demand.

Sales Decline At Electronics Firm

SANTA CLARA (BW) — Sales of $19,722,000 for the first fiscal half of 1971 have been announced by National Semiconductor Corp.

Net earnings after taxes were $356,000, or 22 cents per share. These results compare with sales of $20,657,000 and net earnings after taxes of $679,000 in the same 28-week period of the previous fiscal year.

Expansion Now Under Way At Tamalpais Pet Hospital

New construction now under way at the rear of the Tamalpais Pet Hospital at 691 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, will provide new and improved facilities for animal care.

The additional 800 square feet involved will result in a new laboratory, new treatment roomand two new examination rooms. Construction is being performed by William R. McDevitt and Co.

Tamalpais Pet Hospital is not the largest veterinary facility in the county, but it probably has the largest staff. It was opened in 1961 with two veterinarians - and now has five.

TRIFLES AND TREASURES, formerly at 709 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo, has a new address. The De Lews have moved their shop to 305 Montecito Drive in Corte Madera - much closer to their home.

WILLIAM K. KITCHIN of Santa Venetia has been appointed executive director of the California Optometric Association. He has had more than nine years of association management work and was formerly secretary of the Canners League of California in San Francisco.

Kitchin Alexander

H. M. (MURRAY) ALEXANDER of San Rafael has been appointed resident vice president and manager of the Oakland branch office of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies. He joined the organization as a causalty manager underwriter in 1946 and has been assistant vice president and casualty manager at both Dallas and Newark, N.J. Recently he has been on the home office property-casualty department staff. He plans to continue living in San Rafael.

Robert H. Luchese of Novato has been appointed administrative officer at Fireman's Fund's new office in New York. He has been in the insurance field since 1944 and joined Fireman's Fund in 1951. Recently he has been assistant controller at the San Francisco home office.

PHILIP S. EHRLICH JR. of Belvedere, partner in the law firm of Ehrlich and Allison, has been named a director of Stecher-Traung-Schmidt Corp., San Francisco-based printing and lithography firm. He has been in practice in San Francisco since 1949 and is active in many Bay Area civic and community affairs.

MORE THAN 10,000 franchised car and truck dealers, manufacturers and allied industry representatives are expected to attend the 1971 convention and exposition of the National Automobile Dealers Association Jan. 16 - 20 in San Francisco.

The event will be held in the San Francisco Civic Auditorium. Highlights will be a series of special interest workshops, a general industry session and an exhibition of the latest in automovtive equipment and supplies by more than 125 firms.

Registration will open at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 16, in the main lobby of the auditorium. Exposition hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day through Tuesday, Jan. 19, in Brooks and Polk Halls.

REAL ESTATE: Henry L. Hicks and Associates, Novato has joined the American Institute of Marketing Systems, Inc., which features a nationwide referral program of home merchandising and family relocation services.

Great Western Savings

Santa Rosa Savings and Great Western Savings—both members of Great Western Financial Corporation's statewide system of insured savings associations—have joined forces and adopted our family name of Great Western Savings and Loan Association.

We have also been joined by Equitable Savings in both Northern and Southern California, making this the largest consolidation of strength in savings and loan history.

Our total strength now exceeds $2.9 Billion. And our network of 50 regional offices extends nearly 600 miles from Lake County in Northern California to Orange County in Southern California.

Although we have changed our name and increased our strength there will be no change in the friendly, personal service that has been the policy of Santa Rosa Savings since our founding in 1888. All of our managers, tellers and counselors are still here to continue serving you.

More than ever, we're proud to say, we offer you the very most for your savings. Complete safety--the safety of insured savings backed by great strength. Plus the highest earnings—now the highest ever paid on insured savings.

In fact, no other type of financial institution or investment can offer you so much with the complete safety of insured savings and great strength.

Our new Great Western Savings signs are now going up at all four Santa Rosa Savings offices. We're celebrating. And you're invited. We have special free gifts for you. And plenty of refreshments.

So come to where the strength is. And the highest earnings. Come to the new Great Western Savings...in Santa Rosa, Novato, Sonoma and Lakeport.

Great Western Savings and Loan Association

Great Western Savings

Santa Rosa Savings and Great Western Savings—both members of Great Western Financial Corporation's statewide system of insured savings associations—have joined forces and adopted our family name of Great Western Savings and Loan Association.

We have also been joined by Equitable Savings in both Northern and Southern California, making this the largest consolidation of strength in savings and loan history.

Our total strength now exceeds $2.9 Billion. And our network of 50 regional offices extends nearly 600 miles from Lake County in Northern California to Orange County in Southern California.

Although we have changed our name and increased our strength there will be no change in the friendly, personal service that has been the policy of Santa Rosa Savings since our founding in 1888. All of our managers, tellers and counselors are still here to continue serving you.

More than ever, we're proud to say, we offer you the very most for your savings. Complete safety--the safety of insured savings backed by great strength. Plus the highest earnings—now the highest ever paid on insured savings.
